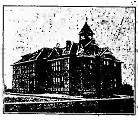
The High School Building.

The addition to the south side building is now completed, and this week will find the different departments comfortably located in it.

The entire upper floor is taken up by the high school. This consists of an assembly room having seating capacity of one hundred twenty-five; opening from this is a recitation room seated with twenty opera chairs with folding table arms; adjoining this is the superintendent's office, and opening from this is the physical laboratory, fully equipped with all necessary apparatus for teaching first year physics. Opening from the main hall at the head of south stairs is the library containing two hundred sixty-two volumes aside from the free text books. The number of books in the general library, for reference and instructive reading, is not sufficient for the demands of a school of this class and is not in harmony with the well equipped physical laboratory. There is no reason why the library should not be well fitted when we take into consideration the generosity of the state to all schools wanting to increase their libraries. On the lower floor there are two well lighted and nicely arranged class rooms with a seating capacity of fifty-five each.



There is a total enrollment of about six hundred pupils, forty-five of whom are doing high school work. There are but three years of the four years' course running, but by another year when the fourth years' work will have been completed, there will be an enrollment of seventy in this department.

As A. W. Rankin says "There is no reason why Red Lake Falls should not have one of the best high schools in the state." From present indications we will have it.

Diphtheria in Crookston.

For some time the reports that diphtheria was prevalent in Crookston have aroused the apprehensions of our people, but not until Monday did the fact strike home, when word was received to the effect that Bertie Dargan the eldest son of Wm. J. Dargan, an old resident of this city, had died of the disease. Mr. Dargan's many friends here will deplore the terrible loss of his bright and promising little son, on whom he had builded so much. Only a short time ago Mr. Dargan was called upon to mourn the loss of his wife, and now the child has gone to join its mother.

Back to the Original Owner.

On Tuesday L. N. Morrissette closed a deal for the sale of his business property on Main street to H. J. Kaufer, who has disposed of his St. Paul barber shop and will come up at once to take possession of his new stand. Ten years ago Mr Kaufer sold out to Mr. Morrissette, who now contemplates going into business at Seattle.

The Voting Contest.

Now that the holidays are over, we may expect renewed interest in The Gazette popular voting contest. The trip to Niagara Falls for the two most popular young ladies, the beautiful, specially engraved watch for the most popular schoolgirl, and the fine gold "man's" Waltham watch for the winner in the schoolboy contest, have taken second place during the gift-bestowal season.

Miss Mabel Owen is keeping up her lead in the young lady contest, being the first to break into the two thousand column, and her friends may well feel proud of the record their charming favorite is making. If the contest closed today Miss Owen and Miss Buse would be the lucky ones to go to Niagara Falls. Miss Buse and Miss Martin both make handsome gains. As but two of these three young ladies can win, speculation is rife as to the outcome.

A new leader appears this week in the schoolgirl contest—Miss Delia Toupin who is just 55 votes ahead of Miss Bray, who has been stubbornly contesting for first place with Miss Toupin and Miss Schreiter since the merry balloting begun. Miss Marchand has been remembered this week, and broke into the thousand column.

The school boy contest is quiet, not having attracted a vote this week. The boys ought not let the girls outdo them so thoroughly. A little effort on their part would soon change the situation.

The quickest way to make your vote grow is by getting new subscribers—one hundred votes for every dollar.

Remember, to have votes counted in the week they must be in by 7 p. m. Tuesday of each week.

Several rules are to be observed:

All ballots must be signed by the party casting them—if desired, they may be handed the candidate. The candidate will then sign his or her name.

Belated reports tell how the British "went" for a small force of Boers on Christmas day—the day of Peace on Earth. The British would have created a better impression by delaying their sortie at least one day.

The National Anti-trust Conference has issued a call for the meeting to be held in Chicago on Lincoln's Birthday. M. L. Lockwood, the chairman, in issuing his declaration and call, lays especial stress on the list of men whose names appear upon the Call, adding, "I believe that never in the history of the world was there such a strong, clean, pure set of men ever joined in the inception of any movement. Patriotic citizens from all states and territories duly accredited and in full sympathy with the movement and representatives of known anti-trust organizations are invited to participate in the conference, and applications for admission to conference should be made to the Secretary, Unity building, Chicago, at an early date, as credentials of delegates must be countersigned by the chairman of the executive committee."

Howard C. Hillegas, author of "The Boer Girl of South Africa," in the January Ladies' Home Journal, was the first American writer to interview President Kruger, of the Transvaal Republic. He went to Africa two years ago, and while at Pretoria was a daily visitor at the Executive Mansion, dropping in on Oom Paul for a chat over a cup of Mrs. Kruger's famous brew of black coffee. He was also entertained by Hon. Cecil Rhodes and representatives of the British Government, and besides spent much time on the Boer farms and in the Boer homes, studying the people and their characteristics and the politics of the country. From the material thus gained he wrote "Oom Paul's People." If Mr. Hillegas' plans have not gone far awry he is at present watching the Boer-British conflict, as he left this country for South Africa late in November.

The work of taking the census will begin on the first day of next June, when the enumerators will start out to make house to house visits. It is expected that the first returns will be turned in from Washington and that they will begin to arrive about the 20th of June. Then a number of appointments will be made. They will not all be made at once, but gradually, as the necessity arises. So that the original statement of Director Merriam still obtains that no great number of clerks will be needed until some time in July. It will require over 1000 clerks to punch cards in order that the count can be made. These will be classed as "punchers" and will precede the clerks. After they have concluded their work, many of them will be sent to desks. Several months will be required, it is presumed, to make the count. The Hollerith system will be employed, to make the count. In fact the system has been adopted and in two weeks will be in actual operation by the Hollerith people, who have the contract to count the Census of Cuba and Puerto Rico, which has just been completed. The list of eligibles to appointment, or those who have successfully passed the examination as required, numbers 1,385, of which 837 are men and 482 women.

LEMIEUX BRO'S new store has been launched upon the commercial seas. Now we enter upon our real campaign. We desire both your confidence and your custom and shall endeavor to deserve both. The delay from the early part of October until December; the purchasing of heavy stocks with a view to a whole season's trading, all combine to make quick selling imperative if the stock is to be reduced to its proper proportion. Further we wish to impress upon the public the fact of our business existence and so inaugurate a sale which will point the road to practical economy, the real Poessel desires to announce that he is prepared to do all kinds of fancy wood work, repairing of furniture, etc., on short notice, as he has disposed of his furniture business and can devote his time to this branch. He makes a specialty of undertaking, and in this capacity has given universal satisfaction, not only being thoroughly qualified, but taking a friendly and sympathetic interest in the work, which is very gratifying in times of bereavement. An old citizen, thoroughly reliable, a man whose sincerity of purpose is unquestioned, THE GAZETTE can cheerfully recommend him.

Several prominent residents of Louisville township have recently been making complaints about the non-action in regard to the bridge over the Red Lake River at that point. It seems that a bridge is badly needed and has been, for years. Before the county was divided, promises were made that a bridge would be forthcoming shortly after division, but there is no sign of one as yet, and the people out there are growing impatient. If it is within the power of Red Lake Falls to forward this matter, it should be done.

John Nelson who lives on a farm several miles northeast of this city and who was the victim of a runaway accident that nearly cost him his life, has so far recovered as to be about again. He was returning home with his Christmas purchases, when his team ran away, throwing him out of the wagon, under the wheels and terribly mutilating him. He was carried to the home of Pet Mc-Northney, a few rods distance from where he fell, and cared for for several days until he was able to be taken home. No bones were broken but he was badly lacerated and will be laid up for some time. His wife is in the hospital at Grand Forks.

ENDS IN FLIGHT.

ALEX PICQUET AND FAMILY LEFT SUDDENLY LAST THURSDAY.

REPORTED THAT THE LEGAL WIFE OF THE MAN WAS AFTER HIM.

Something over two years ago there arrived in Red Lake Falls a man calling himself Alex Picquet and a woman whom he represented as his wife. The man was penniless and the woman had only the scant clothes she wore. She was young and beautiful; he was her senior by a noticeable disparity, and the suspicions of the hotel people were at once aroused that the relationship claimed was only assumed for a purpose. However, the man, who was a good carpenter, went to work and a home was provided. A child was born to them after five months residence here, and about a year and a half later another. Picquet was well educated, bright and industrious. He secured several building contracts here, among them, in company with Aug. Morin, that of the new high school building which has just been completed. Several crooked things in connection with that building were at the time attributed to him, and this opinion is confirmed. Last Thursday Picquet and his family left suddenly for parts unknown, leaving his school house contract uncollected for, and his business affairs generally unsettled. Several of our merchants are in the hole as a result of his patronage, and the blacksmith has still an uncollected bill for iron and work which takes in those celebrated "bolts" used in the construction of the school house, nothing less than heavy spikes, in non-regulation style. The story goes that he got wind that his legal wife had learned of his whereabouts, and was to be here between Christmas and New Years. Therefore his sudden flight; that up in Canada his wife's best friend, who had for years been her chum, had succumbed to the wiles of the unfaithful husband, and this situation had existed for years without arousing the suspicions of Mrs Picquet—until disgrace staring them in the face, the couple fled, arriving in Red Lake Falls five months before the woman's accouchement.

Obituary.

Lulu Columbus, aged thirteen years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Columbus, of Lake Pleasant township, died quite suddenly Friday night of diphtheria. The remains were interred in St. Mary's cemetery, but the strict quarantine imposed by the township authorities prevented the bereaved relatives from attending the funeral. In this double affliction Mr. and Mrs. Columbus, who are among the best and most highly respected citizens of Red Lake county, have the sincere sympathy of their many friends, thus deprived of the privilege of offering tokens of their tender consideration.

Death of Isaie Morrissette.

Isaie Morrissette, of Emardville township, died Saturday morning, Dec. 30th, 1899, at 8:45 o'clock, after an illness of several months, of kidney trouble, during which time his suffering was constant and intense. Word had been sent to his sons L. N., of this city, and Peter, of Thief River Falls, and they reached their father's bedside before his death. The funeral was held Tuesday morning and the remains interred in St. Mary's cemetery beside his little grandchildren, a requiem mass having been celebrated at St. Joseph's church. The pall bearers were Pierre Emard, Sr., M. Bison, Alexis Wolfe and Henry Lizotte.

Deceased was born in St. Martine, Ca., Nov. 21, 1830, and was twice married. First, to Miss Plemas Patnaude. Three children of this first marriage survive—Mrs. Amanda Degroseller, of St. Martine, Ca., L. N. Morrissette and Peter Morrissette, of this city. Twenty-six years ago he was married the second time, to Miss Mary Crite, who, together with five sons, the youngest of whom is nine years, survive. The family came to Red Lake Falls in the spring of 1882 and settled on the farm in Emardville township, ten miles east of the city, where they have since resided.

Isaie Morrissette was a man greatly esteemed by all who knew him and much beloved by his family, who feel his loss most keenly. His good, upright life, however, is their best consolation, for it is an assurance of the certain reward beyond, where pain and sorrow are no more.

Klondike News.

Frank Cyr, of Bellevue, Wash., sends us the following regarding the Klondike conditions:

The gold which is in this country does not justify any rush, for right here in Dawson there are 15,000 more than the camp can support; in fact any man coming to this country should have enough money and grub to last him at least three years, for a man cannot depend upon working for wages, for work is scarce and the seasons are short, in fact a working man is better off in the States. It looks well in print to read about $1.50 an hour in this country, but this winter wages are as low as $5 per day. On the rich claims they pay $1 per hour, but during these short days a man does not work over six to eight hours a day; then again one must take in consideration that he must sled his grub and outfit, which is all the way from 1,000 pounds up, to where he is working, which may be from twenty five to sixty miles, depending on where he happens to get a job: If he does not want to "mush" himself he can have it freighted for 15 cents a pound, or it may cost him as high as 40 cents a pound in winter, depending on the distance; in summer it runs up to 65 cents a pound. You can figure on about three to four months' work, but a man will not average ten hours a day.

A laboring man is better off outside than here, for living is very expensive. Luxuries such as fresh potatoes are $1 a pound; fresh onions, frozen solid, 50 cents a pound; turkeys, $1.50 a pound; oysters, $5 a can; sugar, 50 cents a pound; coffee, $1 a pound; condensed milk, 75 cents a can; fresh meat, 50 cents a pound; butter, $1 a pound. All kinds of canned goods are plentiful. Meats at restaurants have come down to $1.50 and $1. Drinks and cigars are 50 cents; a few 25-cent houses have opened lately, but you can taste the Yukon water in the whiskey and the cabbage flavor in the cigars. Smoking tobacco is $2 a pound; chewing $3 a pound; all other goods are at proportionate prices. There are several articles which are very cheap, but they do not come under the head of luxuries but of burden, namely a hand sled and a pack strap. I have come to the conclusion that they were never intended for men, so I have wisely resolved not to make a beast of myself again, for life is too short. I have seen big, husky Swedes pack 100 pounds from here to Dominion, forty miles, not a mile of which is dry trail in summer, it being over moss, nigger heads and swamp, so you can imagine the load it is. Many a hardy man broke down in health last summer; they packed their heavy burden to the hospital and died. The hospitals are always crowded and at the present time most of the patients have the scurvy, but several have frozen feet. In many of these latter cases amputation was necessary. These patients are stampeders, for they rush off on these fake discoveries in the coldest weather, and we hear of mighty cold spells here.

Dawson city has the reputation of being a very lively camp, and it was for a short time last spring after the gold clean up of the creeks, but today it is very slow. Saloons, gambling joints and dance halls are almost deserted, which is not strange, as nine out of every ten men are broke and no work in sight, as the mines employ only a small number each, at most twenty men, and there are not more than twenty-five mines employing that number. It is sad to see the misery that is here; nine out of every ten men want to get back to civilization, but have no means, many being destitute. The leading American citizens held a meeting some time ago and sent out a man with a petition to congress for the relief of the Americans. Dawson is very orderly for a mining camp.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and am now well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvellous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. Regular sizes 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottles free at W. A. Schreiter's drug store; every bottle guaranteed.

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE ON FILING PETITION TO MORTGAGE LAND.

"Awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham of Machias, Me., when the doctors said she could not live till morning" writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night. "All thought she must soon die from Pneumonia, but she begged for Dr. King's New Discovery, saying it had more than once saved her life, and had cured her of Consumption. After three small doses she slept easily all night, and its further use completely cured her." This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles and never disappoints. MISS KATE MARTIN BREAKS THE RECORD FOR VOTE GETTING.

MISS LORENA SCHREITER IS AGAIN ONE OF THE LEADERS.

The biggest vote yet polled in one week for a candidate in The Gazette Popular Voting Contest was this week registered for Miss Kate Martin, who receives 1575 this week, taking her from third to first place in Popular Young Lady Contest, which position Miss Mabel Owen has held without a break since the second week of the contest. Miss Owen is still in the winning list, however, as two of the young ladies—the two standing highest—will take the trip to Niagara Falls. Miss Owen's friends are not to see her out done, evidently, as there are many new votes already to her credit for the n[illegible]eek's count.

Hard work is being done all along the [illegible], and an effort is being made by Miss Buse's friends to land her in first place next week, while we learn that Miss Daisy Kratka, of Thief R[illegible]s, will be heard from shortly with a batch of votes that will make her a dangerous rival to the others.

Miss Lorena Schreiter makes a great score in the Most Popular Schoolgirl list this week, receiving nearly a thousand new votes, that place her far in the lead. It is said this will be duplicated next week. The other contestants are not asleep, however, and will be found to have a heavy reserve coming to their assistance. The contest is certainly a merry one, and interesting to all alike. It is hard to foretell with any degree of accuracy who will win.

A SPECIAL ELECTION

CALLED BY THE BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR FEB. 24.

TO VOTE ON THE PROPOSITION OF BONDING THE CO. FOR $10,000.

Saturday a petition was presented to the board of county commissioners signed by many freeholders in different parts of the county, asking the board to call an election for the purpose of voting on the proposition to bond Red Lake county in the sum of $10,000 to build a court house. The commissioners set Feb. 24th as the election day.

The voters of Red Lake county will on that day be called upon to pass upon a very important question—a business proposition pure and simple. Each voter will ask himself, "Will it be to my interest to vote for or against the issue of these bonds?" And if he looks at the matter from a business standpoint he will mark his ballot for the proposition.

For two years the city of Red Lake Falls furnished a court house to Red Lake county free of charge. We know what this experience cost us, and we know that the annual expenditure for rent has been sufficient to pay the interest on $10,000 bonds and to leave a good sum over to apply upon the payment of the principal.

We know that the cost of boarding prisoners in the Polk county jail, of mileage to and from for both prisoners and officers, has amounted to a sum which if properly applied would alone pay the interest on the bond issue, and wipe out a goodly share of the principal annually.

We know that here has been a constant drain ever since the organization of Red Lake county. Red Lake Falls has borne such a large share of this burden in furnishing free court house privileges to the county, that the people here are in a position to know, and it is a fact that a court house is needed as a matter of public economy and to keep down the rate of taxation in this county.

What We Eat

Is intended to nourish and sustain us, but it must be digested and assimilated before it can do this. In other words, the nourishment contained in food must be separated be separated by the digestive organs from the waste materials and must be carried by the blood to all parts of the body. We believe the reason for the great benefit which so many people derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla lies in the fact that this medicine gives good digestion and makes pure, rich blood. It restores the functions of those organs which convert food into nourishment that gives strength to nerves and muscles. It also cures dyspepsia, scrofula, salt rheum, boils, sores pimples and eruptions, catarrh, rheumatism and all diseases that have their origin in impure blood.

VOTE FOR THE BONDS.

The county commissioners at their last meeting called a special election for Feb. 24 to vote on the question of issuing $10,000 bonds to build a court house. This will give the tax payers of Red Lake county the desired opportunity of providing for a reduction in the cost of running the county and consequently in the rate of taxation. At present a rent of $400 annually is paid for the court house with considerable additional for the court room that has to be provided during session of the district court. The increased volume of business will necessitate the addition of one or two rooms to the court house at no distant day, while a new vault is badly needed, the present one having long since proved inadequate for its requirements. These improvements would cost not far from a thousand dollars, and will have to be made if the court house is not built. It is needless to point out the disadvantages of Red Lake county making these improvements in property not owned by the county—virtually paying the additional amount as a rental. It is a good business proposition, that instead of squandering this amount it would be much better to put it into something that would always be the county's; and part of the county's assets. The $10,000 bonds can be sold at a premium of several hundred dollars; can be floated at 3½ or 4 per cent., making the annual payment only $350 or $400, while the balance that now goes to improve other property could go toward paying off the bonds. The saving in fuel alone would be a considerable item, as a building properly constructed could be heated at half the expense to the county of the present system. Farmers, when you make your payments on 1899 taxes, as no doubt many of you have done, remember that one way to reduce taxes is to stop a leak by providing a suitable court house; remember, too, that a fitting court house building would in itself prove the best testimonial as to the prosperity of the county; land hunters would pause to consider and values go up in consequence.

The financial statement of Red Lake county for last year shows the enormous drain made on the county by the lack of court house and jail facilities. No less than $660.27 was expended during the year, most of which was paid to Polk county for keeping prisoners, Polk charging at the rate of 71 cents a day for board, when it could be provided at home for half that amount, saving in this item alone over three hundred dollars on last year's bill. The basement of the proposed new court house for Red Lake county would supply the necessary quarters for keeping prisoners, and could be fitted up for this purpose at a very small additional cost. Figure in the cost of transferring prisoners from Red Lake to Polk, mileage, sheriff's fees, etc., and you have another item that runs up into the hundreds annually. It is an extravagant housekeeping now going on in Red Lake county, merely because there is no way out of it, until the taxpayers provide the means for making the change. To-day, no one is to blame. The situation can not be altered. But on Feb. 24th the voters will be given the opportunity of voting for the much needed change;—providing the means for building a new court house and jail, voting yes on the proposition to bond the county in the sum of $10,000. From a business standpoint, this is an absolute necessity. Vote for the bond issue and reduce taxation.

The date for the St. Paul Winter Carnival has been set for the ten days beginning Saturday, Feb. 3, and closing Feb. 12, Lincoln's birthday. Committees having the work of preparation in charge are organized, and the actual labor of perfecting details is well under way. For every day during the Carnival there will be large events of interest and importance, including national skating, curling, hockey and polo championship contests. Every night during the course of the Carnival the central event will be ordered for the fireworks displays and parades. Incident to the holding of the Carnival, the National Convention of the Farmers' Alliance and the National Convention of the Grain Growers will be held in St. Paul. The annual Poultry show and Bench show will be very interesting events during Carnival time.

At Friday's session of the county board the final action was taken on the ditch matter that had been pending for some months. Work will begin in the spring, and 25,000 acres of Red Lake county's farm lands that are now too low and wet for practical and successful agriculture, will be redeemed and made a valuable part of the county's domain. In practical, beneficial results this action on the part of the board of county commissioners will prove to be as important as any one move yet made by them looking to the county's advancement. Now the farmers and others interested in the wet lands in Emardville ought to take the matter up and secure a ditch.

Gov. Lind is credited with a desire to retire to private life, and he has gone so far as to say that he will not accept a renomination. The country to day does not possess a more resourceful, shrewd and able statesman than our governor. His strength lies in his inherent honesty, his ever present purpose to do right regardless of consequences. Honest, able and fearless, the people will not listen to his desire to retire. His withdrawal at this time would be nothing less than a public calamity, and when modest John Lind is made to know this he will sacrifice his personal inclinations again, as he has often done before.

The movement in the United States to aid the Boers with money and recruits is assuming serious proportions, and will prove a great practical help to the brave people struggling for liberty. The prolongation of the war in South Africa will increase the efforts of sympathizers of the Boers, until the little army of brave men who have faced the British will have swelled to a conquering host, outnumbering the aggressor. Let the good work go on.

The Red Cross society of the Transvaal and Orange Free State has been organized at St. Paul. Boer buttons are sold at 25 cents, and the receipts go to the fund to aid the Boer cause.

A surprise party on Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Schreiter last night was the social event of the week. It was a real surprise on the host and hostess. A happy evening was spent at cards. Music and refreshments served as pleasant deviations. The following appropriate lines were found on a tally sheet, having been written by our local poetess, Mrs. W. H. Newton, in a meditative mood, while the music was in progress: "To our friends, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Schreiter, we one and all extend a hearty vote of thanks for the hospitality of their home. We also thank the musicians. The music was certainly appropriate, especially the "Martial" music. Any one who does not agree with me, and has any objections we ask to "Cougher" up. I know we can "Hunt" a long time for a more suitable selection. Of course, we might have "Bought-one," but for a free treat, not having any "Duff," we think it was, indeed, a pleasant evening." The fair poetess might have added that the "Newtone" song was not among the least of the attractions.

Editor Gazette:

I beg leave through your columns to call the attention of the health authorities to the perniciously criminal practice of some of the people living along the Clearwater river above this place. They dump dead animals into the river or leave them on the ice, thus save the trouble of burying them but endanger the health and lives of the people living below them who use either the water or the ice. During the summer and autumn just passed hundreds of carcasses of hogs besides a number of horses, cows etc. were dumped into Clearwater. A creditable gentleman told me that in one day be counted eleven floating carcasses in a distance of less than three miles above Terrebonne dam.

The health authorities of the city and the township authorities should look to it that the practice be promptly discontinued, and a little attention from the Grand Jury would not be amiss.

Red Lake Falls Gazette.

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER
—BY—
PHIL. A. KAUFER.

Subscription, $1.00 per Year

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE COUNTY.

☞All matter for publication in THE GAZETTE must be handed in on or before Tuesday 6 p. m.

FOR 1900.

The Gazette will give its readers a good paper. We are increasing our facilities for issuing a first class country newspaper, and the features that have made The Gazette so popular in the past will be continued and improved.

The official proceedings of the board of county commissioners, together with the delinquent tax list, financial statement, and all official notices, will be published in the Gazette the coming year, as they have been during the three years past. The important happenings of the world will be found published in condensed and convenient form. The local field will be thoroughly covered. The county at large will be raked for news by our able corps of county correspondents, so that The Gazette will be in a measure, a true mirror of life in Red Lake County. To onr old subscribers, many of whom have taken The Gaette for sixteen years, we wish to express our sincere appreciation. and to our new friends, we will say merely that we shall endeavor to merit a continuation of their valued names on our list of subscribers.

No argument whatevar, except that they hold the "age." This is the situation at Thief River Falls. Right here we would say that Thief River Falls is treading on dangerous ground. If the taxpayers of Red Lake county and Red Lake Falls, who is fighting their battle, win in the fight, we surely will not forget our friends nor our enemies.

If the taxpayers of Red Lake county wish to reduce taxes, they will vote for the courthouse proposition; if they wish to have taxation increase, they will vote to continue the present waste and drain on the county treasury. It's simply a matter of dollars and cents, and the taxpayer is for the court nouse unless he has selfish interests to the contrary.

In twenty years, if Red Lake county continues to rent its court house and to do business in this regard the same as she is doing now, we would be no better off than before. If $10,000 bonds are voted, and the money uow being wasted is put into proper use, in twenty years the bonds will be paid off, Red Lake county will own its own court house and have a surplus of several thousand dollars besides. This can be demonstrated and will be in due time before the 24th of February.

The Crookston Times evidently hasn't trouble enough at home, but must needs jump into the campaign here in Red Lake county and endeavor to throw the weight of its ponderous influence (!) against Red Lake Falls. We could forgive you people when you were in the fight yourselves, for all you said and did, but this unwarranted, unreasonable, meddlesome interference in our affairs from purely mean and hateful, spiteful motives, is another thing.

THIRTY MILLION DOLLARS.

UNITED STATES OFFICIAL ASSAYER AT SEATTLE, SAYS THAT WILL BE GOLD OUTPUT OF ALASKA AND THE NORTHWEST FOR 1900. CAPE NOME WILL RIVAL THE KLONDIKE. $18,505,000 IN GOLD RECEIVED AT SEATTLE ASSAY OFFICE SINCE JULY 15, 1898.

Special to the COURIER:

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 12, 1900.—A great many people ridicule the stories that are told of the fabulous riches of the Alaska gold fields.

Reports of output of gold are characterized as deliberate lies. The rush to the gold fields is said to be fostered by railway and steamship managers. These "doubting Thomases" are respectfully referred to the following letter from Mr. F. A. Wing, Assayer in charge of the United States assay office at Seattle. It is sufficient evidence of the amount of gold actually deposited at the Seattle assay office.

The Alaska gold fields have hardly been scratched. What the future may bring forth no man can foresee. Certain it is that young men of good health, with pluck and energy and a determination to succeed will dig immense fortunes out of the golden sand of Cape Nome, Cape York, Cape Prince of Wales, Norton Sound and Golofin Bay during the summer of 1900.

The U. S. Assay Office at Seattle, Wash.
Office of the Assayer in Charge.
Nov. 28th, 1899.

Mr. R. C. Stevens,
Gen. Western Pass. Agt.,
Great Northern Ry., City.

Sir: In reply to yours of the 27th inst., I have the honor to submit the following data which I trust will be satisfactory:

This office was opened on July 15th, 1898. Since that date there have been 8,203 separate individual deposits of bullion, aggregating eighteen million five hundred and five thousand dollars; one third of which was received during the first fiscal year ended June 30th, 1899; the balance since that time.

The comparative average values per ounce of Klondike and Cape Nome gold are as follows: $16.50 per ounce Klondike; $18.50 per ounce Cape Nome.

In my judgment the output for 1900 will easily double that of 1899. In my preparations for next season I am anticipating at least twenty millions for this office alone, on a basis of thirty millions as the entire output of Alaska and the Northwest Territory.

All indications lead me to believe that Cape Nome and its immediate vicinity will equal the Klondike in amount of production.

Trusting this will meet with your requirements, I am,

Respectfully yours,
(signed) F. A. WING,
Assayer in Charge.

ORDER ESTABLISHING SANDERS BLACK RIVER DITCH NO. 1.

County of Red Lake. }

Whereas, at a session of the Board of County Commissioners of the County of Red Lake State of Minnesota, held on the 5th day of Sept., 1899, a petition signed by Chas. Hellberg and others, land owners, whose lands were liable to be affected by, or assessed for, the expense of the construction of the work proposed therein, praying for the establishment and construction of a public ditch along a route described therein, accompanied by a bond duly approved, as provided by law, was filed with the County Auditor of said County; and it appearing by proper evidence to the satisfaction of said Board of County Commissioners that at least thirty (30) days' notice has been given of the pendency of said petition and of the time at which the same would be heard, as by law provided, whereupon the said Board did, at its session on the 5th day of September, A. D. 1899, proceed to hear and determine said petition; and said Board having determined that the construction of said ditch would be of public benefit and utility, and conducive to the public health, convenience and welfare, we did accept said petition, and thereupon did appoint, as viewers of said proposed work, three (3) resident freeholders of said Red Lake County, who are not interested in the construction of said proposed work, and are not of kin to any of the parties interested therein, and directed them to meet preparatory to commencing their duties as such viewers, at the terminus of said ditch in said County, at one o'clock p. m., on the 9th day of October, 1899; and certified copies of the said petition and order of said Board appointing them as viewers was issued to and served upon said viewers, as by law provided, as will more fully appear from the certificate of service of Charles Sampson, as Sheriff of said County, now on file in the office of the County Auditor of said County, they proceeded, at the time set in said order, with a surveyor who is a civil engineer, and made an accurate survey of the line of said ditch from its source to its outlet, and did cause stakes to be placed along said line at each 100 feet, as numbered progressing down stream from its source, and made and filed a report thereof; and reported that said ditch would be of public utility: and in their said report made the necessary computations and assessments, description of location, the land through which the same would pass, the names of the owners, and the damages or allowances thereto, the expense attending such work, and all the estimates, as required by law, duly sworn to as by law required.

And the Auditor of said Red Lake County did, after the filing of said report, cause a notice to be given, to be published, posted and mailed, as by law provided, of the pendency of said petition and of the time and place set for the hearing thereof;

Now therefore, we, the Board of County Commissioners of the County of Red Lake, Minn., having met in session at the time set for the hearing of said petition, to-wit, the 5th day of January, 1900, and proceeded to hear the same, and having found that the report of said viewers is made according to the provisions of law, and that the proposed ditch, to be of public utility, and conducive to public health, or of public benefit and convenience, and, from the evidence before us, that the estimated benefits of said work are greater than its total cost, including damages awarded, do hereby locate and establish the said ditch, according to the report of said viewers appointed and acting as aforesaid; which said report, together with the plats and exhibits accompanying the same is hereby referred to and made a part hereof for greater particularity, as determining the location, width, depth and manner of construction of said proposed Ditch No. 1. And the said Board of County Commissioners having from said viewers' report and the evidence before them, determined upon the benefits to be assessed and the damages to be awarded to the several tracts of land in said report described, do hereby assess benefits and award damages to the said lands as follows:

According to Exhibit 4 of Viewers' report on file in the Auditor's office of said Red county.

GOOD FOR RED LAKE FALLS.

There is considerable interest taken in this city in the reported purchase of the Brainerd & Northern by the Northern Pacific says the Grand Forks Herald. It is a matter of prime importance to this city for various reasons. The railroad facilities of Grand Forks in some respects is excellent, but could be improved upon in various directions.

If the Northern Pacific has purchased the Brainerd & Northern, it is undoubtedly with the intention of building a connecting link between Bemidji and Red Lake Falls, which would give them another line from the Twin Cities to Winnipeg via Grand Forks. The distance from Bemidgi to Red Lake Falls is forty miles, which would mean but a small expense considering the benefits to be derived. The distance to the Twin Cities via this new line from Grand Forks will be considerably less than over the present route of the N. P., and would be about the same length as the Great Northern route.

This would mean an improved train service east to Red Lake Falls, which would result in an immense amount of business that now goes to Crookston and the Twin Cities being directed to this city and both the wholesalers and retailers would be vastly benefited.

It is rumored that in addition to the above prospective improvement in railroad facilities, that Nos. 3 and 4 will shortly come up by way of Crookston, for though the distance to St. Paul is slightly greater, it can be made up from the fact there would be fewer stops by that route. From the fact, also, that Fargo is an N. P. town, anyway. It is figured that the above change will be made as soon as Nos. 1 and 2 are put on between here and Fargo to do local work.

Red Lake Falls Gazette.

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER

—BY—

PHIL A. KAUFER.

Subscription, $1.00 per Year

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE COUNTY.

☞All matter for publication in THE GAZETTE must be handed in on or before Tuesday 6 p. m.

The St. Hilaire Spectator speaks of the raise in taxation in Red Lake county this year, and assumes that this raise is due to county expenditures, when the fact of the matter is the county levy is practically the same as that of last year, the increase being due to township and school district levies that have nothing to do with the county rate.

It is authoritatively stated that there is no difference whatever between the governments of the United States and of Great Britain as to the legal aspects of the seizures of goods oft Delagoa bay. The British government has admitted without reserve that these goods were not liable to seizure. That has given complete satisfaction to the State Department.

No one should forget that a new court house means more taxes, and say so by their vote on Feb. 24.—Thief River Falls Press.

Bro. Mussey was doubtless sincere when he penned the above lines, but the facts are exactly opposite to what he assumes. The truth is that no one should forget that the proposed new court house means a reduction in taxation.

If St. Hilaire and Thief River Falls are so generous, why did they not offer the county a free court house before? It is too late now. The voters see plainly the lack of sincerity, and that this is only done to influence the vote—and then if the proposition is voted down, we would be no better off than before—still the drain and waste upon our treasury, when we might save money to every tax payer by building a respectable court house.

Red Lake Falls is fighting the tax payers' battle; fighting to provide a respectable home for the county records; fighting to remove a drain upon the treasury, to stop a leak that is sapping the resources of the tax payer. Will the voters take up the fight and vote for the bonds? In fact, Red Lake county at the end of twenty years would own its own buildings, have the bonds paid off, and have $7,147.80 to her credit in the county treasury. It is a simple business proposition that can be understood by every schoolboy. Read the statement on another page of this paper.

If you want to have Red Lake county compare with other counties, she must have proper court house facilities. Every resident of this county who takes any pride in his citizenship must feel thoroughly ashamed of the present inadequate court house. It reflects credit on neither the residents of the county nor upon Red Lake county's resources, yet we pay high rents, the drain and waste is constant and great, and the plain truth is, it is an extravagant management A new court house would be creditable, would advertise our county properly, and would save money to the tax payers.

Red Lake Falls in 1950.

"Remember Red Lake Falls! Wall I reckon I do—
Lived thar onct, 'bout as old as y ou
Was I then, forty or fifty years ago.
Gol! out time flies, by Jo

'Twant much of a size then:
Didn't think 'twould ever a ben
Such a city, as you say 'tis.
But then, big things has often riz
Out of something kind o' smallish like,
Now look at that ar "Klondike."

Why I remember as how it was, (because
Unhandy and out of the way like, jest
Now you say, an electric line
Totes the folks to and fro
From thar to wharever they wants to go.

Handsome houses now stand 'round:
Why I remember it was mostly vacant ground.
'Twas a purty place in them old days.
Somehow or uther, it seemed always
As if water had done her level best
To create a place of peace and rest,

The rivers, as they flowed along.
Seemed to murmur and sing a song
That sounded to my ear, like this:
"Farewell, adieu, we teach thee bliss
Of giving to others. No selfishness,
Do we, the rivers show.

What now is the peace and quiet
Of that purty town? The clash and riot
Of machinery now is heard.
Whar once was only the song of bird.

Mills and factories now abound
In that far northwestern town.
Whar years ago, as I recall,

Wall, wall, it does beat anything,
The change time will bring.
I tell you I can hardly realize
It could o' growed to sich a size.

Was a purty good thing. And say!
Speakin of trains, 'twas a standing joke
Them ere trains. I'll tell you folk
A story 'bout a commercial man
Between thar and Red Lake Falls.

'Twas what was called a "mixed train,"
Carryin passengers, freight, coal and grain.
Wall this city chap gittin bold
For the twentieth time,—so 'twas told,
Said to the conductor with meekness rare.
"Say old man, my wife's sick. Ain't we most there."

"We'll get thar on time, I guess."
Replied the conductor, with stolidness.
Again and again the question was asked,
The patience of both was sorely taxed.
Finally, the traveler mournfully said,
"I guess conductor, she is dead.

But if an extra dollar would do,
'Tis yours if her funeral, you catch up to."
After the silence of a nuther hour,
The conductor, lookin purty suur,
Heard again the voice, which said
"Say, if the wind ain't dead ahead.
Put on more steam, my haste increases,
I would like to see her tombstone, 'fore it crumbles to pieces."

The conductor glared and then walked on,
'Mid to the rest of the passengers' frown.
Pretty soon on coming back,
The same man, the same old tack
Covered him again, with imploring air
"Say conductor. Ain't we most there?"

In three months, I've got a note comin due,
Jest think conductor if it was you."
In a manner far, far from mild,
For his blood wuz now thoroughly riled,
The conductor said with midnight frown,
"Say, come near me again and I'll knock ye down."

The man turned sadly to his seat and sighed,
But a fellow sufferer, and acquaintance, then he spied.
And chatting pleasantly, he did not hear
The ticket taker as he drew near.

"Don't feel so badly, over the death of your wife,"
He said in a tone—sharp as a knife.
"Dear Sir, I now content have found,
Time ye know heals all wounds."

"And ye don't feel worried over the note that's due?"
"Conductor ye speak truly, quite true.
I'm thankful now we haven't gone fast;
The note has outlawed itself, since I spoke to ye last."

But now ye can see the result o' trains.
And hustle and activity combined with health.
In that ar place with all its wealth.

Of manufactories, large and small,
Wouldn't be s'prised at all,
Ef som day or 'uther 'twould be

SYNOPSIS.

Esther was born in Persia 500 years before Christ. Being an orphan from infancy she was adopted by her uncle, Mordecai, who, recognizing her great natural beauty, trained her in the accomplishments of highest womanhood. She was chosen by the King of the Realm to be his wife and Queen. She did not disclose her nationality. Haman was Premier and favorite of the King. Haman hated Mordecai because he would not worship him as the King had commanded. He did not know Mordecai's relation to the Queen. To be revenged he obtained a decree for destroying all the Jews in the provinces. Mordecai discovers the plot and charges the Queen to petition the King for the safety of her people, which she does at the peril of her life, on account of the law that no one shall go unto the King unbidden. The King hears her petition and Haman is defeated. Haman has prepared a gallows for Mordecai. An attendant informs the King of the fact. The King orders Haman to be hanged from it and proclaims Mordecai Premier instead. After this the people rejoice

WE GO ON THE LIST

THIS MEANS $800 A YEAR STATE AID FOR OUR SCHOOLS.

PROF. MCNALLY'S RECOMMENDATIONS MUST GO.

State High School Inspector Aiton and State Graded School Inspector Rankin were here Monday and met Superintendent McNally and the Board of Education. Conditions here were gone over and the course for the future thoroughly explained. Superintendent McNally received an endorsement from both gentlemen of which he may feel justly proud. His earnest and thorough work was recognized, and the educational interests of the city commended to his supervision. Mr. Aiton said "If Mr. McNally has his way you will go on the highschool list." This is an endorsement that could not have been made stronger. It is, however, well bestowed, upon one who has richly earned it by hard and earnest work. Under Prof. McNully's guidance, our schools have a future second to none in Northern Minnesota.

GOOD PROGRESS MADE DESPITE THE UNFAVORABLE CONDITIONS.

Supt. Smith reports work in the lumber camps as progressing well, despite the unfavorable weather. Majeau & Johnson, on the Little Tamarack, who have a contract to get out 5,000,000, have banked 1½ million, and are half done with the cut, being now at work on a 6 mile haul. The balance will be over short hauls from one-half to 1½ miles. Dan Shaw is progressing well with his 1,100,000 foot contract. In the Gray camp on the Clearwater, where two million feet are being logged for the Red Lake Falls Lumber Company, and two million feet for Lammers Bros., work is progressing wellfairly. A force of 110 men and 50 teams are at work on the Tamarack. Gray has thirty men. Four million feet of Red Lake Falls Lumber Company's logs lie between St. Hilaire and this point and these will come down with the spring flood-waters. A dam will be built at Cook's Rapids that will do away with all the trouble heretofore experienced in driving between St. Hilaire and this point. The company is in shape for a big season's business.

Rent.

During the last year, Red Lake county paid for rent of the present court house	$	390 00
Total rent paid, 1899		428 10

Cost of Vault.

The present temporary vault has already cost the county	393 23
But as it is altogether too small for the present needs of the county, a new one must be built at a very early date, and as it must be larger than the present one, the cost would be about	500 00

If built in connection with a new court house it would remain the county's property and be part of its assets, but if built on the present leased ground, it will be just that much money wasted whenever the county gets through with the use of it.

Insurance.

The present rate of insurance for the contents of the court house is $2.15 per $100.00, while the rate in a new brick structure would be about 40 cents per $100.

Cost of insurance under present conditions being $2,000 on contents of building	$	43 00
Cost of same amount in new building		8 00
Net saving per year on $2,000 insurance		35 00

Liability to Loss.

In case of the destruction of the present inflammable court house property situated in one of the most dangerous frame rows in the city, the loss would amount to about $8,000.00 worth of county property, $8,000.00 to the school districts of the county, and about $3,000.00 to the different townships of Red Lake county, on account of the destruction of the county tax records and other valuable property, which, owing to the lack of proper vault room, is now more or less exposed.

Cost of Keeping Prisoners in Polk County Jail at 71 cents per Capita.

By referring to the last financial statement, it will be seen that Red Lake county paid to Polk county and local hotels the large sum of $660.27 for board and keep of prisoners from Red Lake county. With proper jail facilities these prisoners would be boarded by Red Lake county at from 35 to 40 cents per day per capita, effecting a saving on this one item of about half, or $330.00.

Cost of Watching and Transporting Prisoners.

The last financial statement shows an expenditure for sheriff's and deputies' fees, DURING COURT, amounting to the enormous sum of $928.59. The greater part of this was for the expense incurred in transporting prisoners to and from the Polk county jail, for night and day watch for prisoners in custody pending trial. Eight men besides the sheriff, being by necessity employed. With jail facilities at home, this expense would be cut in two, effecting a saving of $464.29.

Under the present arrangement, if carried on for 20 years, the cost would stand as follows:

RECAPITULATION:

Rent for court house at $428.10 per year		$ 8562 00
New vault (estimated cost)		500 00
Interest on $500 for 20 years at 5 per cent		500 00
$35.00 per year extra at present insurance rate carried for 20 years		700 00
Present extra cost keeping prisoners for 20 years		6600 00
" " " transporting " " " "		9285 80
Present total extra expenditures, such as would not be incurred if Red Lake county had a courthouse and jail of its own		26147 80
Proposed bond issue	$ 10000 00
20 years' interest at 5 per cent	10000 00
Total	20000 00
Less premium at time of sale (estimated)	1000 00
Total		19000 00
Balance in favor of Red Lake county		7147 80

And last, but not least, the city of Red Lake Falls offers a free site as a gift to the county, and it will be a small matter to select a site high and well drained, where it would be possible to utilize the basement of the new court house as a jail.

Let every voter consider all these matters carefully. The figures here submitted are plain facts and clearly prove that at the end of 20 years, if we DO NOT BUILD a court house, the extra expence incurred by NOT HAVING one, would not only pay for a $10,000 court house and jail but besides leave the county a neat cash balance of $7,147.80. and if this enormous drain at the county's funds is not stopped by erecting a court house and jail, our extra expense will amount as above stated to $26,147.80; and worse still, the county will have no buildings nor anything else to show for this money.

Now as to building the court house at Red Lake Falls, every voter may rest assured that by doing so he will not be gambling on the future, he will take no chances, Red Lake Falls has as bright and promising a future before it as any town in the Northwest, be it from an agricultural, commercial, manufacturing or educational point of view; it affords the best market in the county, it has a high school equalled by few and surpassed by none in the Northwest, its doors are open to the farmers' boys and girls; everything about the schools is free to the young people of the county.

Many more facts and reasons may be cited, but believing this to be sufficient, we shall leave it to the intelligent voters of Red Lake county to judge as to what is to their own best interest.

SUBMITTED BY THE CITIZENS OF REO LAKE FALLS.

CALL FOR COUPONS

ALL COUPONS IN THE VOTING CONTEST MUST BE IN MARCH 13.

NO COUPONS WILL BE PRINTED OR CREDITED AFTER THAT DATE.

No voting coupons will be published after March 13, and that will be the last day for depositing coupons. This is done to relieve the stress on the judges the last couple of weeks, since they will be deluged with votes and can not be hampered in their work by the coupons, the counting of which consumes much time. Remember, the contest closes March 27, and no coupons will be accepted after March 13. 7 o'clock p. m.

This week the relative standing of the candidates is unchanged, but a feature is the large vote polled for Miss May Bose, who has evidently been storing her strength for the final effort. Her new vote this week comes within two of a thousand and is evidence that her loyal supporters intend that she shall be a winner.

That the prizes and honors of the Contest are well worth striving for goes without saying. The trip to Niagara Falls includes a sight-seeing tour of St. Paul, Minneapolis, Chicago, Erie, Ft. Wayne, Cleveland and Buffalo. To visit these great American cities is in itself a rare treat. The schoolgirl winning will receive a watch engraved with name and date of contest. It will be a memento to be proud of for a life time. The same may be said of the Schoolboy Contest prize.

ANOTHER PIONEER GONE.

Mrs. Emily J. Gervais, One of Our First Settlers, Passes Away.

A pall of sorrow again descended over our community Monday morning, when the ominous crepe on the door of Mrs. Isaiah Gervais' home told the sad story of another noble life gone out, another mother taken from her loving children, another true friend whose worthy counsels and gracious hospitality would be no more; another pioneer gone before, from the busy scene of her labors of love. And every citizen sharing in the fruits of the early labors of our pioneers, in which she played so hard a part, mourns with her sorrowing family. Her last illness was of eighteen days' duration, during which time she was attended by those of her faithful children residing here, who did all in their power to make their mother's last hours peaceful ones.

Mrs. Gervais was one of Red Lake Falls' first settlers, coming here simultaneously with the Bottineau family in the fall of 1876, when no other white people lived nearer than Crookston, and settling with her family on the beautiful homestead a short distance south of town. She was born at Catherine, Ont., April 14, 1835, and from there moved to Dubuque, Iowa, then to St. Paul, at a time when the families residing there could be counted on the fingers of one hand. She was married to Isaiah Gervais August 20, 1856. Eleven children were born to them, of whom ten survive, namely, L. H., of Montana, Charles, of St. Paul, Geo., of Alaska, Horace, Norman and Wilfred, and Mesdames Geo. Marchildon, Zephraim Pouliot, Napoleon Pouliot and Wm. P. O'Brien, of Red Lake Falls.

Mrs. Gervais will always be remembered by her many friends as a most generous hostess, dispensing hospitality with unstinting hand; her trials and hardships were many, like those of most pioneers, but she bore them all with serene fortitude. Bringing to her pioneer life not only the strength of noble womanhood but of culture, ability, refinement and personal magnetism that would have distinguished her in any sphere, she drew to herself a circle of loyal, and admiring friends whose name is legion.

The funeral occurred Tuesday from St. Josephs church, and her remains were laid to rest beside those of her husband, mother and one child, who had preceded her some years before.

Brave Men Fall

Victims to stomach, liver and kidney troubles as well as women, and all feel the results in loss of appetite, poisons in the blood, backache, nervousness, headache and tired, listless, run-down feeling. But there's no need to feel like that. Listen to J. W. Gardner, Idaville, Ind. He says: "Electric Bitters are just the thing for a man when he is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies. It did more to give me new strength and good appetite than anything I could take. I can now eat anything and have a new lease on life." Only 50 cents at W. A. Schreiter's drug store. Every bottle guaranteed.

"Better do it than wish it done." Better cure catarrh by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla than complain because you suffer from it.

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER
—BY—
PHIL. A. KAUFER.

Subscription, $1.00 per Year

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE COUNTY.

☞All matter for publication in THE GAZETTE must be handed in on or before Tuesday 6 p. m.

Red Lake Falls offers a free court house site—centrally located. Remember this—centrally located. This our citizens guarantee, and our guarantee is good—has been tried and found not wanting. This talk about our free court house site not being centrally located, voters, is merely gotten up to influence your vote.

* * *

Why was this special bond election called? Because so important a question should not be mixed up with a general election. It is too important for that. The county commissioners did wisely in calling a special election, thus giving ample opportunity for a full discussion—for the truth is not afraid of the daylight. St. Hilaire is on the wrong side, and would rather have the bond question mixed with party politics and not discussed. The more the taxpayer studies the question the stronger he is for the bonds.

* * *

T. H. Larke, Duluth, Minn., assistant general passenger agent of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad, sends out a characteristically bright folder, containing, among other interesting things, the following:

The approximate rates of fare, Duluth to Paris and return, including first-class accommodations on railways and steamers, will be $175.00 and upwards, according to location of stateroom and number of passengers occupying same. First class railway fare and second cabin on steamer from $125.00 up. The trans-Atlantic lines have only recently fixed their rates of fare for the season of 1900, but we can now furnish rates via all lines We solicit your inquiries and patronage.

* * *

What chaff is this! Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire both offering a free court house to the county, if the county seat is located in St. Hilaire or Thief River Falls for three years. One thing is certain, it can't be located in both places at the same time, nor can it be located without a special election, and the affirmative decision of the electors. When it comes to that the citizens of the up river towns will scrap. As to the offer of a free court house, they are trying to play a trick on the people of the county. The Gazette will next week expose a shameful attempt on the part of the St. Hilaire and Thief River Falls schemers to win this election by deceiving and bamboozling the voters.

* * *

Henry Norland, writing in the St. Hilaire Spectator, intimates that Red Lake Falls wants to "gull" the farmers. This comes with poor grace from a man who, as county commissioner, was instrumental in placing the two bridges in St. Hilaire less than a mile apart, so as to help the village of St. Hilaire, instead of locating them at least three miles apart so as to accommodate the farmers living north and south and northeast, northwest, southeast and southwest of St. Hilaire. No, the people of St. Hilaire and Commissioner Norland evidently schemed to benefit St. Hilaire, and went on the theory, the people be d——d. Little did they care whether the farmers were accommodated. It would be a sad day for Red Lake county if our interests fell into such selfish hands.

C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Red Lake Falls is to-day the most bankrupt town in the state.—St. Hilaire Spectator.

The above is a fair specimen of the argument being put up against the bond issue. It is a monstrous lie. Red Lake Falls' business men, Red Lake Falls' financial institutions, Red Lake Falls' manufactories, stand to-day at the head of the list of solid institutions. These statements are facts and can be substantiated by reference to Bradstreet or Dun. Speaking of bankruptcy, Emil J. Holmes, heretofore one of the leading St. Hilaire merchants, last week filed official notice of bankruptcy, his liabilites being $8,029.81. This Holmes is one of the signers of the St. Hilaire "bond" guaranteeing Red Lake county a free court house. For all we know the other signers are in the same boat. Great people there, who are so willing to build a court house. Great reliance is to be placed in bonds signed by Emil J. Holmes (bankrupt) and others. Red Lake Falls' record is one bankrupt in twenty-four years' history, that being a saloon keeper. He isn't on any of our bonds, however.

Publishers of all classes act as "clearing houses" for the thoughts of men—gathering their great works into unity, so that, any section of the world is able to participate in the fruits of all sections. Manuscripts of school books have been prepared and are now in preparation in great numbers by educators of ability, and these find an outlet to all the schools of the land through the agency of the school book publisher. By putting into book form the successful methods which have been brought out by the teacher of skill, not only those who come into direct contact with that teacher, but the pupils of the entire country are benefited. Thus, it is equally possible for schools near or remote to take advantage of talent wherever manifested through the instrumentality of the schoolbook. Through years of toil and special preparation a teacher may be peculiarly qualified in some specific branch of study and his methods of instruction accepted as models. By means of the book embodying his results attained, all teachers of the land are bettered and enriched, and pupils are led by an easier path.

The American Book Company, New York, Cincinnati, Chicago, publishes books prepared by such authors from all sections of the United States. The authors of their books are specialists and are prepared to speak authoritatively in their departments of study. In geography they have just issued the Natural Series, consisting of an elementary and an advanced book. A special feature of the book is its treatment of the earth as the home of man. The natural features are studied from the standpoint of human interest, and it is shown how man has taken advantage of nature, what railways, water communications, etc., have done to connect the individual and nation with the rest of the world.

To be Prepared

For war is the surest way for this nation to maintain peace. That is the opinion of the wisest statesmen. It is equally true that to be prepared for spring is the best way to avoid the peculiar dangers of the season. This is a lesson multitudes are learning, and at this time, when the blood is sure to be loaded with impurities and to be weak and sluggish, the millions begin to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, which purifies, enriches and vitalizes the blood, expels all disease germs, creates a good appetite, gives strength and energy and puts the whole system in a healthy condition, preventing pneumonia, fevers, and other dangerous diseases which are liable to attack a weakened system.

"Self-Preservation

Is the first law of Nature," For this reason every one who is ill desires to become well. Those who have impure or impoverished blood turn to Hood's Sarsaparilla, because they know it will enrich and purify their blood and give them good health. To take this medicine on the first appearance of impure blood is an important step toward self-preservation.

IMPORTANT TEST CASE.

Land Flooding Damage Case Decided in Favor of Plaintiff.

In the case of Jacobson vs Lammers Bros. & Nelson tried last week in Crookston Jacobson received a verdict of $50 damages. This was a case arising from the overflow of the lands along the Clearwater when the dams are opened and the logs floated down in the spring, and is but one out of perhaps a hundred similar cases in Beltrami, Polk and Red Lake counties where settlers have been damaged in crops and otherwise, and they will claim from $50 to $200 each.

It is claimed by many that the purpose of the threatened prosecutions of settlers for taking logs left along the banks of the river and, in some cases a mile from the channel, has been to intimidate the settlers and prevent them from claiming their just dues in these damage cases. The favorable verdict in this first trial will encourage the other farmers, who have decided to fight the matter to a finish.

PERMANENT COUNTY SEAT.

Red Lake Falls is the Permanent County Seat of Red Lake County.

The up-river papers are trying to make out that it will be necessary to have an election before the county seat of Red Lake county is located. This is all wrong. The law is very clear that Red Lake Falls is as much the permanent county seat of Red Lake county as Crookston is of Polk county.

Red Lake Falls has been designated by law as the permanent county seat of Red Lake county, and it will remain so unless a special election is called for the purpose of voting on the location of the county seat, and 55 per cent of the legal voters vote to have it removed. Remember, this special election must be called for the purpose of moving the county seat, not for the purpose of LOCATING it, as it is already permanently located. Every other county in the state is subject to the same law, so that it is plain that Red Lake Falls is as much the permanent county seat of Red Lake county as Crookston is of Polk, or Minneapolis, of Hennepin. This same statute provides that special elections for a change of county seat can be held but once in five years.

The new law under which Polk county was divided did not mention anything about a temporary county seat, nor was any provision made in this new law for a vote. Red Lake county is therefore on the same footing as every other county in the state, and Red Lake Falls on the same footing as every other county seat. If the court house bonds are voted, you know that the court house will be built at Red Lake Falls, the county seat, and that whatever improvements will be made will be made on ground that will always belong to the county.

Vote YES on the bonds.

BUILD UP THE CITY.

A Good Thing for Red Lake County to Have a Flourishing County Seat.

About the new railroad news and the vote on the county bonds, a traveling freight agent of one of our railroads said to THE GAZETTE yesterday, "If the people of Red Lake County, interested in the building of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific extensions, knew how much interest the men who rule the destinies of the two roads were taking in the growth of Red Lake Falls they would vote yes on the bond question. There is no doubt that if the new court house were built here and this matter all settled, Red Lake Falls would have a boom. That is what Railroads want. If Red Lake Falls was a dead town they would not care to build in at all, and every blow at Red Lake Falls just at this critical time will help to discourage the building in of these roads, for although it is now practically an assured fact, and from present indications there will be a great rush on the part of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern forces to see which will get their connections built to Red Lake Falls first, you know there is many a slip twixt the cup and the lip and it is dangerous to do anything detrimental to the prospects of Red Lake Falls at this critical time."

WHO SHOULD VOTE "YES," AND WHY.

The laborer to get work.

The taxpayer to redeem taxes.

The taxpayer to save the county records from loss by fire.

The farmer to reduce taxes.

The farmer to build up the county.

The citizen in general to provide a creditable court house which will speak well for the county at large.

IS A SURE THING.

N. P. Agent J. P. Steele Says the B. & N. will be Built In, in the Spring.

Will Enter the City between the Rivers via Equality, Garnes, Emardville and Gervais.

The Brainerd & Northern, which runs from Brainerd north to Bemidji, has been sold to the Northern Pacific railroad company, and J. P. Steele, Red Lake Falls' N. P. station agent, says he has positive official advice to the effect that the road will be extended through to Red Lake Falls in the spring, to connect with its line now running through this city from Fertile to Grand Forks, thus making Red Lake Falls a division. Round houses will be built immediately as soon as spring opens, and the main passenger traffic will come via this new N. P. route between Winnipeg and St. Paul and Minneapolis, as the distance is many miles less and much better time can be made. The road will run northwesterly from Bemidji, and will strike Red Lake county at Equality, making from there a bee line run through Garnes, Emardville and Gervais, to Red Lake Falls, and on to [illegible] Forks.

More than a Court House.

Red Lake Falls Has Given, by Her Work and Money Expended in Dividing Polk County and Establishing Red Lake. Sufficient to Build Half a Dozen Court Houses.

What Red Lake Falls guarantees, she does. We are to-day not offering a free court house. The taxpayers of Red Lake county would not expect that of Red Lake Falls, neither do they have faith in the bogus offers of Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire. They know full well that but for Red Lake Falls there would be no Red Lake county, no new county, but the same old Polk, with its county seat the better part of a hundred miles from the eastern towns in Red Lake county. They know that it was Red Lake Falls' time, capital and energy, assisted by the good sense of a majority of the voters, that secured this new county: and they know that the money expended to do it would build half a dozen court houses.

If, after all this, other towns should step in (towns that had antagonized the division movement from the start) and claim the fruits of victory, would it not be gall? Yet such is the case to-day. But the voters will sit down on all their rank ingratitude by voting against them, by voting "Yes" on the bond question. Red Lake Falls and the taxpayers should, as they have been doing, work hand in hand for economy, and a new court house means a saving to every taxpayer. Vote yes.

FREE COURT HOUSE BUNCOMB

If St. Hilaire or Thief River Falls offered all the court houses in Christendom, it would not be possible for the county to profit by it. because the court house must be located at the county seat to be used, and the county seat is at Red Lake Falls and will so remain until 55 per cent. of the legal voters of Red Lake county decide to move it. If St. Hilaire came up for the county seat, Thief River Falls would oppose her, while if Thief River Falls came up for the county seat, St. Hilaire would oppose her. Thus it will be seen that the question of moving the county seat to either of these two towns is utterly rediculous because it is impossible, and it is very easy for these people to offer free court-houses when they know they can never be used—just to blind the voter and influence him to vote against the bonds.

It always resolves itself into the question, will it be cheaper for the tax payers to build a court house or to continue renting as we are now doing. The voter will plainly see that that is the cue. Look over the statement again published in another column and note that at the end of twenty years the saving will not only have paid off the court house bonds, but will have left a surplus of over $7,000.

Remember a free court house would do no good at St. Hilaire or Thief River Falls, because the county could not use it, as a court house must be located at the county seat, which will never be moved from Red Lake Falls.

Red Lake Falls Ought to Be, as She Is, the County Seat.

Over thirteen years ago Red Lake Falls began the agitation for a division of Polk county. Early and late our people worked, year in and year out, meeting every defeat with doubled courage to try again. At last we succeeded. Thief River Falls gave us FOUR votes for division; St. Hilaire gave us TWELVE. Red Lake Falls and the intelligent farmers of the county who were tired of going to Crookston, carried the thing through. It cost Red Lake Falls people much money. Yet, after all, we were not so poor but what we could, and did, furnish a court house free to the county for a period of two years, when it did not cost the county a cent.

Now, after all this, Red Lake Falls is the best city in the county. We have a metropolitan, progressive little city here; a prosperous, generous lot of people, who are building up a commercial centre for Red Lake county that is bound to help the whole county by reflex action; bound to make a better market, and we are paying two cents more for butter and eggs than St. Hilaire and Thief River, and so it goes all along the line.

If Red Lake Falls had not succeeded in dividing Polk county, Lambert farmers would still have to go to Crookston, a distance of 36 miles, Equality a distance of 48 miles and Garnes a distance of 42 miles. Farm lands would remain dead and dormant property, and there would be no hope in the future.

The county seat ought to be, is, and always will be, at Red Lake Falls.

Reception and Card Party.

The reception and card party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Hunt Monday night in honor of Miss Mamie Kaufer, was a very successful affair. Eight tables were used at progressive cinch. After cards and refreshments, the spacious dining room was brought into requisition for dancing. That the party was a pleasant and enjoyable one in the fullest sense of the word goes without saying, for the Hunt home is famous far and near for its generous hospitality and its store of good cheer. The guests were: Misses Mamie Kaufer, Lorena Schreiter, Rachel Taylor, May Buse, Lillie Buse, Alice Buse, Etta Zaiser, Mabel Owen, Kate Martin, Gertie Hennemuth, Agnes Gerceau, Agnes Rodgers, Etta Garceau, Maud Menil; Messrs. Miss Mabel Owen won the ladies' head prize—a sterling silver spoon; Andrew Ruburtus captured the gents' head trophy—a sterling silver paper knife; while Miss Rachel Taylor and H. H. Zeiser carried off the booby awards—a rattle and a jewsharp, respectively.

BETTER TRAIN SERVICE.

The Great Northern Extension a Sure Thing in the Spring.

It never rains but it pours. The Gazette some time ago made the announcement that the Great Northern would, in the spring, extend its road north from Thief River Falls to Roseau County and south from Red Lake Falls to Dugdale, thus giving us close connections with the through transcontinental service and the Twin City service. The latest news comes through the Minneapolis Times, to the effect that all arrangements have been completed, and gives the further good news that Red Lake Falls is to be given a new brick depot, the old one here to be moved to Dugdale. There will be to trains daily, from the south in the morning and from the north in the evening. This will give Red Lake County taxpayers fine facilities for getting to and from the county seat in a day.

Rent.

During the last year, Red Lake county paid for rent of the present court house	$	390 00
Total rent paid, 1899		428 10

Cost of Vault.

The present temporary vault has already cost the county	393 23
But as it is altogether too small for the present needs of the county, a new one must be built at a very early date, and as it must be larger than the present one, the cost would be about	500 00

If built in connection with a new court house it would remain the county's property and be part of its assets, but if built on the present leased ground, it will be just that much money wasted whenever the county gets through with the use of it.

Insurance.

The present rate of insurance for the contents of the court house is $2.15 per $100.00, while the rate in a new brick structure would be about 40 cents per $100

Cost of insurance under present conditions being $2,000 on contents of building	$	43 00
Cost of same amount in new building		8 00
Net saving per year on $2,000 insurance		35 00

Liability to Loss.

In case of the destruction of the present inflammable court house property situated in one of the most dangerous frame rows in the city, the loss would amount to about $8,000.00 worth of county property, $8,000.00 to the school districts of the county, and about $3,000.00 to the different townships of Red Lake county, on account of the destruction of the county tax records and other valuable property, which, owing to the lack of proper vault room, is now more or less exposed.

Cost of Keeping Prisoners in Polk County Jail at 71 cents per Capita.

By referring to the last financial statement, it will be seen that Red Lake county paid to Polk county and local hotels the large sum of $660.27 for board and keep of prisoners from Red Lake county. With proper jail facilities these prisoners would be boarded by Red Lake county at from 35 to 40 cents per day per capita, effecting a saving on this one item of about half, or $330.00.

Cost of Watching and Transporting Prisoners.

The last financial statement shows an expenditure for sheriff's and deputies' fees, DURING COURT, amounting to the enormous sum of $928.59. The greater part of this was for the expense incurred in transporting prisoners to and from the Polk county jail, for night and day watch for prisoners in custody pending trial. Eight men besides the sheriff, being by necessity employed. With jail facilities at home, this expense would be cut in two, effecting a saving of $464.29.

Under the present arrangement, if carried on for 20 years, the cost would stand as follows:

RECAPITULATION:

Rent for court house at $428.10 per year		$ 8562 00
New vault (estimated cost)		500 00
Interest on $500 for 20 years at 5 per cent		500 00
$35.00 per year extra at present insurance rate carried for 20 years		700 00
Present extra cost keeping prisoners for 20 years		6600 00
" " " transporting " " " "		9285 80
Present total extra expenditures, such as would not be incurred if Red Lake county had a courthouse and jail of its own		26147 80
Proposed bond issue	$ 10000 00
20 years' interest at 5 per cent	10000 00
Total	20000 00
Less premium at time of sale (estimated)	1000 00
Total		19000 00

And last, but not least, the city of Red Lake Falls offers a free site as a gift to the county, and it will be a small matter to select a site high and well drained, where it would be possible to utilize the basement of the new court house as a jail.

Let every voter consider all these matters carefully. The figures here submitted are plain facts and clearly prove that at the end of 20 years, if we DO NOT BUILD a court house, the extra expence incurred by NOT HAVING one, would not only pay for a $10,000 court house and jail but besides leave the county a neat cash balance of $7,147.80, and if this enormous drain at the county's funds is not stopped by erecting a court house and jail, our extra expense will amount as above stated to $26,147.80; and worse still, the county will have no buildings nor anything else to show for this money.

Now as to building the court house at Red Lake Falls, every voter may rest assured that by doing so he will not be gambling on the future, he will take no chances. Red Lake Falls has as bright and promising a future before it as any town in the Northwest, be it from an agricultural, commercial, manufacturing or educational point of view; it affords the best market in the county, it has a high school equalled by few and surpassed by none in the Northwest, its doors are open to the farmers' boys and girls; everything about the schools is free to the young people of the county.

Many more facts and reasons may be cited, but believing this to be sufficient, we shall leave it to the intelligent voters of Red Lake county to judge as to what is to their own best interest.

Submitted by the Citizens of Red Lake Falls.

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER
—BY—
PHIL A. KAUFER.

Great Logic This

THIEF RIVER FALLS NEWS LETS THE CAT OUT OF THE BAG---SAYS THIS BOND ELECTION WILL DETERMINE WHETHER THE COUNTY SEAT IS TEMPORARILY OR PERMANENTLY LOCATED AT RED LAKE FALLS---EVIDENTLY THINKS ALL THOSE WHO WANT THE COUNTY SEAT TO REMAIN AT RED LAKE FALLS SHOULD VOTE "YES" FOR THE BONDS.

Following is the Thief River Falls News' statement:

The county seat is at present only temporarily located at Red Lake Falls, but the building of a court house would mean that it would be permanently located there. Thief River Falls has hopes that some day it may become the county seat of either this county or of a new county to be formed of surrounding territory, and if the proposition to build a court house at Red Lake Falls carries, our hopes could never be realized.

It should be remembered that this is not a fight between St. Hilaire and Red Lake Falls for the county seat—it is merely a question of whether it is temporarily or permanently located at Red Lake Falls—and so long as we can keep it temporarily located we will be in a position to make Red Lake Falls agree to any proposition we may make in the future, but if the county seat is permanently located there, they would never let us out of the county. At present we hold the "age" and should keep it.

The above is a fair specimen of Thief River Falls logic. The article is taken from the Thief River Falls News. The statement that Lake Falls is not the permanent county seat is a lie.

As to the balance of the article, it is all a bad break, showing plainly that the townsite schemers of Thief River Falls can say nothing against the bonds, BUT THEY WANT TO GET THE COUNTY SEAT AWAY FROM RED LAKE FALLS.

Outrageous Attempt at Treachery!!

Can the Farmers Be Fooled?

It is Left for Them to Answer at the Polls.

The Court House Bond Matter is in Their Hands---Their Vote Will Defeat or Carry it.

Can They be Fooled by the Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire Insults to Their Good Judgment?

For the past several weeks the Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire papers have been publishing a standing offer of a free court house to Red Lake county. The respective offers are in the form of bonds, signed by residents of the towns making them and in each case duly acknowledged by notaries public. That is to say this what they CLAIM. But who of you VOTERS have seen the bonds, and who of you EVER EXPECT to, and who of you believe THEY ARE IN EXISTENCE? You have no proof of it, that's sure.

If they have really drawn it, now, the fact of the matter is, the bond is not worth the paper it is written upon, and is so cunningly drawn up and manipulated that not one of the signers could be held, for the whole proceeding is illegal from beginning to end.

First, the St. Hilaire instrument is signed by K. O. Gigstad. The acknowledgement is taken by K. O. Gigstad, notary public. According to law no one can legally take his own acknowledgment. The whole bond is therefore null and void.

The Thief River Falls instrument is signed by K. M. Hansen. The acknowledgment is taken by K. M. Hansen. No one can, according to law, take his own acknowledgement. The whole bond is therefore null and void.

Second, the offer itself is illegal, and against the election laws of the state.

Third, the "bonds" are signed in several instances by firms, such as "Hansen & Barzen," which is not legal. In fact, the whole affair is a fabric of deceit.

Now, this is an act of base treachery on the part of the people of Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire against the innocent voters of Red Lake county. A bright, promising offer of a free site, court house and jail, from both these towns, so as to catch the vote of the honest taxpayer who is honestly striving to do his best from an economical standpoint, but concocted in such a manner that after election they would give the laugh to the poor farmers who were gulled. We speak of the farmer because the farmers have the vote, and whichever way they vote the election will go. What think you of a people who could stoop to such acts of treachery? Of a people who would deliberately put up a game to fool the taxpayer into voting with them, and who would after the election give the voter the laugh, or say to one another, "Didn't we fool them? Didn't we trap them in nicely with our bogus bond that was not worth a straw?"

It is one of the vilest insults to the intelligence of the voters of a county ever perpetrated, and the way to tell them "I see through your scheme" is to go against them in the election and vote "YES" on the bond issue thus showing that you have judgment sufficient to figure these things out for yourself, and you know that the new court house means economy, and less taxes.

Red Lake Falls Gazette.

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER
—BY—
PHIL. A. KAUFER.

NOT A GOOD ARGUMENT.

The up river papers are saying that a good court house can not be built for $10,000, but this is all wrong. An example of what can be done for $9,000 is the Red Lake Falls high school building, which cost about that sum. This building is about twice as large as a court house would need to be. It is a two story building, with basement and attic, and we publish a cut of it herewith. Of course the new court house would be a brick building, but reducing the size of this by one-third, the cost would be about the same. Kittson county's court house was erected at a cost of $12,000. Those who have seen this building say it is a large, commodious, handsome structure, comparing favorably with the court houses of other counties in this section. A court house with jail in basement could be built for $10,000.

The controller of the treasury has decided that officers and soldiers belonging to the volunteer organizations brought into the service in the war with Spain and discharged at its close, are to be regarded as discharged as a matter of right and not for their own convenience, and are entitled to traveling allowances in kind or commutation. The place of discharge and a subsequent enlistment, or a refusal to enlist again do not in any way affect the soldier's right to extra pay.

* * *

The consul general at Cape Town, Africa, serves notice on American manufacturers, through a report to the state department, that as soon as the war in South Africa is over there will be a boom which will afford many opportunities for the introduction of American goods and American enterprises. The country will then be short of supplies, particularly food stuffs, and in many other directions the demand will be large. Vehicles, tools and harness will be needed; much furniture has been destroyed, and the country will want the countless things required by one emerging from a war.

* * *

Voter, if you want the county seat to remain at Red Lake Falls, vote "Yes" for the bonds. If this matter is settled at this election, remember it is settled, and there will will be no more expense connected with the issue. If the bonds are voted down another election will of course have to be called, making an expense of some $2,000; and still another election would likely be called by the Thief River Falls or St. Hilaire schemers to move the county seat from Red Lake Falls. These two elections would be sure to come, at a total cost of some $4,000, and as it is plain that Red Lake county must have a court house, because it is too expensive for us not to have one, the quicker the matter is settled the better. Vote "Yes" on the bonds and save taxes.

Patriotism is always commendable, but in every breast there should be not only the desire to be a good citizen, but to be strong, able bodied and well fitted for the battle of life. To do this, pure blood is absolutely necessary, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the one specific which cleanses the blood thoroughly. It acts equally well for both sexes and all ages.

VIC'S LETTER.

San Josie, P. I., Dec. 25, 1899.
To The Gazette:

It is with pleasure that I will take a moment to write a few lines and let your readers know how we are spending Christmas.

I think my last letter was sent from this town and dated about the first of this month. Our men had just come in from the mountain and disposed of their prisioners. Since then they have gone out again and captured more plunder and prisoners. They have captured another one of Aggie's bull carts and re captured the flag of the Yorktown, Lieut. Gilmore's ship, and also heard the lieutenant's whereabouts, if not steps that will free him. Meanwhile the rest of the 4th cavalry went to the south line, and last night news came to us that Gen. Lawton had been killed. Two lieutenants of his staff and eleven troopers of I troop, 4th Cavalry, are also absent but accounted for with the heroes. They were killed near Manila by a treacherous act done under the flag of truce. It has been noticed that such treachery has often been played, one instance being in this town, when the supposed friendly natives obtained permission to pass a corpse to bury outside the American line in a supposed cemetery. Several were passed and supposed to be buried when one day a close inspection was made and the coffin was found to be filled with guns.

Christmas will not be noticed much here. I went on guard last night at 6 o'clock and will therefore put in my whole day at my post. As to a Christmas tree or something of the kind it is all out of the question. Stockings we have very few of to hang up. Christmas dinner will be a little better than Thanksgiving dinner—fried bacon, hardtack and coffee. I have bought me a pumpkin, and with the chicken stew that we will have at the mess I intend to have at least one good and hearty meal in the Philippines. My dinner bill of fare will be chicken stew, hardtack, coffee, pumpkin and possibly stewed apples.

I think that this is all for this time. Yours, as ever, Vic.

NOTICE.

Garceau Bros.

Binder Twine.

Stillwater, Minn., Feb. 7th, 1900.

Dear Sir:

At a meeting of the Board of Managers held this day, the prices of twine f. o. b. Stillwater, to farmers or actual consumers only, were fixed as follows:

Manila and Sisal mixed, 12½ cents por pound (only 300,000 pounds made).

Pure Sisal, 10 cents per pound.

No pure Manila has been made, and none will be made this season.

During the season from August 1st, 1897, to August 1st, 1898, the price of Manila hemp ranged from 4⅜ to 5 cents, and Sisal from 3⅜ to 5⅜ cents per pound. For the year '98 to '99 about 1,700,000 pounds of Manila were carried over, which cost an average of 4.35 cents per pound. The price of Manila the same year, ranged from 6⅜ to 7⅞, and the price of Sisal from 6 and 1-16 to 7¾ cents per pound.

For the current year, Aug. 1st, 1899, to Aug. 1st, 1900, the average cost of Sisal purchased by us has been 9 and 4-100 cents per pound delivered at Stillwater, which is a little more than double the average price of '97 and '98; and the advance in twine oil has been about two hundred per cent. In view of these facts the price established by the Board of Managers barely covers the cost of material, cost of manufacture and a reasonable allowance for repairs and depreciation of the plant.

The gross earnings tax collected from the railroads doing business in Minnesota will this year reach the sum of $1,500,000, or nearly $250,000 more than last year. At the present rate of increase it will be but a short time before the state will be relieved of the burden of a direct tax for its support, the revenue from the railroads and other institutions which contribute to the state's exchequer being sufficient to pay its running expenses.

A Woman's Trials

Increase from girlhood to the grave.

The question of health is always before her. Thirty years of her life is a battle with menstruation, and not one woman in a hundred escapes the ills which lie in wait from month to month.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored a million women to health.

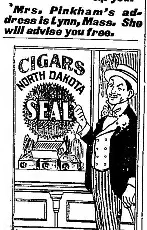
Mrs. Pinkham has fifty thousand such letters. Her counsel is safe counsel. It always helps women and it will help you.

Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass. She will advise you free.



An Invitation to Women

All the world knows of the wonderful cures which have been made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, yet some women do not realize that all that is claimed for it is absolutely true.

If all suffering women could be made to believe that Mrs. Pinkham can do all she says she can, their suffering would be at an end, for they would at once profit by her advice and be cured.

There is no more puzzling thing than that women will suffer great pain month after month when every woman knows of some woman whom Mrs. Pinkham has helped, as the letters from grateful women are constantly being published at their own request.

The same derangements which make painful or irregular periods with dull backaches and headaches, and dragging-down sensations, presently develop into those serious inflammations of the feminine organs which completely wreck health.

Mrs. Pinkham invites women to write freely and confidentially to her about their health and get the benefit of her great experience with the sufferings of women. No living person can advise you so well. No remedy in the world has the magnificent record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for absolute cures of female ills. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass.

Three Letters from One Woman, Showing how She Sought Mrs. Pinkham's Aid, and was cured of Suppression of the Menses and Inflammation of the Ovaries.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I have been in bed a year. Doctors say I have female weakness. I have a bad discharge and much soreness across my ovaries, bearing-down pains and have not menstruated for a year. Doctors say the menses will never appear again. Hope to hear from you."—MRS. J. F. BROWN, Holton, Kans., April 1, 1898.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I received your letter. I have taken one bottle and a half of your Vegetable Compound, and used two packages of your Wash, and feel stronger and better. I can walk a few steps, but could not before taking your Compound. I still have the discharge and am sore across the ovaries, but not so bad. Every one thinks I look better since taking your Vegetable Compound."—MRS. J. F. BROWN, Holton, Kans., Aug. 13, 1898.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I think it is my duty to let you know the good that Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound has done me. After I took three bottles, menses appeared, and I began to feel stronger and all my pain was gone. Yours is the only medicine that ever helped me. I am able now to work around the house, something I did not expect to do again."—MRS J. F. BROWN, Holton, Kans., Jan. 25, 1899.

Three More Letters from One Woman, Relating how She was Cured of Irregular Menstruation, Leucorrhœa and Backache.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I am suffering and need your aid. I have pains in both sides of the womb and a dragging sensation in the groin. Menstruation irregular and painful; have leucorrhœa, bearing-down pains, soreness and swelling of the abdomen, headache, backache, nervousness, and can neither eat nor sleep."—MRS. CARRIE PHILLIPS, Anna, Ill., July 19, 1897.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I want to thank you for what you have done for me. When I wrote to you I was a total wreck. Since taking your Vegetable Compound, Liver Pills and Sanative Wash, my nerves are stronger and more steady than ever before, and my backache and those terrible pains are gone. Before I took your medicine I weighed less than one hundred and thirty pounds. I now weigh one hundred and fifty-five pounds. Your medicine is a godsend to poor weak women. I would like to ask you why I cannot have a child. I have been married nearly three years."—MRS. CARRIE PHILLIPS, Anna, Ill., Dec. 1, 1897.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I did just as you advised me, and now I am the happy mother of a fine baby girl. I believe I never would have had her without your Vegetable Compound."—MRS. CARRIE PHILLIPS, Anne, Ill., Jan. 27, 1899.

Proof that Falling of the Womb is Overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—When I wrote to you some time ago, I had been suffering from falling of the womb for many years without obtaining relief. Was obliged to wear a bandage all the time; also had bad headache and backache, felt tired and worn out. After taking six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and four boxes of Liver Pills, I discarded my bandage and have not had to wear it since. I am entirely cured."—MRS. J. P. TROUTMAN, Box 44, Hamilton, Ohio.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—For nearly two years I was unable to work. I was very weak and could not stand on my feet but a few minutes at a time. The doctors said I had falling and inflammation of the womb. I began to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after using five bottles I feel like a new woman."—MRS. P. N. BLAKE, Confluence, W. Va.

NURSE TOMKINS

Nurse Tomkins didn't profess to be "none of your 'ighly trained nurses"—she didn't 'old with "them newfangled notions"—she didn't see "where the thermometer and the 'ygienic measures came in. People didn't live no longer than before all this washing and rinsing was started."

Thus soliloquized Nurse Tomkins in my presence after I had engaged her services to attend my wife for a passing and slight indisposition. Mildred did not improve rapidly, not so quickly as her anxious husband would have liked, and at last—that was on the Sunday—with a deeply rooted sense of distrust toward her nurse, I decided on taking up my station in the invalid's room. I entered. The fire burned low, the window was open, and the cold, bleak wind of an early spring day blew in. "Your fire is low, Mildred," I said. "The room feels cold." Nurse Tomkins adjusted her cap, settled her apron and commenced a series of attacks on the fire. Bang, bang, bang, went the poker. I looked at the woman with a look which has caused a brave man to flinch. "These beastly lodging 'ouse grates—small and poky," said the nurse under her breath. The fire sent up a fitful blaze, more coals were shoveled on, a rattle of fire irons, and the nurse's work was done. Tomkins walked to the bed, collecting bottles in her progress. One was eau de cologne, another a salts bottle. "Smell these!" she exclaimed, presenting the apex of each bottle to the patient's nose. Mildred was taken by surprise, and the strong salts made her gasp. I commanded my language and sat still, considering the situation with a calmness which afterward astonished me. So long as I was by it was all right, I said to comfort myself, and I would always be by so long as Mildred was being "nursed."

I ensconced myself in an easy chair which was drawn up to the fireside. On the dressing table near by a little cloud of blue smoke ascended to the ceiling, a sickly eastern smell emanating from the burning paper. I leaned over and blew it out. I did not approve of my wife's room smelling of these scents. Nurse saw the action. She stopped shaking the pillows into a hard mass and looked at me questioningly. "Them papers purify the atmosphere of a sickroom," she said in explanation. "At my last case I burned them day and night. Captain Eames' wife—she was a real lady, and she liked fine smells." Mildred told me afterward Mrs. Eames' name had been a familiar one to her and that she appeared to have been a most remarkable woman. She evidently was a good patient in so far as endurance went. "Mrs. Eames and me," continued Nurse, resuming her "explanation" of the burning papers, "we 'ad the same views on your modern nursing and them 'igh and mighty young modern nurses who are 'aving their 'eads turned by all them newfangled notions and them fands and associations—and Mrs. Eames and me we often said as 'ow it was all fudge! Now, in 'er case," Nurse Tomkins went on, "them doctors ordered 'er to eat nothing all day long. Well, that wasn't the first case of typhoid I 'ad nursed—and I knew well the pretty young creature's strength couldn't 'old out against starvation for weeks—she, as was accustomed to ride in her carriage and 'ave the best victuals in the land—so I just judges for myself, and I takes 'er up a cut of meat on the sly—she that sad and beseeching-like for a bit of something to eat—and didn't she just perk up at it! And looked so pretty with all her laces and frills round her bonny face—'twasn't the first case of typhoid I 'ad by no means."

"And Mrs. Eames recovered?" I asked.

"The pretty creature, she died in my arms as gentle and mild as a lamb, and I never saw a prettier deathbed," responded Tomkins. "She was a real lady—the flowers in her room were something lovely—and 'er husband, he sobbed 'is eyes out, and no wonder—she that was worth a dozen of 'im—and when I left that 'ouse, after all my devoted duty, 'e never so much as give me a sixpence more than my pay."

Mildred's head tossed restlessly on the pillow. "Nurse," I said, and I held the door open as I spoke, "will you come and speak to me a minute down stairs?" I left the room. Tomkins followed me into the dining room.

"Tell me," I asked her, "what training have you had in nursing?"

"Twelve years," she answered, her head held high.

"Twelve years—at a hospital?"

"Lor' bless you, no sir; I never required no teaching. I was a born nurse, and I pick it up as I go."

"As you go?" I asked. "Your institution accepts untrained nurses, then?"

"That it doesn't, sir," she returned, with spirit. "I had five years' experience when I joined. I was a nurse ever since I was 8 years old. My poor father, he suffered"—

"But," I put in, interrupting what I guessed might develop into a lengthy anecdote, "you have had no training then—no training as a nurse?"

"Nature taught me," said Tomkins. "Nature and observation. If I saw anything made a patient worse, I altered my treatment next time. I've 'ad great experience with the sick, as I am seldom called in unless it's an incurable case."

I had been pacing the narrow limits of the room while Tomkins spoke, and when she ceased I was conscious of a tremor in my speech. I didn't say much, as little as I could, but I paid Tomkins for her "services," and I satisfactorily conveyed to her mind that I could dispense with them in the future. For the sake of peace I gave the woman a few shillings beyond what she expected, but her absence, I considered, would be cheaply bought at thrice that sum, and I never felt more relieved than when I heard the rumble of the cab down the quiet seaside road. Tomkins took the landlady into her confidence before her departure, and I heard her say in the loud voice she assumed in the sickroom, "'E'll kill that dear little wife of 'is just as likely as not. 'E's had no experience with the sick, and them young husbands ain't fit to 'ave the care of a young wife. Now, if I staid"—

But I wanted to hear no more, and when I stood next by Mildred's side I took her hand in mine as if I could never let it go, and a feeling of heroism seized me that Mildred was saved from the jaws of death and that I was her savior. —Westminster Budget.

He Could Shoot Straight.

Said the man who had traveled: "Years ago in a western frontier town a traveler, footsore and weary, arrived one afternoon and made his way down the one street of the burg. He was suddenly startled by the sounds of shots, and, looking up, discovered four men shooting at one another. The men were standing at the four corners of an imaginary square, and each was shooting at the man cater-corner to him. Being in what he supposed a safe position, he paused to watch the outcome of the fray, when a bullet, going wide of its intended mark, cut by his ear. That roused his wrath, and, drawing his pistol, he dropped the man in his tracks who had all but dropped him. Another bullet flying wide from its mark, but near to the stranger, caused him to lay out one of the other pair, and the two remaining men sought safety in flight. In that particular town duels had been previously comparatively harmless amusements, owing to the poor marksmanship of the contestants, but the man who could shoot had arrived, and the inhabitants, although they turned out to greet him in a body and grant him the freedom of the city, did so in manifest awe and trepidation.

"Whenever he told the story afterward, he used to wind it up impressively by saying, 'And, boys, in that town after that they went around me as if I had been a swamp.'"—New York Tribune.

Conquered the Professor.

The mighty Jowett of Oxford invited a student to walk with him. After they had been on the road for about 80 minutes the pupil finally spunked up courage and remarked, "Nice day, professor."

"Do you really think so?" was the faraway answer of Jowett.

Another half hour passed, and the boy stammered out:

"Nice road, professor."

The teacher responded, "Do you really think so?"

The matriculate began to boil in his bones and to get even more frightened, but he managed to again blurt out, "Clouds seem to be filling up with rain, professor," to which the answer was:

"Do you really think so?"

The two returned to the college ground, and the professor said, "Well, young man, we have been walking for several hours, and everything you said has been as stupid as it possibly could be."

His companion replied, "Do you really think so?"

The professor looked at the young man a moment. Then he smiled and grasped his hands warmly. From that time on conversation never flagged during their walks.—Saturday Evening Post.

Puzzled the Porter.

The pet fad of a certain actress is shoes, and she never travels without a pair of shoe trees in her satchel. One season she was touring the west. When she went to bed in the Pullman the first night eastward from Butte, she took off her trim walking boots and, as her custom is, slipped the trees into them and set them under the edge of the berth. It was broad daylight when she was awakened by the respectful and somewhat awestricken voice of the porter. She drew the curtains aside and looked out into the aisle. The porter was standing there, holding the shoes in his hand.

"Here they is, lady," he said.

"Well, just put them down under the berth, please," said she. The man hesitated a moment.

"Can you—can you put them on by youse'f?" he asked.

"What, the shoes?" asked the lady.

"No, miss," answered the porter. "I means your feet. Ain't these yere things feet?"

Since then she has carried the ghastly looking boot trees in her trunk.—Washington Post.

The Wrong Bird.

A certain conjurer once had an experience which was highly comical, though quite disastrous from a professional point of view.

Having produced an egg from a previously empty bag, he announced that he would follow up this trick by bringing from the bag the hen by which the egg had been laid. This little arrangement he had left to his confederate to carry out.

He proceeded to draw the bird from the bag in which it had previously been placed, but what was his consternation on finding that the alleged hen was an old rooster, which strutted about the stage with ruffled feathers and offended dignity and set up as vigorous a crowing as if he had just awakened from his nocturnal slumbers.

The whole audience shrieked with laughter, and the unfortunate conjurer made a "bolt" for his dressing room.

Variable.

"What is this title 'professor' that I hear so often?" asked the distinguished foreigner.

"Well," answered Miss Cayenne, "it's getting rather hard to tell. Usually it means a man who knows more than any one else, and sometimes it means a man who simply won't work."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Three Cornered War.

When Colonel Cartwell was military governor of Norfolk under the Confederacy in 1862, he ordered the British consul to report for duty on the home guard. To this the Englishman objected on the ground of being consul at Norfolk.

"To what government?" asked Colonel Cartwell.

"To the United States government," was the reply.

"But you are in the Confederate states, and you must show papers accrediting you to the Confederate States of America," said the colonel.

"But my government doesn't recognize you as a government," said the consul.

"Very well, then; my government doesn't recognize you as consul," briskly retorted Colonel Cartwell. "Shoulder your musket and join your company."

At this the peacefully disposed consul threatened to have a gunboat come and bombard the place before he would serve.

"That's just what I'd like to see," returned the colonel cheerfully, "for then the United States will fight you, as she claims that Norfolk is still part of the Union, and between England and the United States fighting we shall go free."

At last the consul appealed to Mr. Benjamin, the Confederate secretary of war, who ordered his exemption from military duty, and the "three cornered war" so desired by Colonel Cartwell never came to pass.—Youth's Companion.

Unique Wedding Present.

Most people know of the peculiar circumstances under which Robert Louis Stevenson won his wife. But even more romantic and astounding was the unique wedding gift he got with her.

When Stevenson met his future fate at Barbizon, a famous artists' resort near Paris, she was the wife of Mr Osborne, an Oakland gentleman. The friendship thus formed led Stevenson to pay a visit to California. He arrived at Monterey in a dying condition, but the loving care of Mrs. Osborne and her sister, Nellie Van der Grift, gradually won him back to life. The nursing completed his infatuation for the lady—an infatuation which he did not pretend to conceal. Fortunately Osborne raised no objections. He not only agreed to the divorce, but with a magnanimity rarely excelled actually attended the wedding breakfast. There he found his opportunity.

Mrs. Stevenson's one source of regret was the positive loss of her son, Lloyd Osborne, whom, of course, the father had the right to claim. Osborne made a happy speech, felicitating the newly married couple, and wound up by offering the most original of wedding presents. "To the bride," he said, "I give that which of all things is nearest and dearest to her heart, her own son."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

One He Didn't Get.

The following story of Ben Butler was told by a man who said he was present on the occasion:

"Shortly after the war General Butler delivered a lecture at Pike's Opera House in Cincinnati. The general was well on to the climax of his speech when slowly from the flies overhead descended a large wooden spoon on the end of a string. Down and down it came until it reached a point two or three inches above the speaker's head, and then it stopped.

"The audience, of course, was convulsed with mirth, but owing to his well known visual infirmity the general was the last to discover the spoon, and indeed would probably not have noticed it at all except that in making an emphatic gesture to italicize a point his hand struck the suspended spoon.

"Looking up, he recognized the enemy and took in the situation at a glance. Without any sign of embarrassment or confusion he detached it from the string and with the remark, 'Hello, there's one I didn't get,' laid it down on the stage and triumphantly finished his address."

Army Flogging.

Soon after General Gatacre was appointed an ensign in the Seventy-seventh foot he turned out with the company to which he was attached to witness the flogging of a soldier. The man, who had been convicted of a serious offense and was later to be drummed out of the corps, took his punishment badly, screaming a great deal. Ensign Gatacre shut his eyes and turned white in the face, as though he would faint. When the punishment was over, he remarked to his color sergeant, "If I see much more of this, I'll sell out."

"Used to it? I'm sure I never shall!" responded the ensign. Flogging in the army was soon abolished, however, and the future general remained in the service.

What Offended Her.

Driver—Nothing particular. Why?

Milk Dealer—She's sent word that she don't want us to serve her any more. You must have said something to offend her.

Driver—No, I didn't. I simply asked her for the money for the week's milk. She says, "You'd better chalk it up," and I says, "We do that already."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Mentioned as Usual.

Freddie—Yes.

Clara—Well, mamma said she could not see his name in the list.

Freddie—No, but the list ends up with "and others." That means papa. They always mention him that way.—Tit-Bits.

A Cork Safe.

"The most curious safe I ever saw," said a traveling man, "was a cork one, and it was made by an ingenious Dutch mechanic for a one time famous confidence man named Dr. Baggs, who operated in Denver, Salt Lake City and Frisco. The safe was a folding affair, made of paper on a backing of sheet cork, and, when it was opened up, was six feet high and looked exactly like the real thing. As it was always placed in a corner, it had only two sides, but every visible detail was complete—combination knob, hinges, lettering, bolt heads and all. When folded, it could be carried in an ordinary dress suit case. Baggs used the thing in a fake lottery office which was of itself a marvel of trick furnishing.

"When the victim entered the place, it looked like an ordinary business establishment, with desks, railings, maps on the walls, safe in the corner and several clerks at work on books. The instant he left a roll top desk was opened up into a bed, the railing was folded together and slipped into a closet, a table was transformed into a washstand, a cabinet turned into a bureau, the safe was put away in its case, the curtains were pulled down, and the room was to all appearances a simple sleeping apartment. By that means the poor dupe was never able to find the place where he had been buncoed."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Red Tape Illustrated.

A correspondent passing hurriedly into the room of the committee on rivers and harbors pulled the knob off the door.

"How can I get that fixed, do you think?" asked the congressman. "Shall I get the carpenter or the locksmith?"

"The locksmith, I suppose."

"No, sir. Were I to send for the locksmith he would tell me to consult the architect of the capitol. He has no authority to fix doorknobs. Doorknobs are permanent fixtures and are solely within the jurisdiction of the architect of the capitol."

"Do you see that bookcase there?" said the committee secretary. "I caused the carpenter to paste some cloth on the inside of the glass doors in order that the books might not show. He did the work, but when he had finished I noted that he had not cleaned the glass before he put the cloth on. The thing looked so disreputable that I asked him why he had not cleaned the glass. He told me that the glass was a permanent fixture and that he had no authority to touch it, but that the placing of the cloth upon it was a temporary matter and was entirely within the province of his labors. The whole thing's got to be done all over again."—Washington Cor. Cleveland Plain Dealer.

She Didn't Buy It.

The following story will show the high price that illustrators of reputation command for their work: A young woman who had received treatment from Dr. S. Weir Mitchell of Philadelphia and was very fond of him decided, at a recent celebration of his birthday, that a fitting and appropriate gift would be the presentation of one of the original drawings of Mr. Howard Pyle for "Hugh Wynne." Forthwith she invaded The Century company's sanctum and, with her fingers tenderly grasping a new $10 note, asked to buy the drawing. She was informed that these pictures were never sold unless exceptions were made in cases where the artist himself or the author wished to make the purchase.

"Just so," said the young woman. "I wish to present it to Dr. Mitchell."

"Ah, in that case," said the gentleman at the desk, "we shall take pleasure in giving it to you at the exact price we paid for it, which is $100."

The little lady in her excitement dropped the $10 bill. The gentleman at the desk picked it up for her and smiled while she hurriedly took her departure. The good doctor was presented with a less appropriate gift that year.—New York Times.

Clear and to the Point.

The following is taken from a hotel advertisement in the Calcutta Times: "Gentlemen who come in hotel not say anything about their meals they will be charged for, and if they should say beforehand that they are going out to breakfast or dinner, etc., and if they say that they not have anything to eat they will be charged, and if not so they will not be charged, or unless they bring it to the notice of the manager of the place, and should they want to say anything they must order the manager for one, not any one else, and unless they bring not it to the notice of the manager they will be charged for the least things accor   to the hotel rate, and no fuss will   allowed afterward about it."

A Poultry Problem.

A Somerville man borrowed a neighbor's hen on the pretense that he wanted her to sit. As soon as he got the hen he broke up the sitting habit and got her to laying eggs. In the next six weeks she laid two dozen eggs. These he sold for 40 cents a dozen, and with the 80 cents that he got for them he bought the hen. Now the question arises whether the original owner of the hen was fooled or not.—Somerville Journal.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

Vermont, Illinois, Feb. 21, 1900.

The National Editorial association will hold the annual convention at New Orleans, La., March 1, 2 and 3.

The object of the association is the advancement of the material interests and extension of the social relations of the editors of the United States.

Membership is made up of delegates from state and territorial associations and of district associations and press clubs of 25 or more members which were organized and in affiliation with the National Editorial association prior to 1898.

The place of rendezvous is St. Louis. To this point the delegates from all over the Union, to the number of about 350, are speeding.

The party will doubtless number some 500, as many delegates are accompanied by ladies. The trip from St. Louis to New Orleans will be made over the Illinois Central. Our party to-date comprises only a portion of the Minnesota delegates who took the Burlington at St. Paul last night. Among them are the national executive committeeman, Joseph Leicht, of Winona; ex-Congressman Halvor E. Boen, of the Fergus Falls Globe; Julius Thorson, of the Swift County Monitor, Benson; J. C. Norby and wife, of Norman County Herald, Ada; C. F. Spencer and lady, of the Press, Atwater; Frank Zins, of Der Nordstern, St. Cloud, and the writer, accompanied by Mrs. Kaufer. A number of the party had retired for the night before the train's arrival at Winona, where Joseph Leicht, of the Westlicher Herald and Sontag, Winona, got on. About 6:30 the next morning everybody aboard the sleeper not already up was awakened by Mr. Leicht's voice in stentorian tones calling on the porter to find his fur cap. "It must be on the train. You took it. Where is it?" etc. It finally dawned upon Mr. Leicht, however, that he was taking a trip south and had wisely left the fur cap at home. His broad brimmed hat, well calculated to dissipate the effects of the warm southern sun, hung waiting on its peg. Needless to say, Mr. Leicht hears frequently of "my fur cap."

It is interesting to note the gradual change in climate conditions as we speed southward. We are now nearing St. Louis. The Illinois river, which we recently crossed, is clear of ice: the ground is almost bare of snow, showing patches here and there. It is raining. Mud everywhere. The lay of the country is much like that of our own—prairie, broken here and there by a river with wooded banks. Hundreds of acres of corn fields, with corn standing shocked in the fields. Beautiful farm homes and many prosperous villages along the route.

Reading between the lines of the conflicting reports, it really looks as though the British were getting the better of the Boers.

The Bond Election.

The election held last Saturday for the purpose of voting on the question of issuing $10,000 bonds to build a court house in Red Lake county resulted in the defeat of the bonds by a majority of 153.

This was a move in the interest of economy in county affairs, but the people did not so regard it—at least a majority of them. The result was, no doubt, a disappointment to the many who, having the welfare of the county at heart, had worked zealously for the bonds.

THE CONTEST

MISS KATE MARTIN AGAIN HAS FIRST PLACE BUT IT IS VERY CLOSE.

Remember that the voting contest closes on March 27, and the vote by coupons on March 13.

The Most Popular Young Lady contest waxes interesting in view of the fact that the vote runs so close. Miss Buse now stands slightly behind the others but the rumor that she has a large number of votes in reserve still persists.

Miss Doris Bray leads as most popular school girl, having received an addition of 265 votes to her number this week.

COUNTY NEWS NOTES.

BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENTS.

Dugdale.

I. P. Deschneau is our new operator.

H. H. McDougal, of Black Duck, passed through here on his way home last week.

"After doctors failed to cure me of pneumonia I used One Minute Cough Cure and three bottles of it cured me It is also the best remedy on earth for whooping cough. It cured my grand children of the worst cases," writes Jno. Berry, Loganton, Pa. It is the only harmless remedy that gives immediate results. Cures coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles. It prevents consumption. Children always like it. Mothers endorse it. W. A. Schreiter.

Emardville.

Messrs. Cyr and Jensen, from Red Lake Falls, went by our home on Tuesday of last week on their way home from the eastern part of the county. They stopped a few minutes to talk about the bond issue.

"I had dyspepsia for years. No medicine was so effective as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It gave immediate relief. Two bottles produced marvelous results," writes L. H. Warren, Albany, Wis. It digests what you eat and cannot fail to cure. W. A. Schreiter.

Geo. Grundy is now out again, tramping the country.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorentz Lee visited Red Lake Falls Tuesday of last week. She hasn't been in a city or village since she came here, which is about five years.

We understand that the wedding bells will soon be sounding again here. The young couple both belong to our town.

We had the pleasure of meeting two of Red Lake Falls' best citizens, Messrs. Theo. LaBissonniere and E. G. Storaasli at the election hall last Saturday.

The vote on the bond issue turned out to be a little better than we anticipated — 35 votes for and 13 against the bonds. 2 votes were thrown out on account of not being marked right.

Olaf Lee and Harold Bugge were among those who took out their second papers and were declared full-fledged citizens of the U. S. at last district court.

Mr. Theodore Nilson, of Maple Lake, is visiting with Mr. P. Medchill and his brother, Martin Johnson.

Geo. Barbs, Mendota, Va., says: "Nothing did me so much good as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. One dose relieved me, a few bottles cured me." It digests what you eat and always cures dyspepsia. W. A. Schreiter.

Sanders.

We had a snapping cold day on the special election day. Noses and faces were all in bloom as the voters walked up to the polls to express their will.

The town clerks of the county met at the county seat Feb. 22nd last, and shook hands and got acquainted, and I think some fine friendships were formed to strengthen the good work of building up our fine county.

A. W. Lind, treasurer of Sanders, is on the sick list. His rapid recovery is hoped for by his many friends.

"I had bronchitis every winter for years and no medicine gave me permanent relief till I began to take One Minute Cough Cure. I know it is the best cough medicine made," says J. Koontz, Corry, Pa. It quickly cures coughs, colds, croup, asthma, grippe, and throat and lung troubles. It is the children's favorite remedy. Cures quickly. W. A. Schreiter.

NO COUPONS WILL BE COUNTED AFTER NEXT TUESDAY EVENING.

Next Tuesday evening, March 13, will be the end of the voting by coupons. Every coupon to be voted must be in before 7:15 of that evening. The coupon ticket will not be printed after to-day. This is done to avoid the rush of the other ballots to be counted the last week, March 27, as it is well known that the candidates all have a big reserve which they will vote the last week.

The Most Popular Young Lady contest was not very lively this week there being only a small vote for two of the candidates. Miss Martin still remains in the lead.

Misses Della Toupin and Dora Marchand, of the School Girl contest received 200 and 300 respectively this week.

Gleason Elected President.

At the annual meeting of the auditors of the different counties of the state, which was held in St. Paul last week, Polk county was honored by that body in the selection of John Gleason, her very efficient auditor, as president for the ensuing year. The honor and compliment comes with added force to Mr Gleason from the fact that it was altogether unsought and unexpected. The office has never before been held outside of the Twin Cities, Duluth and Stillwater.

The association is formed of the auditors and ex-auditors of the state, and 47 of the 82 counties were represented at the meeting. Its purposes and aims are to insure uniformity of the records and work of the various counties, and by an interchange of ideas to facilitate arriving at conclusions that will enable the auditors to render more efficient service to their counties.

One important feature that will be wrought out by the organization will be the simplification of the tax laws which obtain in the state, removing the ambiguity which now exists, and making them easier of interpretation both to the officers and courts. Through this organization will be trasmitted to every auditor in the state copies of all opinions rendered by the attorney general touching cases that come up pretaining to county affairs, and also all supreme court decisions bearing upon county matters in general.

The people of Polk and Red Lake counties, knowing Mr. Gleason's thorough knowledge of the business of his office and his general information in the field of county government, can assure the state at large that the aims of the organization will be carried out by its new president in a manner that will be entirely and thoroughly satisfactory.

His Time Mixed.

Michael O'Brien, of Lambert, who has been serving thirty days in the Polk county jail for stealing a log house, will be given his liberty if permission is given by the district judge. He was to serve thirty days, but by mistake his committant read fifty days.

The Lost is Found.

Henry Lizotte, of Thief River Falls, yesterday appeared before Judge Sullivan and made complaint that a cow which had been stolen from his pasture June 1st, 1898, was in the possession of Peter Gossline. A search warrant was issued and placed in the hands of Officer Quigley, who proceeded to dig up Mrs. Cow and bring her into camp. Mr. Gosslin bought the cow two years ago from a stranger and supposed the man he bought her of was the owner, as, in fact he belives yet. It seems rather queer that a man who had a cow stolen that long ago would not have located her ere this or have given up the hunt in disgust. At any rate no blame can possibly be attached to Mr. Gosslin, and the allegation in the complaint that he had concealed the cow is utteraly false, and not in any way justified by the facts in the case, as the gentleman from Thief River Falls will discover ere the trouble is settled.—East Grand Forks Courier.

Good Counsel.

Look up your taxes. There will be a sale of lands under the new iron clad tax law in Minnesota on which taxes are delinquent, that will convey absolute title to purchaser. Every taxpayer should see that all taxes against his land are paid and properly credited on the book. The law makes it the business of every taxpayer to see that the books show that the taxes are paid. It is not sufficient to hold a receipt and such receipt will not be accepted as evidence as against the sale. Now is the time, before the busy season begins, to see that your tax account is all right, and be prepared by May 7, to meet the states demand for taxes or some shark will get your farm.

Relief for India Famine Sufferers

Late news from India is the most alarming that has yet come to hand. The seriously affected famine area has so expanded that 50,000,000 people are now involved. The number of those being fed by the government, to keep them from dying has reached the enormous total of 3,250,000. To add to the gloom, not only is there a famine of food, but water has failed in wells and streams. Whole villages are breaking up in search of water and food and the carcases of thousands of cattle are fouling the air. Human suffering is growing week by week more intense. The government is doing wonders but cannot possible cope with the immense problem before it. America has heard the cry and is gladly sending aid. Red Lake Falls desires to fall in line and at the Presbyterian church next Sabbath the morning and evening offerings will be given to India. The Society of Young Peoples' Christian Endeavor will also give their townspeople an opportunity to contribute to the good cause. It is hoped that there will be a generous response.

Monthly Report.

The United States land office at Crookston report for the past month shows 107 homesteads taken, 72 outside and 35 within the reservation. The final proofs numbered 37 and the cash entries 27. The total cash receipts were $5,291.32. An excellent showing, being one and one half greater than the business done a year ago at this time.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

New Orleans, Feb. 26, 1900.

The tour of the National Editorial Association reached its culmination here at New Orleans this morning. To-day and to-morrow will be given to enjoying the great Mardi Gras festivities. Wednesday will be a day of rest and Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, the 15th annual convention will be held. Fifteen years ago, at New Orleans, the National Editorial Association was organized. It has grown from a good beginning to a glorious organization embracing every state and territory in the Union, with a delegateship of over 400, representing 15,000 American newspapers.

This year St. Louis was the place of rendezvous and here at the Terminal Hotel the delegates met and affiliated. The North Star State greeted the representatives of the far Southern Lone Star State, while the Eastern brethren from the shores of the Atlantic clasped hands with those from the coast of the blue Pacific. It was an interesting, more, an inspiring occasion. Our Minnesota delegation was augmented here by John C. Wise Sr. of the Daily Review, Mankato, J. C. Berryhill, of the Real Estate Review, St. Paul, and H. C. Peterson, of the Litchfield paper. We remained in St. Louis over night and our delegation attended the production of "Quo Vadis" at the Olympic in the evening.

Thursday evening the Association boarded the Illinois Central special train on track 16 made up of 11 Pullman & Wagner sleepers and one baggage coach. By the vigilance of Minnesota's exeutive committeeman, the Hon. Joseph Leicht, of Winona, the Minnesota delegation were kept together in the car "Dolphin," The South Dakota and Texas delegation were our companions.

St. Louis is a city of 700,000, ranking fifth in point of population among the great cities of the Union. It stands midway between the Great North and the Great South. To its commercial prestige the Missouri and Mississippi rivers contribute no small share while it is one of the leading railroad centres of the country. The weather was disagreeable here, snow and sleet falling, that melted at once, and made muddy streets. St. Louis is noted for the Eads bridge over the Missouri river, one of the greatest engineering feats of the age; for its summer gardens, which are the especial delights of the laboring classes· for its residence boulevards, two of which are admittedly the equal of anything of the kind in America; for its union depot, where twenty great railway lines congregate. It is a beautiful American city, and an exceptionally representative one, owing largely to its central location, which in a measure neutralizes the Eastern, Northern, Southern and Western characteristics. It is a pro-Boer hot-hed. Leaving St. Louis at 9:30 over the Illinois Central, we were assured of every consideration, not only from the fact that this is in line with the methods of the road, but also owing to the presence of J. F. Merry, assistant general passenger agent of the Illinois Central. One engine pulled us until near Memphis, when we were stalled and it was found necessary to bring another into use. At Memphis the party made its first stop. Alighting at the Poplar St. station, a scene never to be forgotten presented itself. The benign rays of the southern sun shone warmly, and it was scarcely necessary to don wraps or light overcoats. A committee of citizens escorted the party to the historic Peabody hotel, where a breakfast awaited us—a breakfast such as would have done honor to a monarch. We were indeed in the South, and were learning by practical experience the meaning of the familiar term, "Southern hospitality." The generous citizens had provided a program both varied, interesting and instuctive, including the breakfast, and a banquet at 4 o'clock, a trolley ride around the city, a visit to the fair grounds where 800 of the finest running horses of the country were to be seen, including four valued at $40,000 each; a visit to the largest brewery in the South, where beer of the very highest order of excellence was as free as the waters that flow; to the Merchants' Cotton Press & Storage Co., where the bales of cotton, which weigh on an average 525 pounds, were pressed in the massive hydraulic machine to half their original size, so that a 34 foot car could after this pressure be loaded with 100 bales, while it would, before the bales were put through the machine, take only half as many. The machine in use in Memphis is a new one invented two years ago by J. Shipway, chief engineer and general superintendent of the company, who was present, and who took great pains in showing us about and explaining the workings of the machine. The company charges for pressing 50 cents a bale, and 40 cents a bale additional for squaring, that is, pressing twice, both ways. The capacity of the plant is 1,200 bales a day. The price of cotton in Memphis is 8½ cents, a rise of 3 cents over a year ago; but, as with our wheat and our farmers, the rise never comes until the product is out of the producers' and into the speculators' hands. So the Southern farmers are not highly prosperous—poor rather, made so from the low prices they receive for cotton, the great staple production.

Memphis is one of the most prosperous and promising commercial points in this section, if not in the country. It is practically the head of water navigation on the Mississippi; it has not known a bank failure in 25 years; important business failures are unknown; it has 11 railroads; the best sewer and water system (the Warring) known to modern science; health record among the best in the cities of the Union; and when the less fortunate Southern cities are sometimes visited by the yellow fever scourge and and are quarantined to the rest of the world. Memphis, made impervious by her matchless water and sewerage systems, opens wide her portals and bids the refugees enter. Memphis has a population of about 80,000, and if there is a promising commercial centre in the country, or a delightful place to live in, here it is. The weather here, on the 24th of February, was like a warm day in June with us.

We are now in New Orleans, but I will take the reader along by degrees, and not skip any of the delightful and interesting main points of the trip. The Mardigras is in full sweep, windows are open and the weather is like a hot day in July at home.

Patriotism is always commendable, but in every breast there should be not only the desire to be a good citizen, but to be strong, able bodied and well fitted for the battle of life. To do this, pure blood is absolutely necessary, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the one specific which cleanses the blood thoroughly. It acts equally well for both sexes and all ages.

The next Populist national convention will be held in Sioux Falls, S. D., on May 9th.

The Northwestern Stock Breeders' association will hold a stock show and sale in Fargo on June 26 to 28. Cattle, horses, swine and sheep will be shown, and the opportunities for purchase and sale thus afforded will doubtless be appreciated by the stock men of the state.

A Lidgerwood woman who became offended with her husband circulated some false and defamatory stories about him. Later the couple "made up," and now she "skins back" the stories in the Broadaxe. The parrot's explanation of its troubles, "I talked too much," might be applied in this instance.

Ne-gah-wah-gwon-abe (Leading Feather), reigning head chief of the Chippewas of Red Lake, is dead. He was about 85 years of age. He was not a hereditary chief, but owing to his wise counsel and prowess in war against the Sioux, he was conferred the honors and title to a chieftainship by the sanction of the tribe and the recommendation of ex-Gov. Alexander Ramsey.—Fosston Thirteen Towns.

John McCoy, an old Grand Forks boy, and a graduate of the city high school, who left for Denver over a year ago in search of health, afterwards joining Co. A, Thirty-fourth Volunteer infantry, which was sent to the Philipines, has been invalided and is now en route home, expecting to arrive at San Francisco next week. When he enlisted it was with the expectation of going to the Philippines to die. Not making a success of dying he determined to come home.

The county commissioners have decided that they need a little fun and a few weeks lay-off from their arduous duties, and as such things are usually quite expensive they have unanimously voted that the county pay the fiddler. Accordingly the whole board left last Monday night for a junket to the southern part of the state on an inspecion of court houses, and when they get back they are supposed to know all there is to know about building court houses. Of course what they know wont make any material difference in the cost of plans of Polk county's new structure, but then the county commissioners will have gained some knowledge—have more fun—and the people pay the freight.—People's Press, Crookston.

Saturday evening Miss Eleanor Findeisen was pleasantly surprised by some of her young lady friends. After entering the brilliantly lighted reception room where they found the innocent hostess, they were conveyed by her to the parlor, where the evening was most enjoyably spent with music, recitations and games, after which a delicious lunch was served. At 11:30 a speech was made by the hostess and a vote of thanks given; when the guests departed, conscious that they had spent a very pleasant evening. Those present were: Henrietta Hennemuth, Katherine Pirath, Pauline Milnod, Nellie McKirnay, Bertha LaFreniere, Effie Hamry, Dora Marchand, Anna Sutter, Marjorie Rodgers, Rosa Harren and Orilla Hennemuth.

Found Dead.

On going to his work Wednesday morning C. Sundstrom, foreman of the section gang on the Great Northern railroad, found the body of Alexis Violet near the water tank north of the depot, where he had evidently frozen to death. He was in a crouching position and had made marks in the snow all around him, which appeared as if he had made a desperate struggle to regain his feet after having fallen. He was at once taken to his home and, Coroner Belair summoned. An examination of the body was made by Dr. Watson, and as there was nothing to indicate foul play, the coroner decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

Mr. Violet was 75 years of age, and well known as one of the old time residents of this section. He leaves an aged wife and eight children, five daughters and three sons, to mourn his loss. Funeral tomorrow from St. Josephs church.

THE FARMER'S GARDEN

Scientists make the startling assertion that lung and kidney ailments are rapidly increasing among the Farmers of America and assign as one of the principle reasons the lack of vegetable food in sufficient variety.

Mr. A. K. BUSH, Dover, Minnesota, Horticulturist, with the Minnesota Farmer's Institute, also a successful gardener and farmer, has prepared an illustrated plan of the Farmer's Garden he is advocating. It is the most practical thing of the kind ever brought to our attention and does away very largely with hand labor. Mr. Bush's plan provides for a Fruit and Vegetable Garden that may be easily cared for with the aid of a horse and an ordinary farm cultivator. It is illustrated by a diagram and instructions are given as to culture, rotation, etc. Every farmer, in fact, every one who has or wants a garden, should have this folder, entitled The Farmer's Garden. It is published by Northrup-King & Co., the seedsmen of Minneapolis, Minnesota, and is sent FREE to those who write them asking for it, and who will mention the fact that they saw the offer in this paper.

PETITION FOR A PUBLIC DITCH.

To the Honorable Board of County Commissioners of Red Lake county, Minn.

The petition of the undersigned respectfully shows:

That your petitioners are the owners of certain lands in Red Lake county over and through which the hereinafter described ditch, drain or watercourse, as well as the hereinafter described side, lateral, spur or branch ditch or ditches will pass, and which lands will be liable to be affected by or assessed for the expense of the construction of the same: and that the construction of the said hereinafter described side, lateral, spur or branch ditch or ditches is necessary to secure the object of the improvement contemplated by the construction of said main or principal ditch;

That the following is a general description of the proposed starting point, route and terminus of said proposed main or principal ditch, viz.:

Commencing at or near the southwest corner of the southeast quarter of southwest quarter of section twenty-four (24) in township one hundred fifty-four (154), range forty-four (44), and running thence east along the north side of the section line through section twenty-four (24) and section nineteen (19) to the southeast corner of section nineteen (19), in township one hundred fifty-four (154), range forty-three (43); thence along on the west side of the section line to the southeast corner of section thirty (30); thence east along on the north side of the section line to the southeast corner of section twenty-nine (29); thence south along the west side of the section line to the southeast corner of section thirty-two (32); thence east along on the north side of the section line to Red Lake river.

Your petitioners further state that there are large tracts of lands lying adjacent to and in the vicinity of the line of the said proposed main or principal ditch which will be directly and greatly benefited by the construction thereof, said lands being low and wet, and at certain seasons of every year they are covered with water, thereby rendering said lands unproductive and useless.

That said water, during portions of every year, becomes stagnant and foul, rendering the atmosphere in the vicinity thereof impure and unwholesome, thereby endangering, imperiling and affecting the health of the occupants of said lands and the public.

That for the reasons aforesaid the construction of such ditch or ditches is necessary, and also for the reason that by the construction thereof there will be removed from off said lands said waters, thereby promoting the health of the public at large, that the same will be of great benefit to the public highways in the vicinity thereof, by preventing in many places the overflowing of such highways;

That large tracts of lands that are unproductive and useless will thereby be very greatly increased in value, all to the great benefit, utility and convenience of the public as well as your petitioners.

Therefore your petitioners respectfully ask that such proposed ditch or ditches be constructed as provided by law, and that the same may be of such width and depth as to insure the effectual and permanent drainage of said lands.

BOND RESOLUTION.

State of Minnesota, }
County of Red Lake. } ss

Whereas, At a session of the board of county commissioners of the county of Red Lake, State of Minnesota, held on the 5th day of September, 1899, a petition signed by Chas. Hellberg and others, land owners, whose lands were liable to be affected by, or assessed for the expense of the construction of, the work proposed therein, praying for the establishment and construction of a public ditch along a route described therein, accompanied by a bond duly approved as provided by law, was filed with the county auditor of said county; and it appearing by proper evidence to the satisfaction of said board of county commissioners that at least thirty (30) days notice has been given of the pendency of said petition and of the time at which the same would be heard, as by law provided, whereupon the said board did at its session on the 5th day of September, A. D. 1899, proceed to hear and determine said petition; and said board having determined that the construction of such ditch would be of public benefit and utility, and conducive to the public health, convenience and welfare, we did accept said petition, and thereupon did appoint as viewers of said proposed work three (3) resident freeholders of said Red Lake county, who are not interested in the construction of said proposed work and are not of kin to any of the parties interested therein, and directed them to meet preparatory to commencing their duties as such viewers at the terminus of said ditch in said county at 1 o'clock p. m. on the 9th day of October, 1899, and certified copies of said petition and order of said board appointing them as said viewers was issued to and served upon said viewers as by law provided, as will more fully appear from the certificate of Charles Sampson as sheriff of said county, now on file in the office of the county auditor of said county, they proceeded at the time set in said order, with a surveyor who is a civil engineer, and made an accurate survey of the line of said ditch from its source to its outlet, and did cause stakes to be placed along said line at each 100 feet, as numbered, progressing down stream from its source, and made and filed a report thereof, and reported that said ditch would be of public utility; and in this said report made the necessary computations and assessments, description of location, the land through which the same would pass, the names of the owners, and the damages or allowances thereto, the expense attending such work and the estimates as required by law, duly sworn as required by law. And the auditor of said Red Lake county did, after the filing of said report, cause a notice to be given, to be published, posted and mailed, as by law provided, of the pendency of said petition and of the time and place set for the hearing thereof.

And Whereas, Said board of county commissioners of the county of Red Lake, Minnesota, did meet in session at the time set for the hearing of said petition, to-wit, the 5th day of January, 1900, and did then proceed to hear the same, and having found that the report of said viewers was made according to the provisions of law and that the proposed ditch will be of public utility and conducive to public health, and of public benefit and convenience, and from the evidence before said board it was determined that the estimated benefits of said work are greater than its total cost, including damages awarded, and said board did then locate and establish the said ditch according to the report of said viewers, which report, together with the plats and exhibits accompanying the same, was then made a part of the resolution establishing said ditch.

And said board of county commissioners having from said viewers report and the evidence before them determined upon the benefits to be assessed and the damages to be awarded to the several tracts of land in said report described, and having assessed said benefits and awarded said damages to the said lands, as appears from the record of the proceedings of said board had on said 5th day of January, 1900, and having accepted as true and correct the itemized statement and report of said viewers, which itemized statement was on the 14th day of November, 1899, filed in the office of the county auditor of said county, which said report and itemized statement shows that the total sum of all expenses incurred or to be incurred in locating, constructing and establishing said ditch is the sum of $8,666.33, which sum is hereby declared to be necessary for the construction of said ditch;

Now, Therefore, It is hereby resolved by the board of county commissioners in and for the county of Red Lake, Minn., that bonds of said county in the aggregate sum of Nine Thousand Dollars be negotiated for the purpose of raising necessary funds for defraying the expense of the construction of said ditch; said bonds to be issued and dated the first day of May, 1900, to bear interest at the rate of five (5) per cent per annum, payable annually, to be 18 in number, and to be in denominations of $500 each, maturing the first day of May, 1910, principal and interest payable at the office of the county treasurer of Red Lake county, Minnesota; each of said bonds to contain a recital to the effect that they are issued in accordance with the provisions and pursuant to the authority of Chapter 97 of the Laws of Minnesota for the year 1887 and acts amendatory thereto;

And It Is Further Resolved, That the county auditor be and is hereby instructed to advertise in the St. Hilaire Spectator and St. Paul Globe for sealed bids upon said bonds, each bid to be accompanied by a certified check in the sum of two hundred ($200.00) dollars, all of said bids to be opened at a special meeting of said board of county commissioners, to be held for the purpose at the office of the county auditor of said county at two o'clock in the afternoon of the 19th day of March, 1900, such advertisement reserving to the commissioners the right to reject any and all bids and to, if deemed proper, continue said sale from day to day.

Commissioner Hansen moved the adoption of the foregoing resolution and Commissioner Johnson seconded the motion to adopt the same.

The resolution was then declared carried upon the following vote:

Vic's Lett

Manila, P. I., Jan. 25, 1900.

Dear Friend:

It is with pleasure that I take a moment to let you know that I am still in the land of the living.

I am sitting on the edge of Manila bay with the battle ship Brooklyn within eight hundred yards in front of me. We returned from our northern expedition of about four months on the 18th of this month, and until to-night all expected that it would be our last "hike," but it is rumored to-night that we leave for the south line in the morning; and all indications are favorable to our going, as we have all drawn new saddles, horses, etc., etc. We have not received pay for five months and all expected a payday within a few days, but if our troups go to the south line it will be several months again before payday. Of course, it is said that this "hike" is to last but two or three days, but we have now gotten to such an extent that we do not believe all such rumors; for on our last four months' trip we started out for a week or two.

On Christmas evening we started out for a five days' ride to cut off Aggie from changing his headquarters from the north to the south line, but when we returned it was reported that we had missed him by one mile and a half in taking the wrong road or path between San Juan de Guimbo and Rosealise. As soon as we returned to our quarters in San Josa there were orders awaiting us to proceed on to Cubonatmou and patrol the road and watch for Aggie. The road was about thirty miles long. We rode all that night, New Years night. So you see we rode the old year out and the new year in instead of the pleasure of the usual young men of the states, dancing the old year out and the new year in. We returned to San Jose about the 3rd or 4th and several men went to the hospital, consequently we were relieved on the 5th and sent to Manilla.

I have not seen Wm. Beantrow or Simeon Paul for quite a while but I know that they are alright as I have seen men from their troops. They are still out.

Jan. 26.—I think that the rumor will prove untrue as we have not started yet and the show seems to be in our favor to staying here although we will go with a will if we are called on.

An order has just come out making the mess sergeant act as first cook and the second cook will be instead of the first, thus saving to Uncle Sam $5 per month. It will be the same for me. I will go in as first cook with sergeants' pay and rank about Feb. 10 I think I will close by sending my best regards to all. As ever yours,

Vic.

$800,000 Improvements.

A movement is on foot to secure an appropriation by congress of $800,000 to be used in the construction of dams and reservoirs at the sources of Red and RedLake rivers, for the purpose of preventing a repetition of disasterous floods which have several times occurred during the past years, and to improve the navigation of these streams.

This amount is estimated by Col. Jones of the corps of United States survey, as sufficient to cover the entire cost of the construction of the necessary dams and reservoirs to entirely prevent any repetition of the flood of 1897, which did such an immense amount of damage in the valleys of these two rivers. A meeting of delegates from the towns most interested will be held in Fargo March 21, to formulate plans, and fix the time for a monster meeting at Grand Forks, at which it is hoped to secure a representation from every city, town and township in the valley. A memorial from such a representative gathering presented to congress would be very likely to secure the appropriation desired, especially as its urgent need has been so recently emphasized by the disastrous flood of 1897. Grand Forks and Fargo are both actively aroused in behalf of the scheme, and every town and village in the valley ought to be easily interested in it, as it is a measure of very great importance.—Polk County Journal.

ONLY TWO WEEKS MORE OF THE GAZETTE VOTING CONTEST.

Last Tuesday evening the last of the coupons that can be voted in the GAZETTE contest were received and counted.

Only two weeks more remain in which to cast ballots on subscription as the contest will be closed on the 27th inst. The end draws near, and it behooves all those who have votes in reserve to see to it that they are not held too long.

The count last Tuesday evening showed Miss Mabel Owen to be again in the lead in the Popular Young Lady contest, while Miss Lorena Schreiter comes to the front as Most Popular School Girl.

Following is the result of the vote as canvassed Tuesday evening, March 13.

Prohibition State Convention.

The prohibitionists of this state will fire the first gun in the campaign of 1900 by holding their state convention in Minneapolis on the 20th and 21st of this month. They have made unusual preparations for the event by holding a larger number of county conventions than they have ever previously held, which insures an exceptionally large attendance.

W. G Calderwood, secretary of the State Committee, speaks with much enthusiasm of the prospects of the [illegible] gathering, citing as proof of the unusual interest, the large amount of money raised for the prosecution of the campaign, which amount is already larger than is customarily raised for the entire campaign.

National Chairman Oliver W. Stewart, one of the most capable men in the ranks of the party, has been secured for the occasion, and the famous Meneley trio of Illinois, and the St. Paul Prohibition Glee club are among the musical attractions. The railroads of the state have announced a rate of one and one-third rate for the round trip on the certificate plan, tickets on sale the 17th to 20th inclusive, and good returning from the 21st to the 24th.

Polk vs. Red Lake.

Attorney Boughton, representing Red Lake county in the matter of county division affairs, appeared before Judge Watts last Thursday in Crookston and set up his answer to the claim of Polk county.

The defense alleges, among other things, that a portion of the demand made is based upon certain issues of bonds in times past which were fraudulent. Claim is also made for a portion of the money that was in the county treasury when the separation was effected, and Red Lake county also asks a portion of the money collected from delinquent taxes, all of which are purely questions of law.

A continuance was asked and granted until March 27th, in order to give time to file written arguments in the case, and a final hearing and disposal of the case will come up on that date.

At Grand Forks.

The stage management of "Queen Esther," just presented here, was in charge of Mr. M. Edwin Robinson, and the fact that in only four rehersals such a large number of persons, many of whom were making their first appearance on the stage, could be enabled to acquit themselves so well speaks volumes both for the ability of Mr. Robinson in stage work and for the adaptability of those who were under his instruction.—Grand Forks Herald.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

New Orleans, La., March 5, 1900.

The editorial party left Memphis at night, and the next stop was made at Granada, the first point to be visited in Mississippi. We found here that the 30 below zero weather had followed us from the North, the day being emphatically cold—something like 35 above zero. It was edifying to hear the Northerners growl over the cold weather, the day before, at Memphis, having been like a warm June day in Minnesota. The welcome that was extended to us at Granada will always stand out, one of the striking features of the trip. Tables had been spread in the court house for the 450 excursionists, and the fair ladies of the historic little city served us personally in such generous fashion as to call forth many expressions of surprise and pleasure. After breakfast the delegates were shown the attractive features of the little city, chief among which was the Female academy, foremost among the institutions of learning in the south. The race question in education is handled by separate schools for the white and colored children, supported by the state. The schools for colored children are largely presided over by educated negroes.

The negro of the South and the negro of the North are found to be two quite distinctive types. Here he is treated in a manner that still savors of slavery days—is commanded, not asked; is subservient to a degree but slightly advanced over the old slavery days, and the white population look upon the colored race as a nuisance and an evil that will call for the best thought in the solution of the problem accompanying. The feeling here is that the negro of to-day is less trustworthy, less deserving and less useful than the old ex-slave, who had been trained to work in useful occupations. Education, the Southern people claim, will have to be advanced to the compulsory teaching of industrial knowledge, trades, etc., before much benefit will accrue to the negro, who desires to-day to imitate the vices, the indulgences, the luxuries of the whites, without imitating his industious habits; work a week and spend the weeks' proceeds the next is, according to the Southern idea, the method of the negro of to-day. I am led to believe that this is really the situation, with many individual exceptions, of course. The extent of the colored population in the Southern states is something enormous. At Baton Rouge, for instance, (the capital of Louisiana) there are 3 blacks to 2 whites. Filthy, lazy, immoral, pervading all, they cast a veritable pall over this fair South-land.

Granada will long be remembered as a bright and shining example of what a people in a small community can do to immortalize themselves in the affections of a body of 450 excursionists in the brief space of a couple of hours. Editor Buchanan, of the local newspaper, was the mainspring of the exemplary hospitality.

A short run brought us to Jackson, the capital of Mississippi and the home of R. H. Henry, president of our association. Here elaborate preparations had been made for our reception, and we were realizing more and more the meaning of the term "true Southern hospitality." Among the features of the day here were, a free dinner given by the citizens; a trolley ride; a reception at the home of President Henry; welcome at the state capital by Governor Longino: adjournment of the state legislature in our honor (a legislature unique in that in neither branch, house or senate, can be found one member who is not a democrat); ball at the Stag club, where we met some of the fairest of the South's fair daughters—rivaling, to be sure, in beauty, versatility and sweetness, the daughters of any other part of the country whatever. Their costumes, made for the occasion, certainly would have graced a royal court function. Later a banquet at Masonic hall closed the events of an eventful day. Among the speakers were the renowned Bishop Galloway, Wm. H. Barclay, Gov. Longino, President Henry, Bishop Tweet and Rev. Father Oliver. The banquet was served by the fair daughters of Jackson.

Jackson is a city of 15,000 inhabitants, and of the many commercial advantages we will speak later.

Sunday morning found us at Vicksburg, the historie Southern city, within the confines of whose municipality rest the remains of thousands of Union veterans. Here we took breakfast and dinner. Vicksburg has a beautiful location on the hillside overlooking the Mississippi river. Its drainage facilities are excellent and are made the most of. With a population of some 25,000, it is the liveliest commercial point in Mississippi and bids fair to continue on its career of prosperity. At present there is no street railway route to either the National cemetery or the old battlefield where the surrender was made to the Union forces after the historie siege, but the Illinois Central railroad company accommodated the editorial party with a special excursion out, thus permitting a visit. Ordinarily it is necessary to hire a hack or cab.

Leaving Vicksburg Sunday evening, we reached Baton Rouge, the capital of Louisiana, about 7:30 in the evening, and were here greeted at the beautiful and picturesque state capital by Gov. Foster and other dignitaries and entertained with a bounteous supper. Baton Rouge is not a characteristic Southern city, but it partakes of the same peculiarities that distinguish New Orleans, having been built up largely by the French pioneers in Louisiana. Baton Rouge people did not have a chance to show their hospitality by daylight, yet it did not suffer in consequence, so effusive and unstinted was it.

Monday morning at 7:30 we reached New Orleans.

The weather is that of June at home. Fruit trees are in bloom; the summer resorts are already being patronized; flowers are unfolding in the parks, and the general conditions are those of early summer in the North.

FACTS AND FANCIES.

Crookston will have another band concert next Tuesday.

The St. Hilaire Lumber Co. is putting in a retail yard at Argyle.

Almost every man can start a newspaper or a family, but it takes a hustler to keep either of them going.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Cahoon and W. S. Hawes, three Crookston citizens, left Monday for the gold region of Alaska.

Noah was the first man to advertise. He advertised the flood and it came all right. The fellows who laughed at advertising got drowned and it served them right. Ever since Noah's time the advertiser has been prosperous, while the other fellow is being swallowed up in a flood of disaster.—Wadena Tribune.

The wildest and wooliest story published for a long time is that of the St. Vincent little girl who is said to have been picked up by owls and carried a quarter of a mile through air to an old building where she was rescued by her father. The man who started that story has a brilliant future before him, if he does not endanger his liberty by furnishing affidavits with his stories.

At Ipswich, S. D., a secret society has its hall directly above the theatre. A play was in progress the same night a candidate was being initiated up stairs, and an explosion occurred which wrecked the stage, and seriously injured several of the actors. The floor of the lodge room hoisted and threw the blindfolded candidate clear to the ceiling. When he struck the floor he calmly waited several minutes for the frightened members to continue the initiation, thinking that his quick trip was a part of the regular ceremony.

It would be a great thing for farmers and for the state, if the present high prices for stock continue. The are millions of acres of land which should be used for sheep growing. This county alone can furnish grass for many thousand sheep. The price of wool and mutton promises to be the best for many years and will induce a great many to go into sheep growing. The increase of population in the country will keep up the demand if the protective tariff is not taken off and the wool and sheep of foreign countries admitted in greater bulk. Mixed farming is what pays best here as elsewhere as anyone can see who notices what farmers have been getting ahead. Dairying is helping also and the cream separating which gives a better quality and more butter is being used more freely. It is a money maker and all who have given it a fair trial can see.—Anton Fried in Jamestown, N. D., Alert.

John Grove Land Co.

This is what Chas. C. Whitney says in the News Messenger of Lyon county, Minn.:

En route to Marshall last week I was accompanied by Ed. L. Healy, who is now overwhelmed with land business at Red Lake Falls, in the new county of Red Lake in the extreme northern part of the state. Mr. Healy has associated himself with Mr. John Grove, who has established at several points reaching from the north line of the state down the western tiers of counties as far as Morris what is known as the John Grove Land company. In Red Lake there is a vast amount of improved and unimproved lands, at low prices, of which Mr. Healy already has listed for sale over 40,000 acres. An immense immigration is going into this country this year, and Mr. Healy cannot fail to transact a remarkable amount of land sales. He has bought a home at Red Lake Falls and his family will soon remove there. We desire to inform the people of Red Lake Falls that they have secured one of the best business hustlers in the state, and a man of unquestioned integrity and reliability.

B. C. Haga lost his last horse last week. He has lost two horses and one colt since last fall, that cost about $200. It seems as if the people around Plumber's Crossing are in bad luck now-a-days. The saw mill is gone; store will go in a short time; horses and cattle die by wholesale, and they could not stop the church members from building a church. What next?

Wm. Ross, from Moorhead, who recently bought Severin Sletten's improvements, has now taken possession of the land. He has his family and some good property with him. We wish you a hearty welcome, Mr. Ross. Hope you may thrive and prosper among us!

The saw mill at Plumber's Crossing was moved some 30 miles east from Fosston last week. Christ Hemly went along with it to act as sawyer.

Twelve farmers with teams drove to St. Hilaire Wednesday, March 7, and hauled home lumber for our church building, which will be erected just as soon as dossible.

Mrs. P. Medchill had a little runaway while out driving. Her cutter struck a stone and the horse went, leaving the cutter behind in a bad smash-up shape and Mrs. M. Johnson, her companion, with a fractured arm or shoulder.

Mr. Ed Anderson tells us that he is to get married some day in the month of May, and that his girl is from Willmar. We give you our best wishes, Mr. Anderson, and hope it is not all wind.

Mr and Mrs. P. Medchill visited Red Lake Falls Saturday last on business.

A. Sutor is very sick, with but small chances of recovery.

An engine came along the road last Wednesday hissing and whistling. People were wondering if the proposed railroad was already here. It turned out to be Hans Pederson moving one of his engines from north in the town to his place in Poplar River town.

Mrs. Calvin Zimmerman, Milesburg, Pa., says, "As a speedy cure for coughs, colds, croup and sore throat One Minute Cough Cure is unequaled. It is pleasant for children to take. I heartily recommend it to mothers." It is the only harmless remedy that produces immediate results. It cures bronchitis, pneumonia, grippe and throat and lung diseases. It will prevent consumption. W. A. Schreiter.

A meeting of the town board developed the fact that that the township of Tilden, in which Dugdale is located, has $500 in its treasury, and not a dollar of debt.

P. J. Farden was unanimously nominated for chairman of the town board at the caucus held here March 6th.

Rev. W. E. Sitzer, W. Caton, N. Y., writes, "I had dyspepsia over twenty years, and tried doctors and medicines without benefit. Monday morning Andrew Suhrs, of Emardville township, was brought before Judge Knight charged with insanity. The patient said his soul was lost and that he was looking for it and when he found it he was going to kill himself. The Judge told him he could (or would have to) find it at Fergus Falls, whereupon he was rejoicing to go. He was turned over to E. A. Moran, who took him down the same day.

MARCH AND THE LION.

Something Better than the Old Saw.

The saying about the lion and the lamb in March often proves false; but there is another and a better one which is literally true. When March comes in and finds you taking Hood's Sarsaparilla to purify, enrich and vitalize your blood you may expect, when it goes out, that it will have you free from that tired feeling and with none of the boils, pimples and eruptions which manifest themselves because of impure blood in the spring. If you have not already begun taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for your spring medicine, we advise you to begin to day. We assure you that it will make you feel better all through the coming summer.

Glorious News.

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help; but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved — that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion, builds up the strength. Only 50 cents. Sold by W. A. Schreiter, druggist. Guaranteed.

[illegible] FARMER'S GARDEN.

Scientists make the startling assertion that lung and kidney ailments are rapidly increasing among the Farmers of America, and assign as one of the principle reasons the lack of vegetable food in sufficient variety.

Mr. A. K. BUSH, Dover, Minnesota, Horticulturist, with the Minnesota Farmer's Institute, also a successful gardener and farmer, has prepared an illustrated plan of the Farmer's Garden he is advocating. It is the most practical thing of the kind ever brought to our attention and does away very largely with hand labor. Mr. Bush's plan provides for a Fruit and Vegetable Garden that may be easily cared for with the aid of a horse and an ordinary farm cultivator. It is illustrated by a diagram and instructions are given as to culture, rotation, etc. Every farmer, in fact, every one who has or wants a garden, should have this folder, entitled The Farmer's Garden. It is published by Northrup-King & Co., the seedsmen of Minneapolis, Minnesota, and is sent FREE to those who write them asking for it, and who will mention the fact that they saw the offer in this paper.

CONTEST CLOSES NEXT TUESDAY EVENING, MARCH 27, AT 7:15.

Miss May Buse this week steps from third to first place in The Gazette Most Popular Young Lady Contest, scoring the largest vote that has yet been cast for any candidate at one time. It had been held from the start that Miss Buse's friends were holding back a reserve vote, and this has proven to be the case. The contest between Misses Owen, Martin and Buse is a close one.

They are charming young ladies, one and all, and no trio in this section of the state is better known, more prominent and highly esteemed. Their names have added interest and dignity to the contest, and we wish they could all win.

The Schoolgirl contest continues very close, and Miss Lorena Schreiter is still in the lead. The schoolgirl contest has been a very interesting one, and the popularity of the girls who remained in it to the last has been demonstrated.

The schoolboy contest remains relatively unchanged. Leo Spillane has held first place since the contest opened. Philip Zeh Jr. is remembered this week with 100 votes.

The contest closes March 27, at 7:15 p. m., and all votes must be in by that hour. Parties desiring to cast ballots will please bear this in mind, and be early, as this rule will be rigidly enforced, and if there is any desire on the part of friends of the candidates to vote between now and next Tuesday, better do so early, and not run the risk of being shut out at the last moment.

The respective prizes are a trip to Niagara Falls, via Buffalo, New York, for the two young ladies standing highest, a Waltham gold watch for the most popular school girl, and a Waltham gold watch for the most popular schoolboy.

Chairman, A. G. Adams.
Clerk, O. H. Camp.
Treasurer, Chas. Oehler.
Justice of the Peace, O. H. Camp.
Constable, Herman Camp.

Miss Julia Farden visited at Dugdale Friday.

Hotel Meeting.

A meeting of business men was held Saturday night to discuss the new hotel project. A motion was made and carried to offer a bonus of $1000.00 and the proceeds of the opening to the hotel man who would erect, equip and operate a modern brick hotel, of approved appointments. A letter was read from a well-known hotel man who is anxious to come here. The idea of buying out one of the hotels already in operation, and putting in necessary improvements was also brought out.

Insane on Religion.

Carl Syvertson, aged 28, was on Tuesday committed to the insane asylum at Fergus Falls by Judge Knight. The man has a religious mania, and carries a large bible, not parting with it day or night. He was a citizen of Marshall county but was taken into custody in this county. The costs were charged to Marshall, and will have to be paid by our cousins to the north.

Communicated.

The mail service between here and Lambert could be improved somewhere enroute, as for instance the Spectator reaches Red Lake Falls on Thursday and does not reach the postoffice of Brooks—15 miles distant—until Monday and they have the good fortune of having a daily mail service. We are informed that it is a regular weekly occurrence and come from reliable sources.

In reply to the above article from the St. Hilaire Spectator, please publish the following: The leaving time of the Lambert mail from the Red Lake Falls P. O. is one o'clock on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, 2:30 on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. As the train from St. Hilaire is not due in Red Lake Falls until 2:30 p. m., mail coming down on that train cannot leave for Lambert and Lost until the following day. When the St. Hilaire Spectator arrives on Thursday's afternoon train it could not reach Lambert until Friday at 8 o'clock that evening and reach Lost on Saturday p. m. Should the papers arrive in this office on Friday as is often the case, they could not leave this office until Saturday p. m. and as there is no Sunday mail between Lost and Brooks they could not reach Lost until Monday p. m., making the best time possible under the present mail service.

Respectfully.
Mrs. E. F. Marshall, P. M.

Has Settled With the Insurance Companies.

The insurance adjustment on Hotel Wilmes has at last been made and accepted by Mr. Wilmes. Negotiations looking to a settlement had been in progress since shortly after the fire, which occurred early Monday morning, Jan. 29, since which time the hotel has been closed. Saturday Mr. Wilmes was in receipt of a telegram from the adjuster, offering $1100.00, and an immediate acceptance was sent in. $650.00 was allowed for loss on the house and $450.00 on furniture. As soon as possible after the adjustment had been completed carpenters and others were put to work repairing the building. As soon as the repairs are completed the hotel will be reopened. Mr. Wilmes has two prospective purchasers on the string, and he thinks it more than likely that a sale will soon be consummated. The hotel property, which comprises two lots and the three story building, is offerered at $10,000.00. This property has been made by the proprietor in the brief space of three years out of the business. This is a good showing, and ought to be a recommendation which would go far towards affecting a sale.

If the deal is consummated it is Mr. Wilmes' intention of moving to Alberta, N. W. T.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

St. Louis, Mo., March 7th, 1900.

The 15th annual convention of the National Editorial Association is a thing of the past. To-day the delegates who did not go on the Southern California side trip, of which one-fourth of the members availed themselves, arrived here on the return journey, which was made over the Mobile & Ohio railroad. President Henry, Secretary Page, Treasurer Gibbs, and in fact all the officers of the association, accompanied us on our return. Here we bade one another good bye, hoping to meet again. Many acquaintances have been made, some of which have blossomed into fsiendship.

The stay in New Orleans was of just a week's duration. The principal feature, of course, was the Mardi Gras, which had attracted visitors from the four corners of the globe. And this spectacular event, which has earned the distinction of furnishing the world's greatest parades, has not come by the enviable notoriety without merit. New Orleans is known in many quarters as the "Petite Paris" of America. It is in no way like an American city, and it does not require much stretch of fancy for the visitor to imagine himself in some strange city in a strange land—only that one hears the English language everywhere, even in the remotest quarters where Americanisms are not supposed to have penetrated the French armor of national pride and taste and precedent. To appreciate New Orleans, one must see it. Indeed, there is only one New Orleans, no other of the name or kind in this country—and we are not lamenting the fact. We should be sorry to have to face the fact that this peculiar old city, with many charms, to be sure, but more drawbacks, was a typical American city. New Orleans is old, dirty, musty, sleepy; a city of 300,000, grown so not from any intelligent effort of its citizenship, but in spite of them. The streets are mostly paved with rough granite blocks, presenting a surface so rough and uneven that it is a wonder the thoroughfares are of any practical use whatever. The buildings are mostly of brick, coated with cement, and made to imitate stone work. There are comparatively few modern strnctres, and these do not, as a rule, stand together, but are scattered about, sandwiched between rows of low, one and two story shacks that would be condemned as a nuisance in most any metropolitan Northern city. The few fine buildings are within a radius of a few squares of the centre of the city, which is marked by a fine statue of Henry Clay. The street car system radiates from this statue, and a car to any part of the city whatsoever may be taken here. There are at least a dozen tracks running parallel here, and the cars are rushing back and forth like demons of destruction, until one who takes his life in his hands and attempts a crossing (as cross he must, the tracks dividing one main part of the city from the other) wonders if the street car nuisance has not reached its highest state of perfection here. Having once braved the nightmare, the stranger finally grows accustomed to it, and sees women and children cross with perfect indifference and impunity, and the evil is not unmixed with good in asmuch as one can not get lost,—all cars going to and coming from the Clay statue at stated intervals. Some are labeled "To French Market." Take this car, and the visitor finds himself soon viewing a scene that partakes something of an international bazaar. Early in the morning is the time to visit this, one of the points of interest. People of all nationalities are gathered here selling goods, wares, and merchandise of every conceivable description. Take the car labeled "To St. Roch's Chapel" and you will alight at a shrine sacred to the Catholics of the city, which has been the scene of many miracles in recent years. There are many well authenticated cases of miraculous cures, effected through the intervention of St. Roch, to whom the mortuary chapel and cemetery are dedictated. Crutches by the score may be seen at the altar, and other tokens left there by grateful cripples who have returned from their pilgrimages, cured. Another car may be labeled "To Audobon Park" which fifteen years ago was the scene of the Cotton Centennial Exposition. Here is the largest conservatory in the world, and the lover of nature, of flower and leaf and tree may revel for hours admiringly, wonderingly. Ferns and palms, and tropical plants of all kinds are a specialty. About the park may be seen huge live oak trees, growing in rows, that indicate, by their size, an age exceeding a hundred years. It was originally the site of the first sugar cane plantation in the South and the massive oak trees stand as monuments to the labor of the negro slaves, long since gone to their reward. Or again taking the car labeled in big red letters on canvass, "To Metairie cemetery" one is soon strolling in the strangest city of the dead, where the splendor of the mosoleums, reared with funds whose owners, in their wealth, wanted for better purpose, is mocked by the shadow of death over all, and where is emphasized the fact that, though wealth may follow further than the death bed, even to the cemetery, there to erect marvelous monuments, it can yet go no further.

The wealthy of New Orleans do not bury their dead in graves, but instead, erect these mosoleums and the remains, incased in coffins and caskets. are inserted and cemented in. The mosoleums assume different forms according to the fancy of the builder. Some are veritable churches, with spires and the like, of course in reduced size. The material used is marble, granite, stone, brick or iron. There are some costing as high as $100,000. Metairie is the high toned cemetery. Here Jews, Protestants, and Catholics are buried side by side, the only requirement for admission is—money. Only the poorer classes bury their dead. There are many cemeteries in New Orleans, all distinguished by the use of mosoleums. All these features of course, add to the charms of New Orleans.

Then there is the climate, at this season of the year. We arrived the last week in February. Gardeners were selling fresh lettuce, cabbage, onions, radish and the like. A frost two weeks before had destroyed most of the roses, which up to that time had been blooming profusely. Great palms, the trunk of the trees measuring a couple of feet in circumference, grow in the yards, the outer tips of the leaves showing signs of the recent frosts. Before our departure we saw gardens made, flowers set out for the summer blooming, just as we in Minnesota set out houseplants near the first of June after all danger of frost is past. Pear trees were in bloom. The climate is changing. Up to two years ago people did not figure on using stoves in the winter. Every garden had its orange and banana trees. These are now a thing of the past. One gentleman informed us that one day two winters ago he retired, worth $100,000; he arose the next morning worth nothing—his orange trees had been killed by the frost. Pear trees are hardy,

St. Patrick's Day did not pass by unobserved. Many were the green ribbons displayed, the wearers being by no means confined to the sons and daughters of Erin. The day's observance partook somewhat of a semi-holiday. Boer watch charms, ornamented with gilded boars, completed the make-up of several of the young men about town.

Many Red Lake county teachers were made glad this week by the receipt of second grade certificates from State Superintendent Lewis. Among the lucky ones is Anthony LaFreniere, who has been assisting The Gazette for some time past. Mr. LaFreniere will teach the spring term of school in the Demarais district directly south of town.

St. Mary's church choir is rehearsing the Easter music, which will consist entirely of Cecilian, or approved church music. At present there is a very strong movement in the Catholic church, looking to the substitution of this in place of music inclined to be "dancy" and operatic. The Cecilian style is more solemn and therefore it is claimed more suitable for church use.

We notice he is to have a big auction sale at his farm one-half mile south of Wylie next Wednesday, Mar. 28, when he will dispose of his horses, cattle, and farm machinery. We dare say this will be an opportunity of a life time for farmers desiring to buy.

Property owners on the east half of block 7 are seriously considering the erection of a brick fire wall 21 feet high and fifty feet deep, for the purpose of reducing insurance rates. Such a wall can be put up at an average cost of less than $25 on each lot, and a reduction of three per cent. would be affected. The rate on buildings is now 7.50, on stock, 6.10. The saving would be sufficient to pay for the wall the first year.

The St. Patrick's Day dance at St. Hilaire last Saturday evening in Hotel Markham was a grand success socially and otherwise and all who attend from this city have many words of praise for the hospitality of Landlord McAndies and his clerks and also for Mac's expression after the French geese flew over the building. Those attending from here are, Misses May and Lilly Buse, Etta Zaiser and Mrs. J. Q. Adams, and Messrs. Armstrong, Murphy, Converse, Anderson, and Argue.

Our clothing business is booming. We have the goods and prices are right. That's why. Theo. LaBissoniere.

Lake Pleasant.

One farmer says I will not buy any machinery until the trust is dissolved. Should everyone do the same you would soon see the end of it.

The fine weather has proven to the Badger Creek farmers that the ditch that was made last fall on the town line between Terrebonne and Lake Pleasant by our road machine will run the water in Badger Creek instead of the farmers fields.

The township of Lake Pleasant will this season purchase two or three road machines and the farmers will use them for draining their farms. I said that we will purchase that is if we can break the trust. We are not as big fools as the trust company think we are.

Mrs. Calvin Zimmerman, Milesburg, Pa., says, "As a speedy cure for coughs, colds, croup and sore throat One Minute Cough Cure is unequaled. It is pleasant for children to take. MARCH AND THE LION.

Something Better than the Old Saw.

The saying about the lion and the lamb in March often proves false: but there is another and a better one which is literally true. When March comes in and finds you taking Hood's Sarsaparilla to purify, enrich and vitalize your blood you may expect, when it goes out, that it will leave you free from that tired feeling and with none of the boils, pimples and eruptions which manifest themselves because of impure blood in the spring. If you have not already begun taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for your spring medicine, we advise you to begin to day. We assure you that it will make you feel better all through the coming summer.

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help; but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved — that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion, builds up the strength. Only 50 cents. Sold by W. A. Schreiter, druggist. Guaranteed.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of Eight Hundred Twenty and 16-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by John [illegible] and Helen [illegible] his wife, mortgagors, to Geo. F. Carpenter, mortgagee, bearing date the [illegible] day of August, 18[illegible], and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 28th day of August, 18[illegible], at [illegible] o'clock p. m., in Book [illegible] of Mortgages, on page [illegible].

Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of Nine Hundred Dollars according to the conditions of one principal note of Six Hundred dollars, payable August 10th, 18[illegible], and five interest coupon notes of sixty dollars each, payable on the 10th day of August in each year, and default having occurred in the payment of said interest coupons, due August 10th, 1897, 1898, and 1899, respectively, and in the payment of the taxes on said real estate for the years 1897 and 1898 and whereas said mortgage provided as one of its conditions that in case of failure to pay any part of said interest when the same became due or to pay any taxes levied upon said real estate before the same becomes delinquent, the whole sum of money or indebtedness thereby secured shall thereupon become due and payable; and whereas said mortgage also provides that if such taxes are not so paid the holder of said mortgage may elect to pay the same and be entitled to interest on the same at the rate of ten per cent. per annum and said mortgage stand as security for the amount so paid, with interest; and whereas, because of said defaults and each of them the power of sale in said mortgage contained has become operative, and no action at law or in equity having been instituted to recover said mortgage indebtedness, or any part thereof.

Miss Lorena Schreiter leads in the School Girl Contest by 14,545 votes, receiving the highest vote of any candidate in the contest.

Master Leo Spillane wins by a majority of 1,851 votes. He is confined to the house with typhoid fever, and was thus prevented from doing any work at the close, when "hustling" counts, but he was not forgotten by his loyal friends. Under the circumstances Leo may feel doubly pleased. The climax came Tuesday night, when forty three thousand, eight hundred ninety-four votes were cast, as against a previous total of thirty thousand, eight hundred twenty-one. The total vote from the opening to the close of the contest, was eighty-four thousand, seven hundred fifteen.

The contest has elicited widespread interest Tuesday night promptly at 7:15 the polls were closed and Judges J. T. Knight, Frank E. Hunt and H. H. Zaiser, who have had the matter in charge since the contest opened, unlocked the ballot box and begun the count. The count was public, and the interest was so intense, that the Gazette office was soon packed with eager spectators. Friends of the different candidates were present, and impatiently awaited the final returns. The number of votes cast the last week was a surprise

The winners are all prominent, and well known. Miss Mabel Owen, the leader in the Most Popular Young Lady Contest, is assistant in the P. O. here, and has been a resident of this place for a number of years. She is immensely popular, as attested by her vote.

Miss Kate Martin, the other winner, is one of Crookston's fair daughters, and is also well known here, being a sister of Mrs. Theo. LaBissonere. She has a large circle of friends here, who are rejoiced at her success.

Miss Lorena Schreiter, who made the great record as a vote getter in the School Girl list, was born in Red Lake Falls seventeen years ago, and is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Schreiter. The magnificent vote to her credit is a true index of the esteem in which the charming young lady is held.

Leo Spillane, who carries off the School Boy honors, is the eldest son of Ex-mayor and Mrs. W. T. Spillane, and a boy who will bear with credit the distinction gained.

Awful Fate.

The following is taken from the St. Paul Dispatch of Saturday. Mrs. Phillips is a sister of Mrs. John Baptiste Raiche, of this city. Some ten years ago she was divorced from her husband, and married Phillips, who, it seems, is now neglecting her. Phillips draws a salary of $80 per month. The Dispatch item follows:

The condition of Mrs. Robert Phillips, found on a sand pile near the Marshall avenue bridge by the Prior avenue police Tuesday, was somewhat improved today. Her feet will be amputated tomorrow.

Robert Phillips, chief clerk in the local branch of the Pullman Palace Car company, visited his wife at the hospital late yesterday. The hospital authorities noticed the same unconcern for his wife's condition that was marked in Phillips when he was first interviewed by the Dispatch. He expressed regret to the hospital authorities that his wife had been the occasion of so much trouble and promised to have her removed as soon as she was able.

The physicians hesitate to say whether Mrs. Phillips will survive the shock of the amputation.

A letter from Phillips states that his wife will recover.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

St. Louis, Mo., Mareh 7th, 1900.

At Baton Rouge, a few hours' ride north of New Orleans, the eamelia trees are in full glory, and presented, to us Northerners, a striking example of the differenee in our respective climatic conditions. During our stay the weather grew hot—so that parasols were in vogue; children were bare-footed; mothers sat in the shade of porches cuoing to their bare-headed babes; and the negro lassies were out in gay eulored sunbonnets—summer like seenes, which made us almost forget that ice was still several feet thick in the Red Lake and Clearwater rivers at home, and that unless the unusual occurred, we could safely count upon the opportunity of putting up our summer's ice supply after our return home about the middle of March.

The Louisiana specimen of oak does not shed its leaves in the fall, nor does the magnolia nor laurel. These are everywhere to be seen and look beautiful with their green foliage at this season. A ride down the Mississippi gave us a beautiful panoramic view of the famous colonial homes upon the river's banks. The great groves of green live oak, the large one story pillaried, Southern homes, formed a picture long to be remembered. However, the favorite shade tree, the "china ball," is still locked in winter's embrace, and has scareely commenced to bud; thus giving a hint of the bleak and leafless condition prevailing in Northern clime during the winter season.

New Orleans has no sewerage system, excepting the open sewers on either side of the street, either brick or stone gutters. Of course the offal and other refuse is not dumped here, merely the fluid waste of the city, and to keep these open sewers clean, there is a system of pumping and flushing with clean water. The stench that arises from these open sewers even at this time of the year makes one think with horror uf what it must be during the summer months. Regular garhage carriers remove the offal and other waste to the city's dumping grounds at stated periods. $16,000,000 has now been voted to put in a complete new system of sewerage on the Warring system. This will create a new era for New Orleans, and encourage progress all around. Perhaps New Orleans is the only city in America of more than 20,000 inhabitants that has not been provided with modern sewerage system. It is said that bonds have been voted time and again for the improvement only to have the funds appropriated by corrupt city officials. At the last election a board of directors, composed of the leading bankers and commercial men of the city, was elected, and the work is at last in good hands.

The city lies 16 feet lower than the Mississippi river and 15 feet lower than Lake Ponchartrain, so that the drainage will be effected by a pumping system, thus overcoming the obstacles nature has ereeted. The new swerage system is now in on several business streets.

The fact remains, however, that the death rate in New Orleans is below the average of that in cities of likesize in the United States, and that the deaths have been less during the months of quarantine because of the supposed presence of yellow fever than during other months of the same year, and during the years since and including 1897 of the prevalence of the so-called plague than during the years previous. People take care of themselves when the danger signal is out, are more careful as to their habits and health, and more temperate every way as to the manner of living. Strict cleanliness and sanitation are enforced, besides the per cent of deaths from the purported yellow fever has been very low. Many people here say that they have much greater dread of typhoid than of the mild form manifested of late years of the yellow fever plague. Nearly a quarter of million dollars is now being expended in additional street paving.

The fact was made more and more apparent, too, as our stay in the city lengthened, that the city has caught the spirit of progress. This was made especially apparent at a meeting of the New Orleans Prngressive Union, an organization of business men, only about two years old, with the commendable object of pushing along the city's fame and prosperity.

The annual report of President A. R. Blakely, "mine host" of the New St. Charles Hotel, was full of pith and point. Mr. Blakely is father of the organization, and got his idea and inspiration from the grand success of the business men's organization in our own Minneapolis. His report showed that the results, so far here, had not met his full expectations, but the true artist, enthusiast, or public-spirited promoter is never satisfied with present achievements, always seeing so much greater possibilities still ahead. One of the noted accomplishments of the organization was the inaugurating and carrying to a splendid success, last May, of a State Industrial and Agricultural Fair.

The New Orleans Progressive Union is composed of as bright, intelligent, enthusiastic, progressive business men as could be gatbered anywhere in the United States, and if they hold together, keep free from personal jealousies, rivalries and politics, and follow the admonitions of President Blakely's address, the nation will hear of wonders performed in New Orleans' progress in the next ten years.

New Orleans has a history full of romance. It has undergone four tremendous revolutionary changes, each having left an indelible mark, a new and different coloring, as it were, on the character of the peuple and the city itself. Located in 1718 by Governor Bienville as the capital uf the French Province of Louisiana, of which he was the second governor, was, as recorded by our interesting writer, a totally different place from Spanish New Orleans, as moulded by the iron hand of Don Alexander O'Reilly, and later by the courtly Galvez and the stately Carondelet. American New Orleans, developed after the cession of Louisiana to the United States, is altogether a different place from either; and again the war of 1861-65 threw the wealthy, gay, antebellum New Orleans—the 'Petit Paris.' as it was called by cultivated European travelers—New Orleans, with its gigantic commerce and aristocratic habits, into the past." Yet much remains of all that has been. It was called under the French rule "Petit Versailes." This cognomen was given to the city during the rule of Marquis de Vaudreuil, who established a miniature court, introduced state balls, and "costume de rigueur," and grand dinners and polite speeches. The old Creole songs that have come down to us tell of the increase of wealth and population and the revival of activities of all kinds.

The old Creole "mammies," who knew so well how to gauge the standard of manners for the white ladies and gentlemen, even to this day regale the little Creole children with the stories handed down to them by their own mothers of the glory and the pleasures of the days of the "Grand Marquis," as he was called. This was the beginning of that aristocratic coterie which made New Orleans famous in the cities of the Union a century later.

for you, said four different physicians, but I still had sufficient left to try Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, as it was highly recommended to me. I had suffered for years with heart trouble; so bad was my case I was given up to die several times. Had severe palpitation, short breath and much pain about the heart, fluttering and smothering spells, but Dr. Miles' Heart Cure gave me prompt relief and finally a permanent cure.

Mr. W. Hines, of Manchester, Ia. writing of his almost miraculous escape from death, says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages and coughed night and day. All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which completely cured me. I would not be without it even if it cost $5.00 a bottle. Hundreds have used it on my recommendation and all say it never fails to cure throat, chest and lung troubles." Regular size 50c and $1.00. Glorious News

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help; but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved — that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion, builds up the strength. Only 50 cents. Sold by W. A. Schreiter, druggist. Guaranteed.

Terrebonne.

Albina Laundry, one of the leading young ladies of Terrebonne, was buried on the 27th of this month. There was fine music at services, and if a very large attendance of friends at the last sad rites could be like balm on sore hearts, the family must have found a little consolation in noticing the great attendance of friends at the funeral, who wanted by that to show their esteem for the family and one who, though only seventeen years old, had made many warm friends.

A. M. Anderson, of Red Lake Falls, was the undertaker.

There is a great deal of sickness in Terrebonne and Lambert this month and Dr. Tessier says people ought to be very careful in this changeable weather.

C. O. Kankel is all smiles of late. Look out for him boys. He owes the cigars on a nice big fat baby girl and he says there is no other like it.

The Terrebonne choir is rehearsing every Sunday so as to give us some good music on Easter Sunday.

We people of Terrebonne can boast of having the oldest singer in Minnesota—Mr. Marchand Sr., who is 82 years old, looks to be sixty, and sings as if he were twenty two.

A Creamery, at Last.

Pursuant to the call published in The Gazette, a meeting of farmers was held last Thursday afternoon at the city hall in the interests of a creamery organization. The meeting was largely attended by representative farmers of the vicinity, and resulted in pushing ahead another notch the creamery project. A committee was appointed to secure pledges of support from the farmers within a radius of three miles; another committee has in charge the circulation of a subscription list which ought to be, and is, largely patronized by our local business men. It is thought that $500 will be raised in this way. Still another committee is looking after a site, with a preference for the old millsite in the Hollow. About two hundred fifty cows were pledged at the first meeting, and there is no doubt that the project is a go this time. At the next meeting officers will be chosen and, the Association organized on the co operative plan. Luman C. Simons will act as the company's legal advisor, and the organization will be affected according to the special state creamery laws. The building will be erected this spring.

Death of Mrs. Schink.

Mrs. Geo. Schink died Saturday morning, at the family home on Third st., after a brief illness. About two weeks before she had given birth to a girl baby, which was her eighteenth child. Being a very strong woman, she was getting along well, as usual, until a couple of days after, when she drank a cupful of ice water. From that time she gradually sank, until death relieved her sufferings. The baby, which is a large, beautiful child, survives, together with twelve other children.

Mr. and Mrs Schink moved to this city last fall from Lambert, for the purpose of giving their children the benefit of our excellent school facilities. They had acquired a goodly competence and intended hereafter to indulge in the comforts of life. Deceased was forty two years old, and possessed of more than the ordinary share of womanly virtues and personal charms. The funeral occurred Monday, and the remains were interred in St. Joseph's cemetery.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

The year 1768 was a memorable one in the history of the colony. In that year Louisiana was ceded by France to Spain, and Don Antonio Ulloa was sent over to take possession of the country in the name of the king of Spain. The French Colonists resisted, but were subdued, the leaders of the "conspirators" sent to solitary confinement in Morro Castle, Havana, and Louisiana made a dependency of the island of Cuba.

Kind and beneficent rule followed much severity, prosperity returned, through various influences great splendor flourished, and Spanish rule continued until 1803. But here we can do no better service to our readers than step aside and let the ready writer of Picayune's guide tell the story:

Napoleon Bonaparte was emperor of the French, and in 1803, as if knowing the temper of the province, the treaty of Ildefonso was signed, and Louisiana, retroceded by Spain to France, became again a French possession. The people were wild with joy. The were "Frenchmen" again. The flag of Spain was taken down from the flag staff in the old Place d'Armes and the tricolor of France again floated over New Orleans. A wild huzzah went up from the old French quarter. The ancient birthright of the city had been restored. But only for a few weeks did the tricolor wave in triumph; for, following quickly upon the news of its restoration came other of a startling nature. France had sold Louisiana to the United States, and it was to be thenceforth an American province.

The proud and haughty Louisianians, with the best blood of France and Spain in their veins, resented deeply this humiliation; they felt keenly the "insult of being sold like a lot of slaves and handed over like a drove of cattle." They appealed to France not to submit them to this galling insult. But Napoleon was too busy with European matters to heed his colony on the far-off Mississippi. On December 20, 1803, the people met again in the old Place d'Armes, or at least the Americans did, for the Creoles closed their doors and badges of mourning floated from the olden portals. De Laussat, the French commissioner, formally surrendered the colony to the commissioners appointed by the United States. The command was given and the French flag came down. Half way down the pole it was met by the American flag; for one instant they remained thus; then the American banner shot ahead, and the Stars and Stripes waved for the first time over New Orleans. Twelve old Creole gentlemen tenderly raised the tricolor, and with uncovered heads and bowed forms carried it out of the old Place d'Armes and delivered it into the hands of the French commissioner. Never again would it wave over the city to which it had given birth.

At this time, however, the spirit of liberty was taking its birth in the hearts of people, and a few years later we find Americans and Creoles fighting side by side under the Stars and Stripes, uniting in the expulsion of the common foe.

April 8, 1812, the State was admitted into the Union, and Claiborne, who had been the first American governor of the territory of Louisiana, became the first governor of the state under the American Constitution.

On November 24, 1814, the British army, under General Pakenham, sailed from Jamaica to attack New Orleans. General Andrew Jackson met the invaders at Chalmette on January 8, 1815, and inflicted a severe defeat. That Eighth of January saw, indeed, a united city. The glorious day eclipsed everything New Orleans had ever seen. Every Creole child has learned the history of that glorious Eighth at its grandmother's knee, and year after year travelers come to see the spot where Jackson and his band of Creoles and Americans conquered the conquerors of Napoleon.

The editors visited New Orleans during the season of the greatest gayeties of the whole year, the world-famed Mardi Gras. This year, by the use of electricity to a greater extent than ever before, the night parades outdazzeled all predecessors. Yet all that pretains to the floats, except something like this, of a general nature, is kept a profound secret until the parade.

The carnival really commences several weeks before Mardi Gras, balls and social entertainments of various kinds affording amusement to the pleasure loving. The week immediately preceeding Mardi Gras, however, is justly considered the high tide of the season, for, besides the indoor entertainments, all the magnificent street parades of mystic societies are given. This year the street pageants were presented in the following order:

Wednesday, Feb. 21, at night Nereus.

Thursday, Feb. 22, at night Momus.

Monday, Feb. 26, at night Proteus.

The grandeur of the parades is simply indiscribable. The floats number twenty, and the cost of each averages $2,000, so that the expenditure on this item alone represents $200,000. Besides this there is a band for every float, and the masked characters are paid, for be it remembered that standing and dancing on a float for three and a half hours is no easy task. The band members who walk on the rough streets during the parades, which last over three hours, playing half the time are perfect marvels of endurance. The glitter and tinsel and ornamentation of the floats, the grotesque and exaggerated figures, now a rose as large as a bushel basket, with everything to correspond; now a stork or bird as large as an ostrich; now the figure of a man, full twenty feet long, the rich satin costumes of the maskers surmounting the floats; the music and the dazzling light effects, form a combination which captivates the most stoical and gives to the Mardi Gras its world wide reputation. St. Louis has its Veiled Prophet parades, that are said to give an idea of the Mardi Gras at New Orleans, but commercial floats are permitted there while at New Orleans this is not allowed, those appearing being solely devoted to the carnival. The expenses are paid by subscriptions. There are different carnival societies, each endeavoring to outrank the others in the beauty of their parades, and this rivalry certainly leads to fine results. There are no parades on earth like those of the New Orleans Mardi Gras, and all the aid of the best modern methods and ingenuity is invoked each year. All this grandeur is in strange contrast to the general characteristics of New Orleans, where even the wealthy families seem to be content to dwell in houses that would not be admired in the Northern cities, and in this place of 300,000 inhabitants, there is but one boulevard, called "Audubon Place," which makes any pretension of containing luxuriant and costly modern homes.

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of Eight Hundred Twenty and 16-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by John Mostrom and Helen Mostrom his wife, mortgagors, to Geo. F. Carpenter, mortgagee, bearing date the 10th day of August, 1896, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Polk and State of Minnesota; on the 28th day of August, 1896, at 4:10 o'clock a. m., in Book 60 of Mortgages, on page 168.

Which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of Nine Hundred Dollars according to the conditions of one principal note of Six Hundred Dollars, payable August 10th, 1901, and five interest coupon notes of sixty dollars each, payable on the 10th day of August in each year, and default having occurred in the payment of said interest coupons, due August 10th, 1897, 1898, and 1899, respectively, and in the payment of the taxes on said realestate for the years 1897 and 1898 and whereas, said mortgage provided as one of its conditions that in case of failure to pay any part of said interest when the same becomes due or to pay any taxes levied upon said realestate before the same becomes delinquent, the whole sum of money or indebtedness thereby secured shall thereupon become due and payable; and whereas said mortgage also provides that if such taxes are not so paid the holder of said mortgage may elect to pay the same and be entitled to interest on the same at the rate of ten per cent. per annum and said mortgage stand as security for the amount so paid, with interest; and whereas, because of said defaults and each of them the power of sale in said mortgage contained has become operative, and no action at law or in equity having been instituted to recover said mortgage indebtedness, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz:

The South half (S½) of the South East Quarter, (SE¼) of section five (5) township one hundred fifty one (151) North, of Range forty-one (41) west of the Fifth Principal Meridian, containing Eighty acres more or less, according to the United States' Government survey thereof, in Polk County, now Red Lake County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Red Lake county at the front door of the court house, in the city of Red Lake Falls, in said county and state, on the 7th day of May, 1900, at one o'clock p. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of eight hundred twenty and 16-100 dollars and interest, and the taxes if any on said premises, and fifty dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Sale of the Langevin Estate.

An important realestate deal has been consummated, whereby M. O. Sortedahl, of the Bank of Red Lake Falls, becomes the owner of the extensive realestate interests in this city, known as the Langevin Estate. Mr. Sortedahl is a hustler, and the change of ownership augurs well for Red Lake Falls.

Capt. Couvrette's Death.

The many friends of Captain Couvrette, of Crookston, will regret to hear of his death, which occurred at his residence on Friday evening at five o'clock. Mr. Couvrette had for many years been identified with the interests of the city in which he lived, and at the election last week was chosen as assessor. He has been ailing for some time, though not always confined to his room. The funeral occurred Monday, and a number of Red Lake Falls people attended.

The Sailing of the Relief Ship.

It is now certain that the India Relief ship will sail with a cargo of corn for the starving Hindoos some time late in April. The "Christian Herald" of New York will have ready the 50,000 bushels of corn which it has so generously pledged toward the cargo. The question is whether the people of the great western states will furnish as much more to complete the cargo. Many communities are responding generously. Cannot something be done by those who read this? The time is brief for action, but long enough if some earnest man or woman will take the matter up. Much can be done in ten days or two weeks. A mass meeting, called and presided over by the Mayor, or some pastor, followed by a few hours work by two or three canvassers, might result in getting enough money to put on board the ship 50 or 100 bushels of corn, and this would carry a number of people through the famine Is there not some one who will start the movement in the community? I will receipt for money, or if you prefer, send the money to the Christian Herald, Bible House, New York, and the receipt of it will be duly acknowledged; but in that case kindly write me what you have done. The fact that the ship will be sent out by that paper is sufficient guarantee that the expedition will be carefully and wisely managed.

R. G. HOBBS.
Springfield, Ill.

N. P. Extension.

President Mellen, of the Northern Pacific, and J. W. Kendrick, third vice president of the company, passed through the city yesterday morning enroute on a trip of inspection over the line, says the Grand Forks Herald. It is their intention to inspect the Portage division branch, and the Winnipeg section. Speculation has been rife concerning the real object of the president's visit at this time, the spring of the year, and it has been suggested that while the trip is one of inspection as all such trips naturally are, there is a more important motive. The motive is supposed to concern the building of a line from East Grand Forks north on the Minnesota side of the river. At Drayton, N. D., it is proposed to build a bridge over the Red river to connect with the present branch, making a stopping place for the new line, and from there the line may be extended into the Roseau and Warroad country. For some time railroad surveyors have been working in this section on what was supposed to be a continuation of the Brainerd & Northern railway, though this surmise has not been substantiated by authentic statements from officials of that road.

Should the line proposed by the Northern Pacific company and briefly mapped out above, be built, the resources of that country, rich with timber and fuel lands, would be developed, and what is now almost an uninhabited spot save for a few settlers who are content to plod along on a bare existence, would soon be filled by husbandmen willing and anxious to cultivate the soil and build up a community of their own. The Northern Pacific has ever had the interests of the people at heart, knowing the value of lands in the northwestern territory, and it is more than probable that operations will be commenced on the lines suggested above. The season of the year is ripe for railroad extension, and the fact that the company have recently contracted for a large number of Italians to work in this territory adds to the significance of the above facts.

EDITORIAL OBSERVATIONS.

(Concluded.)

Here are clustered about a dozen homes that will compare favorably with any in the country. The porch, and the large fire place chimney, which is built from the ground up on the outside, form two striking characteristics of the Southern home. The pillar is another adjunct, which is more than a mere accessary, seeming to form part and parcel of the typical Southern house—be it business or private. On the main thoroughfares of New Orleans even the business houses are fronted with porches which run up to the top story. They are mostly of iron, with fancy grill work. These porches are of course a natural consequence of the climate, and are the resting and lounging places where the Southerners go to escape the tropical heat the greater portion of the year.

Of the many places visited, perhaps the St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum, at New Orleans, and the Deaf Mute Institute at Chinchuba, a suburb, both conducted by the School Sisters de Notre Dame, were among the most interesting. The Orphan Asylum is presided over by two of the noblest women it has been our pleasure to meet—Sister Philippine, superioress, and Sister Blasia, assistant superioress, (the writer's aunt, with whom we spent many happy hours while in the "Crescent City," and whose life and life-work has been an inspiration to us.) The asylum was founded in 1854, and since this time its main purpose has been the care of homeless children—not necessarily orphans. Many waifs have been picked up on the streets or in the gutters, whose parents, alive, were better dead, so far as the children are concerned. Fortunate is the child who finds itself placed in St. Josephs Orphan Asylum. He is placed in environments of the most elevating nature, tenderly cared for, trained in morals and patriotism, educated both intellectually and industrially, subject to discipline of the most beneficial kind, and surrounded by examples of thrift, virtue and contentment that can not fail to leave an indellible influence on his character. Children are taken from two years to fifteen. At present there are 80 boys and 70 girls, in charge of 15 sisters. There are 42 sisters altogether, all having their duties, which keep them busy from the time they rise at a quarter of five in the morning until they retire at a quarter past eight in the evening. Especially interesting is the kindergarten, where the children are at play as in a nursery, in charge of a sister, who is like a mother to the little ones, and who is regarded with unmistakable tokens of affection by her little wards.

An entertainment was furnished in the evening, solely by the orphans, with songs, dialogues, sketches, instrumental music, and a military drill by the school cadets in uniform, commanded by the little captain who took the prize last Fourth of July offered by the city for the school captain whose cadets showed the greatest proficiency.

The deaf mute institution at Chincuba is in a flourishing condition, and now is the home of some fifty waifs, who are being educated, taught the ordinary branches, and besides, trades, such as shoemaking and printing. These children are cared for gratis by the good sisters, whose main source of income is from salaries as teachers, which goes into the common hospital fund. Thus these noble women are spending their days, caring for the orphaned and the deaf mutes; working all their lives for others, without the incentive of renumeration, for from the highest in authority to the lowest they are possessed of no worldly goods whatever, and their incentive comes from a higher motive. After seeing these grand women in the pursuit of their daily avocations, we wondered how we could question the usefulness of their calling. They will continue to care for the aged and needy, for orphans, helpless, neglected children, and for deaf mutes and unfortunates generally, with a patience, a devotion, as no other agency can. To this work their lives are devoted and we have learned that within the cloister heat happy hearts, contentment reigns, and ripples of laughter resound through the long corridors and die away in the echo, quite in contrast to the idea so generally prevailing that nuns are necessarily discontented and unhappy. Here is taught the paramount truth that happiness is not of this world's making. No sister ever takes the vows until she has had many years of probation, and every opportunity of returning to the world.

We can recall no finer hospitality than that accorded us by the School Sisters de Notre Dame, of New Orleans, and they are indeed true Southerners, in this respect as well as in other ways.

The editorial excursion wound up by a trip to Gulf Port, Bay St. Louis and Hattiesburg, in all of which cities the people furnished entertainments of varied style. At Gulf Port, a ride on the Gulf of Mexico and an oyster dinner, with oysters served in every conceivable manner known to culinary art. At Bay St. Louis a carriage ride. At Hattiesburg, a barbecue. Everything to eat, and plenty of it, in barbecue style—use your hands. This was the last point to be visited. Here our party divided—three carloads going on a trip through the southwest and eight, the balance, returning via St. Louis where we disbanded.

That attendance at these conventions and on these excursions is beneficial goes without saying. The brightest minds, the most gifted speakers, priests, bishops, governors, and legislators vied with one another in pouring forth a stream of eloquence and wisdom at which we might all drink. No man or woman could participate but he or she would be benefited, enlightened, broadened and imbued with a sense of the dignities and responsibilities of the editorial profession.

We cannot close without paying a tribute to the present-day patriotism of the South. We doubt if the Northerners appreciate the warmth of Southern loyalty to the Star Spangled Banner—and while they still weep o'er the grave of their perished hopes, not because they think them right, but because they love the Lost Cause, and the tender memories entwined about those days (though they would not have the result other than as it is) the Union counts no truer sons than the descendants of the fathers of the Confederacy.

A CREAMERY SURE.

The Red Lake Falls Co-operative Creamery Association is organized.

Another enthusiastic meeting was held at the city hall Thursday last, the result of which is very gratifying to the promoters, to THE GAZETTE, which has labored energetically in the creamery cause, and to citizens generally. L. P. Berthon has been the leading mover in the last attempt to secure a creamery organization, and it is largely due to his persistent efforts that the movement has finally culminated in a success.

The creamery will be run on the co-operative plan. The officers were elected as follows:

Directors, Theo. Majeres, J. B. Demarais, Jeff. Porter, Paul Cyr, Frank Grenier, Geo. Marchildon, Dophis Patnande. Mr. Berthon will act as secretary and treasurer until such time as these officers are chosen.

J. A. Camphell, agent of Cornish & Co., Minneapolis, secured the contract for building and equipment, his bid being $3,000. The company offers the organization these terms, $1,000 cash; $500 in six months; $500 in 12 months; $1,000 in 18 months, interest at 7 per cent. It is probable that the association will borrow the money necessary, and pay cash as a discount of 3 per cent. will be secured on the contract price by paying cash.

$800 has been subscribed by the business men of Red Lake Falls, and Mr. Berthon will ask the city council to add the amount necessary to make up $1,000 after he has completed his canvass.

The plant will be located on Bottineau ave. near the new Clearwater river bridge, where a free site has been offered. The contract calls for the completion of the plant by June 1st, and it is expected that the first butter will be turned out shortly thereafter.

Although a surplus of cows has not yet been secured, there is no doubt that the milk from several hundred more will be forthcoming as soon as the creamery opens.

The organization of this institution is one of the most important events that has transpired for the advancement of the interests of Red Lake Falls for many a day. It means the opening of a new era of prosperity for the farmers of this vicinity, and there is no doubt that before long a creamery will be in operation in nearly every township of the county. When this time comes, the price of farm lands will range about $50 an acre, the farmers will all have bank accounts, and as a result we will have one of the most prosperous communities in the state.

THE GAZETTE has agitated the creamery question persistently for two years and considers itself indorsed again.

SOUTH AFRICA.

Here and there we find an English sympathizer in this country. The reasons, as given, are varied. England was our friend in the Spanish war; England is our friend now; the progress of civilization would be impeded by a Boer triumph. These are the principle arguments advanced. But the vast majority of the American people—the American people as a whole—do not feel this way, and are ardently hoping for Boer success: that implies, the maintenance of Boer independence. When we stop to consider the matter, we find no cause for wonder that the hearts of the people of this nation throb in sympathy with the Boers, but we certainly find cause for wonderment when we see the people of munarchial countries like Russia, Italy, Germany and France vieing with one another in pro-Boer tendencies.

England is outwardly friendly to America in just so far as she sees where our strength can aid her weakness. Isolated, so far as the European and Asiatic nations are concerned, she had everything to gain and nothing to lose by her bluff and ostentations show of interest during the Spanish war. As to civilization. the poor little spot in South Africa inhabited by the 200,000 Boers, surely could not exert, at the worst, any serious drawback to the progress of civilization, and moreover, the manner in which the republics have conducted this war is alone sufficient refutation for that argument. A people that can adapt themselves to modern methods in warfare; stand off and cope with, for months, an army equal almost to their total population; strike blow for blow; whose percentage of illiteracy compares favorably with that of the highly civilized countries; whose president is recognized as one of the world's great men; whose leaders are shrewd enough to avail themselves of the skill of foreign experts in the military branch of modern development; will not be prejudiced against the same tactics in civil affairs. True. there may be much to criticise, if we study the Boers closely; but the picture of these people, even to the women and children, fighting unto the death against overwhelming odds, for the independence of their country, is what has gained for them the sympathy of the world.

EASTER.

The observance of Easter as a Christian holiday is becoming more general, and we see now many denominations accepting the season as the time best fitted for the commemoration of the great miracle of the Resurrection, who have hitherto held aloof from recognizing the ecclesiastical divisions as laid out by the ancient Catholic Church. The Greek faction of the Christian church still adheres to its custom of observing the feast a few days later.

The Resurrection is the crowning miracle of Christ, and is held to be the keystone of the Christian religion. It is celebrated with a spirit symbolic of its joyous import. On Easter Sunday the churches are decorated with the gayest flowers; the music is selected for its note of triumph, and the Christian world sings "Alleluia." The Lenten rigor is relaxed, and the soul which has made good use of the period of penance and prayer, lifts itself up and joins in the glad hosanna. To the true Christsan, the Easter spirit breathes a new hope, new inspiration, and a new reminder of the wonders and depths of sacredness of the faith that has withstood the storms of nineteen hundred years—for none but a God could rise from the dead—and that is sufficient. Happy is the soul that can feel the truth, and in it find that peace which the world cannot give.

* * *

County politics is beginning to feel the effects of the even-year spring sun, and is re awakening. The republicans are organizing, and the democrats and populists are preparing to confer. At the populist county committee meeting held at St. Hilaire Saturday a committee of three was appointed to confer with the democrats, namely—Frank Jeffers, K. M. Hansen and M. A. Hall.

* * *

A. R. Holston is an avowed candidate for the populist congressional nomination in this district. We are not informed to what length Mr. Holston has gone to secure the plum, nor has there yet been much opportunity for judging in what spirit the announcement of his condidacy has been received throughout the district. There is no doubt that he is a strong campaigner and would make a great run.

* * *

Look over the delinquent tax list again, and be sure that no property you wish to save is allowed to be sold for taxes.

* * *

That everybody will want to vote this fall goes without saying. Aug. 7th is the latest date to take out final papers for those unnaturalized citizens who wish to vote.

* * *

The Fergus Journal says that Ex-Congressman Boen, who was nominated by the referendum vote which was counted last week, announces that he proposes to go on the official ticket as populist candidate for congress. He will make the run in order that the referendum principle may be vindicated.

* * *

In a proclamation issued April 11, Governor Lind designates Friday, April 20, as Arbor Day. The Governor calls attention to the riches of forestry and to the fact that we have felled more than we have planted, urging school teachers and pupils to observe the day by planting trees and shrubs.

* * *

The Peoples Party delegate convention for the nomination of delegates to the Seventh District Congressional convention will be held at Thief River Falls. This is a little out of the ordinary, and the populist county central committee, in thus transgressing precedent, has made a mistake that is sure to be prejudicial to the interests of the interests of the party. The place to hold county conventions is at the county seat, and the party that tramples on precedent, and goes out of its way to change the proper and natural order of events is not impartially managed, and will find itself treading on quicksand. THE GAZETTE would not expect a convention to be held in this city if it were not the county seat.

The Forfeited Tax Sale.

The regular tax sale takes place May 7th, and the forfeited tax sale immediately thereafter.

The forfeited tax sale which will be held next month to clear up the tax rolls of every county in the state of taxes delinquent prior to 1896, is attracting a great deal of attention and generally resulting in the taxes being paid. State Auditor Dunn has thrown such safeguards as are possible around the sale by instructions issued to the county auditors, in which he states that all money over and above the amount of tax and penalty collected from the sale of each piece shall revert to the county. This, for instance, prevents any one from outbidding any one else on the sale of his own property and then securing a refund of the difference between the amount bid in and the actual amount charged against the property. The law is hardly specific on this point, but the state auditor has ruled that all in excess of the delinquency shall be turned into the county revenue fund.

Following is the state auditor's circular:

To County Auditors:

A few suggestions on the forfeited tax sale. Parties wishing to redeem their property from the sale should be permitted to do so up to the precise time when a tract is taken up and offered for sale and not thereafter. Under no circumstances allow redemption to be made after bidding has commenced.

Should any tract sell for more than the original taxes with 10 per cent. interest and cost of this sale, as shown by your list, the excess or surplus should be credited to the county revenue fund. In no event should the excess be turned over to the original owner of the realestate.

State lands held under contract with the state school, university, internal improvement lands, etc., upon your forfeited list, should be sold the same as other lands. Purchasers of such lands, however, only acquire a title that allows them to be substituted to the rights held by the original purchaser of the land. See section 3982 of the statutes of 1894. By paying up in full all delinquent interest and taxes to date a special land certificate on such tracts will be issued by this office.

Purchasers at this forfeited sale should make immediate payment to your treasurer. All tracts not paid for should be reoffered before you adjourn the sale.

The making of the certificate is very important. Section 5, chapter 332, Laws of 1899, contains the form which must be followed. It would be preferable to include only one description, as advertised, in each certificate. The law, however, permits more than one description in a certificate when sold to the same purchaser. But when that is done the certificate should show the exact amount for which each tract was sold.

The certificate issued by you is entitled to record the same as a deed to real estate, but the subsequent taxes must all be paid, same as with other conveyances.

Hugh Thompson's Candidacy.

Hugh Thompson has started campaigning in earnest for the republican nomination for railroad and warehouse commissioner. Saturday he dispatched a personal letter to his different political and personal friends in the district informing them of his candidacy, and requesting them to consider his name favorable with the office. He is the only candidate mentioned so far for the office from the Seventh district. The Minneapolis Tribune of Friday last published a long article, embellished with a portrait of the gentleman, advocating him for the position and describing him as "the man for the office." The republican state press seconds his nomination, and it seems quite probable that he will be named at the convention next June.

Red Lake River is Low.

The Red Lake river at this point was never so low as at the present time, and the conditions prevailing give the saw mill men considerable concern. The river was very low last fall and there was practically no snow last winter, and unless heavy spring rains occur the different kinds of trouble that will crop up cannot be estimated. So low is the water between Thief River Falls and this point that it is possible to walk across it. The various saw mills will have to close down unless rain comes to change the aspect of the present conditions.

Action Deferred.

The action of Polk county vs. Red Lake county will not be decided for some time, the attorneys for the respective parties having been granted until May 1 in which to present arguments.

W. C. T. U. Lecture.

Mrs. Bessie Laythe Scoville, state president and organizer of the W. C. T. U., will deliver a lecture at the Presbyterian church, of this city, on Wednesday evening, May 2d. Mrs. Scoville is a very pleasant and interesting speaker, and no one should miss the lecture. It is understood that her visit will be to enthuse new energy in the local branch of the W. C. T. U., which was organized about a year ago, but which has displayed little activity.

Sale of Ditching Jobs.

The sale of jobs on the Sanders-Black River ditch were made at the court house Monday, the work being let to the lowest biders, which were open bids. The successful ones were M. W. Barnard, of Moorhead, who secured a $1200 job: Anton Anderson, of St. Hilaire, $3,500; Scribner & Linnehan, of this city, $3,000; S. M. Dainerd, Thief River Falls, $700; John Patnaude, of Gentilly, $400, and $682 for three bridges over the ditch. Scribner & Linnehan have the southern end or mouth of the ditch and their contract calls for the completion of the work by July 1st, while the other contractors are given until Nov. 1st. A very interesting profile map of the ditch is now on file in the county auditor's office.

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER
—BY—
PHIL. A. KAUFER.

Subscription, $1.00 per Year

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE COUNTY.

☞All matter for publication in THE GAZETTE must be handed in on or before Tuesday 6 p. m.

The creamery industry of Freeborn county continues a wonder and good example for the balance of the state. Freeborn county, with twenty townships, has now 28 creameries. One can stand at almost any point and count one or two creameries in plain view. The writer visited a creamery at Emmons, in this county, last Saturday. It was the 20th of the month, the regular monthly pay day, and to see the farmers drive up in their top buggies and fine carriages, receiving checks of $20, $50 and as high as $90, was the best object lesson we have had on the creamery industry. The price received this month was 24 cents a pound. This will be almost inconceivable to our farmers who are selling butter for 10c and a shilling a pound. The management of this creamery, when asked their opinion as to the practicability of a creamery at Red Lake Falls, said there was no doubt in the world that one could be made a success here. The two chief requisites were—a good butter maker and plenty of cows. To secure the services of a good butter maker it is necessary to keep the plant in operation the year around; and to thus keep the creamery running, a large number of cows are required. The managers of the Red Lake Falls creamery should see to it that these two requirements are met. In order to secure sufficient cream, it will be necessary to make arrangements for milk from many farmers who own cows, and who would be willing to take the benefits of a creamery, but who have not had sufficient confidence in the enterprise to become incorporated with it from the start.

The Burlington is having built seven buffet smoking and library cars of a design altogether new. The new cars will be about seventy feet long and will have in addition to a commodious lounging apartment, eight sleeping sections. The cars will be placed in the rear of Burlington trains. They will have unusually wide windows, an observation platform, sofas and easy chairs. The cost is about $10,000 each. They are intended for use between Denver and Chicago, and are to be delivered May 1. The Burlington is a grand road, and whether one wants to ride in the ordinary day coach or the exclusive apartment car, one can find no finer accommodations than those furnished by this company.

The candidacy of A. R. Holston for congress has taken like wild fire in this district, and we verily believe Mr. Holston will be nominated with but little opposition. As far as we can judge, there is no man in the district who could make such a run as A. R. Holston, because he possesses the peculiar genius of the successful campaigner, who can electrify an audience with his oratory, amuse with his wit, and, behind the scenes, win by his unostentations and taking personality, which just suits the common people. He would make it mighty interesting for Eddy or any other candidate nominated by the Republicans.

RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA.

Possibly there are a few people who are not aware of the fact that Minnesota has a pure paint law which reads as follows: All paint sold in cans in Minnesota must be of pure quality and there must be labels upon the cans specifying exactly what ingredients are used in compounding the paints. If this law is followed up rigidly, there will probably be as many arrests as there were in the cases against the sellers of unlabeled baking powder. It is the belief of the dealers that the authorities intend proceeding against all parties and it is very probable that there will be a test case, as paint cannot be said to be an article the regulating of which can be said to be a measure looking to the health of the public.

* * *

Patronize the local dealer. Encourage him all you can. He needs it says the Gentlemen Farmer. If you do not find in his stock exactly the article you want, remember that he cannot carry everything you want on his shelves in catering to his limited trade. Before sending to the city for what you want see if your dealer cannot order it for you just as cheaply while making a small profit for himself. In this way you will be keeping some of the money in your own town, and if you can induce others to do the same, the aggregate results will be worth everything to your community. Thousands of people in the country buy everything they can from the city supply house, and imagine they save money by so doing. They are carried away by glowing descriptions in circulars and catalogues, but sooner or later they wake up to a realization of the fact that they have been cheated. Buy at home. Examine the goods well before you pay for them. Let the dealer know that if he sells honest goods at a fair price you will give him your patronage. You will find more real accommodations and fair dealing in your own town than in all the outside world combined.

Even the Indians are becoming alive to the great advantages that Minnesota and North Dakota offer to men who are willing to toil. The proof of the statement is found in the movement now on foot among the Creek Indians to move from Indian territory to lands in these states. They have turned over to the government their lands and schools in the territory, preparatory to migrating. Under the act making provision for this change Indians are allowed to take up 240 acres, and the head of the family is also allowed a homestead. It is said the Creeks are a very intelligent tribe, and should they take lands in the north they will not be bad citizens.

Angus McKinnon, only son of Alex McKinnon of the state board of grain appeals, has just been elected editor-in-chief of The Gopher, the brilliant little organ of the University of Minnesota. The election of Mr. McKinnon is considered a triumph by the very active anti-imperialists of the old "U."

A. J. Sauve, secretary of the Gentilly Farmers' Township Mutual Fire Insurance Company, was in the city Tuesday and made The Gazette a pleasant call. Mr. Sauve is a progressive farmer, and it was after continued agitation by him that the Gentilly cheese factory was organized. Our readers generally, are familiar with the successful career of the Gentilly factory. Mr. Sauve says he thinks a creamery is still better than a cheese factory where sufficient cows are available. He owns seven cows. In the summer their milk is taken to the factory, in the winter when it does not run he makes butter. Keeping accurate tab on the cost of feeding he finds that these seven cows net him just $200 a year. With a creamery that would operate all the year around he thinks that these figures would be materially raised.

The Gazette acknowledges the receipt of a valuable souvenir, from the hands of J. H. Sanders, formerly a prominent citizen of Red Lake Falls, but now of Roseau, Minn., which is nothing less important than the first newspaper printed in Red Lake Falls. An inscription on the paper contains these words: "printed at 6:20 p. m. July 1st, 1882." Among the locals appears this item: "As a matter of local interest we insert that Mr. Ernest Buse, J. H. Sanders and Adam Zeh printed the first newspaper ever printed in Red Lake Falls." Mr. Sanders writes us that the copy which he so kindly sent us is the first paper printed. We shall treasure it highly as a valuable relic worthy of preservation. The paper was called the Red Lake Falls Era, and was founded by Alvah Dewey, a cousin of Admiral Dewey.

The case of the Aultman Threshing Machine company vs. Pat Soards came off before Judge Watts in chambers Tuesday, and the case was dismissed. It seems that some years ago M. J. J. Soards bought a threshing machine from this company, and his brother Pat gave as security, a second mortgage on a farm. The first mortgage was held by Mrs. Hillgrove, but the Aultman people rushed theirs on record first and brought this action to foreclose, claiming default in payments on the part of the mortgagor. It transpires that the company has been paid several hundred dollars in excess of their legitimate claim, and the action has resulted favorably, in as much as it clears the title to the land.

A most remarkable and lamentable accident occurred at the home of Mr and Mrs. Ildaige Baril on Sunday, when their 5-months-old baby lost its life by strangulation. The family were at church, and had left the children together. The older children gave the baby a gum drop which became lodged in the child's throat, and the older ones were not able to render any assistance. When the parents arrived home the baby was in the last agonies of slow strangulation. The father immediately started for a doctor, but had hardly gotten beyond the door when he was recalled, as the little one had passed away. The funeral occurred Monday afternoon.

Hymenial.

Wednesday last occurred the marriage of Mr. H. F. Krueger, of this city, to Miss Amelia Wentzel, of Fisher. The ceremony was performed in the German Lutheran church near Fisher, at 4 p. m., by the Rev. P. Schedler, in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride, who wore a white silk dress, was attended by Miss Blanche Langinis as maid of honor, and Miss Anna Wentzel, as bridesmaid. The groom's attendants were August Krueger, as best man, and August Wentzel, as groomsman. The bride and bridesmaids carried bouquets of roses.

After the ceremony, a wedding supper was served at the home of the bride's parents. In the evening a reception and ball was held, attended by an immense number of friends and relatives of the happy couple.

The groom is a young man who has grown up from boyhood in our midst, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Krueger, of the Grand View hotel. By hard and persistent work he has built up a prosperous business in the grocery and confectionery line. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Wentzel, wealthy bonanza farmers living near Fisher. Mr. and Mrs. Krueger will be given a warm welcome home by the Royal Neighbors and Woodmen here, a reception and ball being scheduled for Friday evening in their honor. They are at present guests of the bride's sister at Thief River Falls.

The Gazette's best wishes attend them.

A Heroine.

Twelve year old Annie Erickson, of Kittson county, was made a heroine by a big prairie fire there last Saturday. She was alone in the house with her twin sisters two years of age, when the wall of fire approached, coming at tremendous speed. The family horse was in the barn. Hastily wrapping the children in a wet blanket she mounted the animal and rode as child never rode before, holding the babies. At one place she rode nearly [illegible] through the fire and fast as they rode the fire kept up with them. When she finally reached Plum Creek, one half mile from Stephen, she dropped from the horse into the water just as the flames swept over her. The horse continued the mad race into town, where a party was made up to go to the rescue, as the riderless horse was recognized. The children were found not seriously hurt. Several times, Annie says, it seemed as if she must give up and slide from the horse's back, but the thought that she must care for her little sisters gave her strength.

Bad Smashup.

Sunday afternoon the brick fire wall on block 7 collapsed, completely crushing the one story frame building owned by P. A. Kaufer and occupied by Philip Cheyer as a saloon, and badly racking the J. A. Duffy building occupied by J. A. Bray's hardware store. Chayer and Bray both sustain damages to their stock and fixtures. The wall was put up by Contractor L. Johnson a few days ago. Public sentiment is considerably wrought up over the affair, in view of the danger to human life entailed in the apparently careless and inefficient workmanship. Ten minutes before the collapse four persons were playing cards in the Chayer saloon. That no lives were lost is a subject for universal felicitation.

J. J. Rue has the contract for rebuilding the Kaufer building and has already commenced work. As soon as this building is straightened J. A. Duffy will fix up the one adjoining.

Will Build a New Church.

The board of trustees of the Presbyterian church, composed of Frank E. Hunt, chairman; L. O. Simons, secretary; W. A. Bischel and Van B. Brown, met Friday and decided to accept the offer of the Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian church contributing $500 toward a new church edifice and $300 for a new manse. The present church building will be remodeled for the manse, and a new brick building erected for the church, which is to cost [illegible] and to be much larger than the present edifice.

A seventh English steamer has left Fiume with a load of Hungarian horses for the British in South Africa. The 4,500 animals thus shipped are understood to be fat and tender.

People who talk anxiously concerning the danger from automobiles should remember that a great deal always depends upon the man in charge of the machinery, and that an incompetent individual with a team of skittish horses can do quite as much damage as the man who does not know how to work the levers of an automobile.

Arbor day is the only holiday which speaks for the future; all others celebrate the past. Yet even Arbor day begins to have a past. Eighteen years ago, during the first forestry congress in this country, the children of Cincinnati marched to Eden Park and planted a young tree for each President. Washington would be prouder of his Cincinnati oak than of his mythical cherry tree; and Jackson would find his hickory harder to break down than was the United States Bank.

Among the most distinguished young men of foreign birth who are now studying in the United States are T. and Y. Sung, the grandsons of Li Hung Chang, the grand old man of China. The two young men are 21 and 18 years old respectively, and are said to differ from their illustrious grandfather in political faith. They are fully in sympathy with the Chinese reform movement, and will study Western civilization with a view of applying the lessons they learn when they return to China.

The project for building a new facade to the cathedral of Milan, which has been at the point of execution for fourteen years, is receiving so much opposition that it is not impossible that it may be abandoned. The old facade struck a discordant note, but many of its details were fine. As the bequest which was to largely pay the cost of the construction of the facade was to revert to the great hospital at Milan if the construction was not begun within a certain time, it is probable that the Milanese public will not regard the loss of a new facade a serious matter.

A recent editorial on "Child Thrift in France" has elicited the pleasing fact that in several American cities the school children are systematically encouraged to save their pennies. Eight years ago a plan of saving, promoted by the Grand Rapids savings bank, was introduced experimentally into four schools. After twelve weeks' successful trial, it was taken up in all the schools. Now the savings bank has several thousand child depositors, whose savings aggregate more than seventeen thousand dollars. There are now more than five hundred schools in the country in which there is a similar system of saving.

The state of health of one of our two surviving ex-Presidents was the subject of numerous newspaper paragraphs a few weeks ago. Neither of the two has yet reached the average number of years attained by ex-Presidents from Washington to Arthur. Washington's brief life after he left the presidency was longer than that of Polk or of Arthur, for in the June following the close of his chief magistracy Polk was dead, and Arthur survived his retirement less than two years. John Adams lived twenty-five years as ex-President, and his son, John Quincy Adams, showed for nearly nineteen years how importantly a former chief magistrate may serve his country. Van Buren and Fillmore survived the presidency twenty-one years; Madison, nineteen years; Jefferson and Tyler, seventeen years; Pierce, twelve years, and Hayes nearly as long.

The Kansas Supreme court in the case of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company against I. P. Campbell has handed down a decision holding the act of the legislature requiring railroads to furnish free transportation to shippers of live stock to be unconstitutional. The court was unanimous and its decision reverses both the Appellate court and the Sedgwick county district court. The court says: "This is a deprivation of property without due process of law and denial of the equal protection of the laws, and is, therefore, unconstitutional and void under the fourteenth amendment to the constitution." The railroads have furnished shippers of one car load free transportation to market, the shippers paying their fare home. For two car loads or more the shipper is carried free both ways. This is the rule which has been observed for years and is now in force. The populist legislature of 1897 passed the law declared unconstitutional. It provided that shippers of one car load should be carried free both ways.

Senator Depew estimates that "fully one-half of all charitable efforts are productive of more harm than good. They increase pauperism, and encourage paupers to remain paupers. The worst form that charity can take is when it pauperizes the recipient." The estimate of one-half of all charity being evil may seem startling; possibly it is exaggerated. If true it is still no argument against a continuance of charitable effort. No less benevolence, but more discretion in manifesting it, is the rule suggested. The charity that encourages self-help is always good.

BOERS SLIP AWAY

PLAN TO CUT THEIR ESCAPE HAS FAILED.

Foresight and Quick Judgment of Commandant Botha Gets the Boers Out of a Corner—Criticisms Against Lord Roberts Are Beginning to Be Heard—The Advance to Pretoria Is Evidently Some Distance Off—Concentration of Troops at Kimberley Looks as If an Attempt Will Be Made to Deal With the Boer Force on the Vaal.

London, April 29.—In Commandant Gen. Luis Botha the Boers appear to have found a capable successor to Joubert. As a result of his foresight and quick judgment it may be assumed now that the retreating commandoes have gotten safely away with their transport. It is true Lord Roberts does not say much as to the whereabouts of his forces other than those of Gen. French and Gen. Rundle. Nothing is known as to the forces of Generals Brabant, Pole-Carew, Hart and Chermside, but the indications from Aliwalnorth show that several small commandoes are still hovering in the vicinity of Springfield, causing a certain amount of danger, and the advices from Dewetsdorp outlining the duties of Gen. Chermside justify the conclusion that it will still be necessary to employ a considerable body of troops to keep the Free State clear of Boers. The position is that the Boers, who began their raid a month ago by compelling Col. Broadwood to retire on Bloemfontein, have now gotten safely away to the northward, practically without loss, but with the advantage of seven British guns, together with a hundred prisoners captured. Meanwhile the advance to Pretoria has not begun. Small wonder is it that England complains and that criticisms are beginning to be heard here and there Against Lord Roberts.

Two-thirds of his entire force have been employed in effecting this small satisfaction, and the probability is that the whole force will be again be concentrated on Bloemfontein before the main advance begins. As similar raids on the British communication are likely to be repeated it is evidently still a far cry to Pretoria. The significance of Gen. Hunter's division going to Kimberley, where mounted troops are also arriving daily is now said to be a serious attempt to deal with the strong Boer force on the Vaal river now threatening to retake Barkly and then to endeavor to relieve Mafeking. It will be borne in mind that Gen. Hunter paid a hurried visit to Lord Roberts at Bloemfontein. A temporary railway bridge has just been completed at Bethulie, where hitherto railway trucks had been transferred over the wagon bridge. This will greatly facilitate getting stores up to Bloemfontein. Mr. Pultney Bigelow, discussing the treatment of South African rebels, says that the wisdom of the United States government in not punishing the Confederates after the war of secession has borne good fruit, and he suggested that a similar result would follow a similar liberal policy in South Africa.

Boers Fire on the Red Cross.

Lourenzo Marques, April 29.—Swaziland runners report that the recent visit to the queen of Swaziland by Sir Robert Ashmead-Bartlett has not checked the killing. The Swazi queen has placed the former king's brother on the throne, a boy of eighteen. She argues that as she will have to answer for the death of Sebungua, she may as well keep on killing, and has given the chiefs permission to kill whom they please throughout the whole of Swaziland.

The commandoes ordered to the front are obeying reluctantly. One burger who has escaped injury in a number of battles admits that the Boers have fired on the Red Cross frequently. The sending of Gen. Cronje to St. Helena has greatly enraged the Boers, who are said to be more than ever determined to fight to the death.

Boers Elude Gen. Rundle.

London, April 29.—The Daily Chronicle has the following from Vaal Bank, dated Wednesday: "For two days the Boers have been fighting a series of rear guard actions. Crossing the Modder here and hotly pursued by Gen. Alderson, they got into the kopjes southeast of the crossing and narrowly missed being captured by Gen. Rundle, who was coming from that direction, but on sighting his advance they turned eastward and slipped away between Gen. Alderson and Gen. Rundle. A prisoner just captured asserts that President Steyn was present during Monday's fight at Standfontein, east of Leeuw kop. He had shaved his beard so that he was not easily recognizable.

Catholics Will Not Parade.

Once used they will never be discarded. They will last for years, can be easily and cheaply recharged and costs but fifty cents at first.

We want Agents, both local and country to sell these Inhalers and will make special and exclusive terms to such as will enter the field at once. Write to-day and secure territory before your neighbor gets ahead of you. Read what one family thinks of "The Palmer Inhaler."

HANOVER, N. H. Sept 21, 1899.

DEAR SIRS: With regards to "Palmer's Inhalers" myself and wife, after using them a year are ready to say, they are all that is claimed for them. My wife had Catarrh for years and is now free from it (entirely cured) and we think it will cure Catarrh even after it has become Chronic. Money would hardly tempt us to part with our Inhalers.

Yours gratefully,
SAM'L B. and MRS. ROSENA PHILLIPS

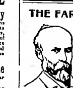
THE FARMER'S GARDEN.



Scientists make the startling assertion that lung and kidney ailments are rapidly increasing among the Farmers of America, and assign as one of the principle reasons the lack of vegetable food in sufficient variety.

Mr. A. K. BUSH, Dover, Minnesota, Horticulturist, with the Minnesota Farmer's Institute, also a successful gardener and farmer, has prepared an illustrated plan of the Farmer's Garden he is advocating. It is the most practical thing of the kind ever brought to our attention and does away very largely with hand labor. Mr. Bush's plan provides for a Fruit and Vegetable Garden that may be easily cared for with the aid of a horse and an ordinary farm cultivator. It is illustrated by a diagram and instructions are given as to culture, rotation, etc. Every farmer, in fact, every one who has or wants a garden, should have this folder, entitled The Farmer's Garden. It is published by Northrup-King & Co., the seedsmen of Minneapolis, Minnesota, and is sent FREE to those who write them asking for it, and who will mention the fact that they saw the offer in this paper.

SEVEN LIVES LOST

Latest Estimates Place the Property Loss at $17,000,000 — Two Thousand Buildings Were Destroyed and Several Thousand People Are Homeless—An Appeal for Relief Will Be Made to the Country—Serious Problem That Confronts Hull Is That of Work.

Ottawa, April 29.—Over five square miles of territory burned over; more than 2,000 buildings destroyed; seven lives lost, several thousand men, women and children homeless and property loss of $17,000,000, according to latest estimates, insured for about half its value, are the results of the destructive fire which swept this city and Hull Thursday and Friday. Although under control for many hours, the flames were not entirely extinguished until about noon yesterday.

A relief committee has been formed by the citizens of this, together with the Catholic archbishops of Ottawa and Montreal, which will make an appeal for relief to the country. The most serious problem that confronts Hull is that of work. The majority of householders who were burned out are poor and have large families. It is not expected there will be employment for a considerable period, and the way in which many of the poor are going to live in the meantime is doubtful. On the Ottawa side fully two-thirds of Dalhousie ward is devastated, and an estimate by residents of the district place the number who are without houses of their own in this district at 5,000. The destroyed property in this district included some of the finest residences in Ottawa, as well as a great many of the humblest.

The fire area was viewed by hundreds of people yesterday afternoon and evening. One of the most remarkable things about the sad scene was that no smoke was to be scene. There was no half-burned buildings or smouldering logs anywhere. Everything that the fire touched was burned to ashes. All of Hull's principal buildings, with the exception of the Catholic church, were wiped out. The buildings destroyed are valued at $2,700,000, and of this over $1,000,000 may be put down as a loss. Then in stock, fixtures, equipment, household effects and wearing apparel there is a loss of nearly $3,000,000. The vast piles of lumber which went up in smoke may be reckoned at $2,000,000.

CLASH IN CHICAGO.

Fight Between Union and Non-union Sympathizers.

Chicago, April 29.—A fight between non-union and union sympathizers occurred yesterday when thirty men left their work at the Western Electric building. A patrol wagon full of policemen scattered the non-union men's assailants. Two non-union men, David Fitzgerald, skull fractured by a brick, and James Lane, who was also hit on the head by a brick, were taken to the hospital. Two policemen on duty at the Western Electric building, were roughly treated by strike sympathizers before a riot call brought reinforcements. Two other non-union men were assailed and beaten during the day.

GRANT'S BIRTHDAY.

Annual Celebration at Galena With Elaborate Ceremonies.

Galena, Ill., April 29. — Gen. U. S. Grant's birthday was observed here yesterday. The event has been celebrated annually for ten years, with some speaker of national reputation, as orator of the day; but the celebration yesterday was on a much more elaborate scale than heretofore attempted. Gov. Theodore Roosevelt of New York delivered the principal oration. Special trains were run by the railroads, and the announcement that the famous fighting governor of the Empire State was to be present brought thousands of people into the quaint little city that for years was the home of Gen. Grant. The special train bearing Gov. Roosevelt, Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris, her son, Sapt. Sartoris, her daughter, Vivian Sartoris, and other distinguished visitors, arrived from Chicago shortly before 2 o'clock. Streets leading to the depot were packed almost from curb to curb long before the train arrived, and as Gov. Roosevelt and the other visitors were escorted by members of the reception committee to carriages in waiting, a perfect storm of cheers arose, Gov. Roosevelt responding by smilingly lifting his hat. The drive took on the nature of an ovation for Gov. Roosevelt. From the moment he stepped into his carriage at the depot until he alighted and entered turner Turner hall, the cheering was almost unceasing, and it was several minutes after the governor entered the building that the applause died away.

MRS. GRANT THE GUEST

Pittsburg, Pa., April 29.—The fourteenth annual banquet of the Americus Republican club of this city in commemoration of the birth of Gen. U. S. Grant was held at the Hotel Schenley last night, and was in many respects the most successful dinner yet given by the famous organization. Cousin of Iowa, Senator M. A. Hanna of Ohio, Gov. G. W. Atkinson of West Virginia, Col. James E. Barrett of Pennsylvania and Charles F. Dick of Ohio.

If Officially Informed That He Has Been Indicted.

Frankfort, Ky., April 29.—Gov. Taylor telegraphed Commonwealth's Attorney Franklin that he is in Washington on business, but will return here and appear in court if officially informed that the report that he has been indicted is true. Franklin replied by wire that the query in Taylor's telegram should have been addressed to Judge Cantrill and not giving an answer as to the correctness of the report concerning the indictment in his telegram. Gov. Taylor, it is said, states that if he has not been indicted he will remain in Washington indefinitely.

RED LAKE COUNTY POLITICS.

With the calling of primaries and the holding of delegate county conventions, the political pot in Red Lake county has begun to simmer. Two years ago the full populist county ticket, with the exception of the candidate for sheriff, was elected, after a campaign into which many disturbing elements had been cast. The opposition of influential Red Lake Falls citizens to the populist nominee for state senator and the candidacy of several independents, had a tendency to split the populist vote. Since 1898, there have been some events that will influence county politics to a certain extent, and there is a faint possibility of the nationality issue being thrust into the campaign, with all its direful and much-to-be dreaded consequences. The republicans will make a great fight this year. The democrats will ask for, and no doubt receive, substantial recognition from the populists, so that it will be the Republicans against the field. Following is the 1898 vote of Red Lake county by precincts, on Lieutenant Governor, giving as close as can be, the relative strength of the Democratic-populist fusion vote of the county, as against the Republican. By comparison it is found that the vote on lieutenant governor was the most representative—Lind ran ahead of his ticket, others behind:

The vote on governor was, Lind, 1084; Eustis, 428. The total registration of the county was 2079; the total vote, 1663. The mid-road populist vote was in the neighborhood of 100.

That a nomination this year is not equivalent to election goes without saying. There is no doubt that every inch of the ground will be contested. Candidates galore are already in the field.

'Tis said the chances for dividing Polk county this fall are extremely bright.

CHANCE TO LOCATE A MANUFACTURING INDUSTRY.

The Gazette is in receipt of a letter from the Fosston Wind Stacker Company, which explains itself. The letter is in part as follows:

"In reply to your letter will say that we have about completed arrangements to get 200 blowers built, as we could not get a factory started anywhere in time to get out that many for next seasons out-put. Now, in the mean time we are going to arrange for the building of a factory and foundry.

We would perhaps employ a dozen skilled workmen, also helpers in all perhaps 25 to 35 men. You may let us know what your city would be willing to give us to locate there, and we could consider it before locating.

Yours Respectfully,
Fosston Wind Stacker Co.
By S. N. Sorensen."

At present the firm of Larsen & Espe, of Crookston, are manufacturing stackers as rapidly as possibly and a number of them will be shipped next week to fill early orders. This season the greatest difficulty experienced by the company will be the securing of enough machines to supply the demand from North and South Dakota and Minnesota. Already they have sold several of these stackers in Iowa and Indiana and other more distant states.

Red Lake Falls should make an effort to secure the location of this factory.

Although the metropolitan republican newspapers of Minnesota opposed the Puerto Rican bill, and roundly denounced our representatives who favored it, we now see them upholding these representatives on general principles, and fishing out specific reasons for so doing. If the Puerto Rican measure was such a crime before, it certainly cannot have assumed the attributes of virtue since. That it is good party policy to come together and get the leaders facing the same way for the campaign goes without saying, and this facility for uniting forces on general issues against the common enemy is one of the strong points of the republican organization. In fact the republican party presents an organization the like of which has never before been seen. With one grand centre in the national organization, its pulsations throughout the lesser, in state, senatorial, congressional, county and municipal adjuncts are as powerful and regular as it is possible to be. The adversaries of the Republican party to-day may well stand in awe before the modern g. o. p., while every thinking person must admire the completeness, the effectiveness, and the power of the party as an organization. Democrats, who remember the impotent effect of their efforts to carry out the promises of tariff reform, and the disruption of their party and its defeat at the polls at the next election in consequence, will find it interesting to take note of the difference in the way the great party questions are handled by the Republicans.

Miss Abbie West, a teacher in the school at Beaton, southwest of Hallock, is being loudly praised for the manner in which she saved her school house from burning and also saved the lives of some of her pupils. An immense prairie fire was sweeping down upon her and hastily dismissing a number of the scholars living in the direction where safety lay, she took two of the boys and backfired. Then they burned around the building, stamping out the fire when it became dangerous and when the mass of flames reached them they were safe. Teacher and pupils had blistered hands and faces, and their heroic work is the talk of the entire country side.

The fight on Eddy within the republican ranks is evidently not assuming dangerous proportions. Eddy is not as strong as he was two years ago, however.

The Red Lake Falls schools now report to High School Inspector Aiton, our schools now being on the highschool list, and eligible to the $800 state aid, provided we take no backward step, as it is easier to get off than on the list. This is what we must guard against now, as a false move at this stage of our advancement would mean a loss of our highschool standing and of the $800 state aid in consequence.

There is nothing harder for a young mother than to find herself suddenly so placed that she is unable to come and go freely, as was her wont in the early married days before the baby came, while the father comes and goes as ever, and is not tied down at all. The father must be very patient and sympathetic while the mother adjusts herself to this new life of hers, as a sweet woman soon will learn to do, for if he is thoughtless here he is planting seeds of failure which will grow to gigantic proportions. He must keep in touch with the mother in these days, that they may walk together later, and all through even to the end.—February Ladies Home Journal.

HER HEART'S SECRET;

Or, UNDER A SPELL.

BY JEAN WARNER.

CHAPTER XIII.

Fannie's Lover

There was a moonlight regatta on the river that evening, and loth though she had been to leave her friend, Fannie had at length yielded to Sybil's solicitation, and accompanied her brother and Laurence Grey to the scene of festivity.

Young Grey was passionately fond of aquatic sports, and his pretty little yacht, the "Fannie," was the one indulgence which the self-denying young student allowed himself during these arduous years of toil that were to prepare him for his professional career.

Grave, reticent and dignified, Laurence Grey always seemed especially so beside pretty Fannie Clive, whose gay young life, like that of a butterfly, was all sport, sunshine and gladness. Laurence did not dance and could not flirt; he was stupid at croquet and solemn in conversation.

Fannie kept out of his way as much as possible and found Fenton Forrest a most delightful set-off to her brother's more favored friend.

Fenton, with his gallant manners and gold lace, his brilliancy and his buttons, his flashing eyes and his clanking spurs, was Fannie's ideal hero—Fenton, who could ride like an Arab and dance like a Frenchman, who could court desperately one half-hour and flirt faithlessly the second—Fenton, who never missed a stroke at croquet or a step in the redowa, whose ready wit was equal to all emergencies, and whose ready tongue was equal to the fairest antagonists—Fenton, the gay, the gallant, the graceful, was surely the perfection of manhood; and Fannie fancied herself very much in love indeed.

For the past month he had been her constant cavalier, having suddenly awakened to the astonishing fact that the pretty little Clive girl he used to patronize and tease during his previous visits to Greylawns was "a deuced handsome woman."

And in his fascinating society Fannie had latterly lost sight of her old playmate, Laurence, altogether—Laurence, who had always been ready to take her to school, or church, or concert—whose pretty boat, her namesake, was always at her disposal, whose quiet, brotherly service was always at her command—Laurence, with his kind smile and unassuming friendliness, seemed, in contrast with the glorious Fenton, very tame indeed.

But Fenton was in town this evening, and though Fannie felt the regatta would be a very tedious affair without his enlivening presence, she yielded to circumstances and, donning the most charming of boating costumes, resolved—with a sudden conscience-stricken feeling, that she had been rather unfriendly lately—to be as agreeable as possible to her brother's Damon, for the sake of auld lang syne.

Laurence looked his best in his sailor's garb. He was apt to affect a rather stiff, scholarly style in his everyday costume. Now, with his dark brown hair falling in rich waves under his jaunty hat, and his loose collar turned back from his well formed throat, the young student looked, Fannie was forced to acknowledge, quite as handsome as Fenton himself.

And he as so kind, so thoughtful, in his care for her. Such pretty new cushions had been placed in the stern of the boat; such a bright mirror swung in the toy of a cabin, such a dainty supper was packed away, with nautical neatness, in a compact little hamper under the deck.

Fenton would have had plenty of wine and cigars, but he would have thought of the snow-white cottage cheese that was Fannie's especial weakness? or would he have been aware of her great predilection for raspberries and ice cream? Not that Fannie gave any minute attention to these details; she only had a fluttering sense of being daintily and thoughtfully cared for, and knew that Laurence's wise and sober head had planned it all.

And as the evening breeze filled the snowy sails, and the pretty yacht went skimming like a seabird over the waters, whose surface was just silvered with the light of the rising moon, the young student's voice blended in a German boat-song, whose rich melody rivaled Fenton's grandest operatic efforts.

The young girl listened, entranced, while the full, deep notes floated out over the shining waves and were echoed by the overhanging hills. A strange quiet stole over her; she seemed drifting down a shadowy river into a beautiful land of dreams.

Even after the song ceased she sat still and silent, looking so beautiful in this new mood that Laurence could not take his eyes off her face.

"I'm going to take a smoke," said Herbert, lazily, rising from his seat. "I know you hate a pipe, Fan, so I'll get out of the way. You'll make a model husband in that respect, Grey. You'll never offend a lady's affections by a vile meerschaum, while I—it would be a hard pull, I think, between a pipe and a wife."

"I'll tell that on you, sir!" said Fannie, with a threatening nod, as Herbert went off. "A pipe and a wife, indeed! Was there ever such an odious comparison?"

"Not so odious, after all," said Laurence, with a grave smile. "The pipe is an emblem of peace, rest and comfort; its influence is to soothe, to pacify and cheer."

"You wouldn't weigh your wife and pipe in the same balance?" she said, laughing.

"No: there is nothing on earth I would weigh in the same balance with my wife—if I ever am fortunate enough to have one," he added.

"Oh, you'll have one, of course," said Fannie, lightly. "You're just the man to marry, and I really think you'll make a model husband, Laurence."

"Do you?" he asked, in a low tone. Why?"

"Oh because—because you're so quiet, and steady, and thoughtful. I know you'd never worry your wife by being selfish, and cross, and cranky, like some men do. Dear me!"—Fanny shook her head as the weighty subject struck her in its full force—"I declare, I don't see how some women put up with their husbands at all."

"It wouldn't teach me patience," answered Fannie, giving her sailor hat an aggressive little twitch. I couldn't put up with a cross, cranky, worrying man—not if I loved him to distraction.

"But if you loved him, he would not seem cross, cranky and worrying," answered Laurence, with his quiet smile.

"I'd have eyes and ears," said Fannie, quite indignantly. "I could see and hear what he did and what he said. Love would never make me blind."

"I think it would," answered Laurence, looking tenderly at the sweet young face that was so fresh and childlike in its innocence. "Love makes all of us—the wisest and most far-seeing—blind as well as deaf. We will not see—we will not hear."

"You seem to know all about it. Do you speak from experience?" asked Fannie, archly.

"Yes," was the reply, in a low tone that made Fannie repent of her thoughtless question. "I do speak from experience. Would you like to hear my love story, Fannie?"

"Oh, dear, no! That is, I didn't mean—"

She stopped, blushing and embarrassed—she who could support Fenton's daring compliments with such smiling equanimity, who could laugh at Fenton's most ardent vows.

"I know that you didn't mean to ask my confidence," he answers, sadly; "nevertheless, I give it to you freely. I do love, I have loved for years, one so bright, so gay, so beautiful, that it would be folly to ask her to step from her own sunny sphere and share my humble lot."

"Why, you are not poor, Laurence," she said, moved by a sweet, womanly sympathy at the brave, pathetic resignation of his tone. "Your father is quite well off, I thought."

"Aye, well off," was his answer. "But only while he lives will I profit by his assistance. My education is all I ever will accept from my father. I am a man, and able to work for myself. All that my father has be, by my own request, will leave to my sister, for women are weak, and should be independent of a world that yields success only to the strong. I have my own battle to win, my own way to work. I can do it and I will."

"And won't she?" Fannie looked up into the handsome face of the man beside her with earnest, friendly interest—"won't, the lady wait for you, Laurence? It is so good and generous of you to feel this way toward Marian. I think she—the young lady, I mean—would surely love you better for it."

"Love me better?" he echoed, bitterly. "She does not love me at all. I am nothing—nothing to her!"

"You don't know," said Fannie, encouragingly. "I am sure if she knew what a fine fellow you are she couldn't help loving you a little, Laurence."

"A little—only a little: that is all I ask," he answered, eagerly. "If she would only love me a little."

"Girls are so queer, you know," said the pretty little mentor, confidentially. "You don't understand her, perhaps, Laurence. Perhaps you're too—too modest and retiring. You mustn't be afraid of her. Just speak right out, and tell her that you love her with all your heart, and that you will work for her, and win her, if she will wait long enough for you; and then—and then, even if she says no at first, don't take it, for you know, Laurence," continued the little traitress to her sex, "girls always say no at first, even if they're dying to say yes."

"Fannie! Fannie!"—the girl started like a frightened fawn at the new tenderness in her companion's voice, the new light in his eye—"are you only maddening me by your words, or are you, indeed, blind, blind to the love that has worshiped you since you were a laughing, bright-eyed child, the sunbeam, the gladness, the beauty of my life, even then—even then? And now—now I take you at your words! I come to you with my future, of struggle, privation, yet of final—aye, speedy—success, I say to you, my darling, my darling, I love you with all my strength, the fervor, the endurance of a heart that has loved but once, and can never love again. I love you! Can you love me a little, Fannie—only a very little?"

"I—I—" Fannie shrank back, and covered her face with her hands. "Not me, Laurence! Oh, you didn't mean me? Oh, I am so sorry—so very sorry! I didn't know— I didn't think! I like you so much, Laurence. I—I respect you so much."

"But you don't love me. I understand you," he answered, bitterly. "I expected as much, Fannie. I am not disappointed, dear. Only—only—"

He paused; his deep voice shook so that he could say no more; the strong man had been tried even beyond his strength.

"I am so sorry!" repeated Fannie, as penitently as a child who had just broken a costly vase, and was surveying the wreck dolefully—"I am so sorry, Laurence! I wouldn't have had this happen for the world. And I do—I do"—Fannie was sobbing now—"I do love you just—just like I love Herbert, if—if that will do any good."

"Poor little girl!" The deep voice was steady again now. "There, there! it is all over now—all over. I told you that love was blind. I ought to have seen—I ought to have known better. Let us be friends, once more, Fannie—only friends—and think of me as you think of Herbert."

"What the deuce was the matter with Laurence to-night, Fan?" asked her brother, as they wended their way homeward through the woods from the river. "The fellow didn't seem himself at all. What were you and he talking about so long?"

"Oh, dear! you won't be angry, Herbert?" said Fannie, clasping his arm and looking up into his face in her own pretty, winning way. "But—what do you think? He actually—actually proposed to me, dear—Laurence Grey! I never dreamed of such a thing!"

"Proposed to you, eh, Puss! And what did you tell him—yes?" asked Herbert, smiling.

"Yes?" echoed Fannie, in astonishment—"did I tell Laurence Grey yes? Why, of course not, brother! I would as soon think of marrying you!"

"Pshaw, Fan!" said her brother, in a vexed tone. "You don't know what you are saying. I believe, when it comes to choosing a husband, every woman turns a fool. You're blind, Fan—blind, blind!"

CHAPTER XIV.

A Girlish Confidence.

Fannie went straight to Sybil's room on her return home.

It was midnight, and the old chamber of Basil Clive was flooded with the light of the midsummer moon: and, invalid as she still was, Sybil sat dressed, by one of the diamond-paned windows, that looked out upon forest, river and valley—the wide-reaching domain that Robert Clive called his own.

The sweet face that turned toward Fannie, on her entrance, seemed paler and sadder than usual. Perhaps Sybil had been weighing all these proud possessions against the woman's kingdom in which she could never reign—the kingdom of the heart.

"Did you have a pleasant time, dear?" she asked, as Fannie knelt beside, and twined her arms around her waist. "What! surely"—Sybil took a closer view of the pretty countenance—"why, Fannie, you have been crying! What is the matter? Has anything happened?" she said, nervously.

"Yes," answered Fannie, bursting into a fit of childish tears, "something has happened; and—and I am so miserable and wretched, Sybil, I don't know what to do! Herbert is—"

"What! something happened?" cried Sybil started to her feet, "to Her—to your brother? Oh, where is he? Let me see him! Where is he?"

"He is downstairs, I suppose. I don't mean anything has happened to him. I was only going to say—that—that he is as mad as fire because—because—"

Fannie broke down again, sobbing, too wretched to notice her friend's momentary betrayal of herself.

"What is the matter?" asked Sybil, in a voice that tenderness could tone into the softest music. "How have you offended your brother, dear? Why is he angry with you?"

"Because—because—I am sure I couldn't help it, and never dreamed of such a thing. I never flirted with him a bit. He was so poky—so good, I mean—and I'd as soon think of marrying my grandfather," concluded Fannie, emphatically.

"Marrying your grandfather? What are you talking about, dear?" asked Sybil, in natural bewilderment.

"Why, Laurence Grey, of course," answered Fannie petulantly. "He had to go and fall in love with me—with me!" repeated Fannie, as if it were the most surprising thing in the world. And I feel so horrid and mean, and wretched about it! and Herbert is cross because I won't have him, and says I'm a— a little fool!"

"Is that all?" asked Sybil, smiling, with a long breath of infinite relief. "I thought that something far more serious had caused the grief. You have given Mr. Grey his answer, and I should think that would be the end of it—that is, if"—Sybil's hand threaded the beautiful hair caressingly—"if you are quite sure of your heart."

"Sure of my own heart?" repeated Fannie, wonderingly.

Sybil smiled again.

"I mean, are you quite sure that you do not care a little for Mr. Grey? I thought him a very noble young man, Fannie. He has so much dignity, so much modesty, and so much talent."

"I suppose he has," said Fannie, dubiously, as if she had never reflected much on these accessories before. "He is real handsome, too, when he puts on a decent hat and a turn-down collar; and he sings—oh, Sybil, how beautifully he can sing!"

"Yet you don't care for him, Fannie?"

"Oh, yes I do—ever so much! We've played together ever since I was that high"—Fannie measured a Lilliputian's height with her hand—"and he always got me the prettiest flowers, and the ripest strawberries, and the rosiest apples. He trained my pony for me; and you know Terry almost talks. He brought me my mocking bird, and would always go to the ends of the earth for anything I wanted. I like him better—better—"

"Better than any one you know?" asked Sybil, gently. "Are you quite sure of that, Fannie?"

"Yes," answered Fanny, hiding her blushing face on her friend's breast. "I think—no, I am quite sure—I like him better than any one, except those I love: for liking is not loving, is it, Sybil? I like him ever so much, but I could never, never love Laurence Grey."

"I hope you will never love one less worthy, dear," answered Sybil, softly; and then, shrinking, as a light footstep sounded in the hall without, she added: "Mrs. Wyllis is still up. Had we not better say good-night?"

"Oh, don't mind her!" answered the young mistress of the Towers, carelessly. "Wyllis is a regular old cat. She is always prowling around at untimely hours, watching the servants, and watching the lights, and watching everything. I don't believe she ever sleeps at all. But perhaps you are tired, darling. I am forgetting how sick you have been. Why are you sitting up so late? And your dress is all damp with dew! Surely, you have not been out in the night air, Sybil?"

"Only for a little walk at sunset," was the low reply. I was lonesome, and it was so beautiful out; but—"

Sybil hesitated. How could she frame the warning that rose to her lips? How could she tell this laughing, thoughtless girl of the dangers that surrounded her happy home? How could she speak without compromising her father's safety, her father's and Rizpah's?—those two desperate, maddened beings, leagued together against the innocent and unconscious children of Robert Clive?

"I don't think it is very safe to walk in these woods alone," Sybil added. "I—I have heard that some—some lawless characters have been seen near here. It is well to be careful, Fannie."

"Oh, dear, I'm not afraid," answered the young heiress, laughingly. "Everybody knows papa, and almost everybody fears him. Wherever else they may go, you may be sure the 'lawless characters' will keep clear of the Clive place. Papa is a regular bugbear to all the thieves and tramps in the neighborhood."

"But—but"—oh, how hard it was to speak with Fannie's arm about her waist, with Fannie's breath upon her cheek!—"there might be some daring and desperate enough to defy even your father. I—I heard of—of a man once—a man driven to desperation by a real or fancied wrong—who for years and years haunted his enemy's grounds, cast his shadow upon the threshold; nay, even"—Sybil's voice sank to a thrilling whisper—"found a secret entrance to the very house. And all the time this enemy, proud and powerful as your father, was unconscious of the danger that threatened him, and even more darkly threatened his. For he had children, Fannie—noble, beautiful children—and upon them had descended the legacy of hate and revenge. It was on these children this man had sworn to visit the father's crime; it was the children who were doomed to—to—Oh, heaven!"

Sybil stopped, shuddering all over, for the door had opened noiselessly, and the black-robed figure of Mrs. Wyllis stood, a listener, upon the threshold.

"Miss Fannie," she purred softly, as the two young people started at sight of her, "your lamp has burned so low that I fear it is dangerous. If you have no objection, I will leave a candle in its place. There have been so many dreadful accidents of late that one cannot be too careful"—her sleepy eyes took one of their quick, stealthy surveys of the room—"one cannot be too careful."

"Oh, dear, what a poky old thing you are, Wyllis!" said Fannie, petulantly. "I know you mean it is time we were in bed; so, why don't you go? Good-night, Sybil. I won't walk in the woods alone any more, for your story has fairly made my flesh creep."

As she retired to her own room, the young lady asked:

"I wonder if papa has any enemies, Wyllis?"

"I suppose he has, Miss Fannie," was the quiet rejoinder. "There are few men like him who haven't."

"Do you suppose that he—that my papa—could ever have done any one harm?" asked Fannie, indignantly.

"Of course not," answered the housekeeper, softly. "Only, my dear, as you will live to learn, envy and jealousy make the worst kind of enemies. It does not need harm. But why do you ask?"

"Oh, for no reason in particular," answered Fannie, evasively; "only—only"—as the young lady confided to her own pretty image in the mirror, a few minutes later—"Sybil did talk so very queer. It sounded—it really sounded as if she were telling that story about papa."

"Has he an enemy?" repeated Mrs. Wyllis, softly to herself, as she stole noiselessly along the carpeted hall, and paused for a moment to listen at Sybil's door—"has he an enemy? Aye"—and her face lit up with a crafty smile of triumph that no mortal eye had ever seen upon its placid features—"he has one at his threshold, at his fireside—aye, at his very meal! An enemy that will not falter until she gains her end!"

CHAPTER XV.

Miss Marian Investigates.

Feminine curiosity was perhaps the least objectionable of Miss Marian Grey's, distinguishing characteristics but feminine curiosity she certainly possessed to a remarkable degree.

She had been in a fever of excitement since the night when the strange visitor came to her father's study, and her natural curiosity, stimulated by a morbid woman's pique against the man who defied her charms, deprived her of peace and rest.

That there was some dreadful skeleton closeted at Clive Towers she had little doubt; but how could she bring that skeleton to light?—how discover the awful secret this proud family had so effectually concealed for so many years? For not even the malicious gossip of a country neighborhood, where any shaft against the lord of the manor would have been feathered by a hundred eager tongues, had not as yet touched the calm dignity of Robert Clive.

He had always been honored, respected—a little feared, perhaps—but not loved.

Several attempts that Miss Marian made to sound her father having proved ineffectual—the old lawyer being as impenetrable as one of the iron safes that contained his legal documents—the worthy daughter of Mother Eve arrayed herself one morning, in a becoming walking-garb and started out on a tour of investigation.

Her path led by the handsome gateway of Clive Towers, and she looked in at its velvety lawn, and flowery terraces, and spraying fountains, with an envious and malicious eye.

The stately splendor of her neighbors had always awakened a petty jealousy in her breast, but hitherto that jealousy had been softened by the hope of calling herself one day mistress of all.

But now—now it was very evident Herbert did not care a pin for her—it was quite as evident that he cared for another: and Miss Marian felt that to see a rival installed as lady of Clive Towers would be more than she or any other woman would quietly bear.

She would take up a woman's weapons first, aye, and would fight a woman's battle, no matter who was wounded in the fray.

It was a lovely morning, and the fervid heat of the summer sun was tempered by the dewy foliage of the trees, beneath whose shadows the road wound like the pillared aisle of some vast cathedral filled with emerald light.

Here and there, through interstices in the forest, the river gleamed like a sheet of silver; here and there an opening the woods displayed some handsome village or picturesque cottage crowning a verdant hillside or nestling in some sheltered vale.

It was to one of these cottages Miss Marian bent her steps—a very little bird's-nest of a place, embowered in vines and roses, until nothing but an adventurous chimney and a very determined gable remained visible to assert the human proprietorship of the place.

Here lived an ancient spinster named Miss Melicia Feenix, who was so learned in the legendary lore of the neighborhood that her authority on all matters pertaining to aristocratic precedence was beyond dispute. She had the most uncomfortable recollections of everybody's grandfather and the most decisive opinion of everybody's grandmother. Ancestral squabbles and ancestral sprees were equally fresh in this alarming memory. She knew whose great-aunt had taken in washing, and whose great-uncle had cobbled shoes.

There had been a little coolness between Miss Feenix and the Greys since the estimable Felicia had mentioned to a friend her reminiscences concerning one of the Grey's grandfathers, which were not very agreeable to their descendants; but, as Miss Marian decided that morning, it was very foolish to allow so trifling a matter to estrange her from a valuable friend. Perhaps her grandfather had been a little uncertain in his business matters—perhaps he had taken money under false pretenses. Miss Marian's secret regret was that he had not taken a little more.

At any rate, Miss Feenix's opinions and recollections were necessary to Miss Marian just now. If any one could let her into the secret trouble of the Clives, it was this maiden of terrible memory, this (as Herbert called her) pickle jar of the past.

His Denomination.

W. F. Cody had in one of his companies a Westerner, "Broncho Bill." A certain missionary had joined the aggregation to look after the morals of the Indians. Thinking that Broncho Bill would bear a little looking after also, the good man secured a seat by his side at the dinner table and remarked pleasantly:

"This is Mr. Broncho Bill, is it not?"

"Yaas."

"Where were you born?"

"Near Kit Bullard's mill' on Big Pigeon."

"Religious parents, I suppose?"

"Yaas."

"What is your denomination?"

"You denomination?"

"O—ah—yaas. Smith and Wesson."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Didn't Seem Possible.

A Scottish paper tells an anecdote in connection with a new electric system, just opened in Aberdeen. Two farm servants came to Aberdeen to spend New Year's Day. Arriving by train, they immediately made their way to the terminus of the electric tramway circuit, where, after looking at the new creation with much wonder, they decided upon having a ride. Getting on top of the car, and after getting well along George street, "Wull," sain man Jock, "this is a graun' invention. In Edingurgh I saw them drive the cars wi' an iron rape aneth street, in Dundee they pu' them wi' an engine, hut, michty man, wha wad a' thocht they could ca' them wi' a fishing rod!"—New York Tribune.

Another Idol Shattered.

She was a kindly-faced woman, and it was easy to see that she was bubbling over with love for the little folk. She walked modestly over into the office of the city editor and inquired:

"Will you please tell me which one of the staff it is that writes all those pretty little stories about the children? I know he must love the little folk, because he writes such nice stories about them. I want to tell him a precious little story about my darling boy, who is only—"

"That's the man over there," interrupted the city editor.

"Which one, pray?"

"That one with the corncob pipe in his mouth, swearing at the office boy."—Omaha World-Herald.

Why She Refrains.

"It is true. My wife never scolds, never scowls, never frowns."

"Do you expect us to believe such nonsense?"

"I do. Why not? I can explain."

"Then explain."

"She doesn't scold because it twists her mouth; she doesn't scowl because it gives he crowsfeet, and she doesn't frown because it brings wrinkles."

"Good. But inwardly?"

"Don't ask me. The opinion is too harrowing."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

That Tired Feeling

Just as surely indicates that the blood is lacking in vitality and the elements of health as does the most obstinate humor that the vital fluid is full of impurities. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures that tired feeling by enriching and vitalizing the blood, creating a good appetite and invigorating every organ of the body.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"I had that tired feeling all the time. Was as tired in the morning when I rose as I was when I went to bed. I took four bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and it made me feel like a new man. I could work hard and not feel tired. I recommend Hood's to all who need a good medicine." A. P. CHARTER, Creston, Iowa.

Two Kitchener Stories.

What Lord Kitchener is doing may be best summed up in two stories that are going the rounds in regard to him. It is said that he was asked the other day whether he did not propose to reorganize the transport. His reply was: "No: I am going to organize it." The other story is that he paid a surprise visit to the principal hotel in the city, the resort of all those among the officers who can, while in Cape Town, afford the luxuries of life at the Mount Nelson. He called for the visitors' book, and carefully ran his finger down the list of military guests. He subsequently inquired of each officer his reason for being at the Mount Nelson hotel and not at the front. In most cases, of course, there were excellent reasons for the presence of those gentlemen in Cape Town. In some, however, the reasons were not so good—were not, in fact, satisfactory, and in one or two cases the leave was immediately canceled and the laggard soldiers sent to their regiment.—London News.

Mine Rats in Colorado.

Mountain rats in the mines in Colorado are about as big as a wharf rat, but they have a bushy tail like a squirrel and are pets of the miners. Whenever the luncheon hour comes you will see them come from their holes, or nests, or wherever they live in the intervals between meals, squat on their haunches and sit there until one of the miners shares his dinner with them. DAN. GROSVENOR SAYS:

"Peruna Is an Excellent Spring Catarrh Remedy—I am as Well as Ever."

Hon. Dan. A. Grosvenor, of the Famous Ohio Family.

Hon. Dan. A. Grosvenor, Deputy Auditor for the War Department, in a letter written from Washington, D. C., says:

"Allow me to express my gratitude to you for the benefit derived from one bottle of Peruna. One week has brought wonderful changes and I am now as well as ever. Besides being one of the very best spring tonics it is an excellent catarrh remedy." Very respectfully, Dan A. Grosvenor,

Hal P. Denton, Chief National Export Exposition, Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "I was completely run down from overwork and the responsibility naturally connected with the exploitation of a great International exposition. My physician recommended an extended vacation. When life seemed almost a burden I began taking Peruna, and with the use of the fifth bottle I found myself in a normal condition. I have since enjoyed the best of health."

Almost everybody needs a tonic in the spring. Something to brace the nerves, invigorate the brain, and cleanse the blood. That Peruna will do this is beyond all question. Everyone who has tried it has had the same experience as Mrs. D. W. Timberlake, of Lynchburg, Va., who, in a recent letter, made use of the following words. "I always take a dose of Peruna after business hours, as it is a great thing for the nerves. There is no better spring tonic, and I have used about all of them."

Driving Home the Cows.

[Kate Putnam Osgoode, who is a native of Freyburg, Me., contributed this poem to Harper's Magazine for March, 1865.]

Out of the clover and blue-eyed grass
He turned them into the river lane;
One after another he let them pass,
And fastened the meadow bars again.

Under the willows and over the hill,
He patiently followed their sober pace;
The merry whistle for once was still,
And something shadowed his sunny face.

Only a boy! and his father had said
He never could let his youngster go,
Two already were lying dead,
Under the feet of the trampling foe.

But after the evening work was done,
And the frogs were loud in the meadow swamp,
Over his shoulder he slung his gun,
And stealthily followed the footpath damp.

Across the clover and through the wheat,
With resolute heart and purpose grim,
Though cold was the dew to the hurrying feet,
And the blind bat's flitting startled him.

Thrice since then had the lane been white
And the orchards sweet with apple bloom;
And now, when the cows came back at night,
The feeble father drove them home.

Styles in Stockings.

Seldom have fashionable feet been so ornately clad as this season. The new hosiery is marvelous in its glory, and a small fortune could readily be expended just in this one department of the shops. The most expensive stockings, of course, are those of silk of the cobwebbiest texture, fine enough almost to be passed through a ring. Some of these are exquisitely embroidered. There are black silk stockings daintily powdered with tiny flowers, like the forget-me-not, worked in delicate hues. Other black stockings have a diamond pattern, bright in color, woven up the front. Upon this lighter background of pale pink, blue, green, violet or purple is embroidered a delicate tracery of vines. A pair of bright, yellow silk stockings has a diamond pattern in black, producing an essentially stylish effect, in stockings of pale tint, the diamond design is always of the black, and vice versa. Some of the new black silk stockings are cut out in the front, to display long, narrow appliques of lace. Others have the holes worked around with buttonhole stitch, and underneath are set pieces of gayly colored taffeta. The old style stocking known as "opera" top, that is, tinted in some delicate color, the lower half dyed black, reappears in a modified form. Instead of an abrupt line between the say, lavender top and black lower portion, the colors are blended by a graceful line of black embroidery.

In openwork stockings the effects are indescribably delicate. In some the ornamental stripes extend the entire length of the stocking; in others the openwork is carried only part way. Some of these openwork stockings look like fairy lace work.

Up-to-date Parasols.

The parasol is an important adjunct to a summer gown. It must be becoming, for it is a movable background, and the clever woman realizes that it should be of a color and design that will harmonize with her complexion and her general style. The new parasol is a thing of beauty, showing almost endless variation in the coloring and kind of fabric, in design and in the shape and style of handles. The exhibits in the shops of these useful and at the same time highly decorative accessories of feminine dress run the entire gamut of parasol invention, from the frivolous and fluffy chiffon that looks as if fabricated from a floating summer cloud, to the serviceable but stylish sunshade of plain silk. A conspicuous novelty this spring is the square parasol, covered with one of the popular Persian pattern handkerchiefs. These have a bizarre effect, but they are extremely stylish, and may be carried with almost any costume. Silk parasols scalloped around the edge and trimmed with white silk braid are another novelty, and still others are made of bands of silk joined together with open hemstitching. Satin parasols, with velvet polka dots, are very stylish. These have quite short, thick natural wood handles. The spangled parasol is another novelty, but it is a little too pronounced and dazzling to be popular, except with the woman who has such a large assortment of sunshades that she can lay it aside as soon as she wearies of the glitter.

The parasols of transparent materials, like chiffon, and those of lace, appeal persuasively to the woman of essentially feminine taste. They are very dainty, elegant and extravagant, but are well fitted to give the crowning touch of distinction to an elaborate summer toilette. There is an endless number of variations carried out in the transparent materials. Chiffon is tucked, shirred and ruched into shape, and finished with ruffles, and there are frills and falls of lace, insertion and applications of passementerie. One of these airy, fairy novelties is of white satin, covered from the edge to the tip with knife-plaited chiffon, the plaitings growing narrower as they approach the ferrule, ruchings of the chiffon appearing here and there along the edge of them. A plain white satin parasol, decorated with designs of applique lace, is a desirable purchase, and another white parasol is of satin, covered with point d'esprit, over which chenille cords are sewed in a network design, and is finished with two frills of point d'esprit, edged with several rows of white chenille. Black Chantilly lace and white chiffon combined together, the chiffon being accordion-plaited between bands of insertion. The center of the parasol is sometimes of cream lace, and the band below of tucked chiffon, edged with plaited ruffles finished with a narrow cream lace edge. Black and white is a very fashionable combination in parasols. Sometimes flowers of black lace are applied upon the chiffon, and beneath the airy lace flowers a color—pink or green—is inserted, giving a very rich and airy effect. A full black lace over a ruffle of chiffon hangs from the edge of the frame to flutter gracefully about the dainty head that it will shadow. There are parasols for every occasion—the drive, the morning walk, the afternoon promenade and the links. The automobile parasols this season are of plain silk, in different shades, red or purple being the most fashionable. They are equipped with a wooden handle of medium length, not very thick, and are of medium size, finished with a ruching of white liberty silk. The coaching parasol is made of plain or shaded silk, and appears as heretofore, with a thick, short handle, which may be either in light or ebonized wood.

Very beautiful are the new parasol handles from Paris. The wood is in pastel tints and the handles are decorated in cut steel. Sometimes the handle is covered with black velvet, upon which the ornamentation in cut steel appears in effective contrast. Another fashionable parasol handle is a ball entirely studded with rhinestones.

A Smart American Girl.

An American girl, Miss Burdlett by name, hopes to make a good thing out of the coming Paris exposition. She has bought the Pompeiian house, built about forty years ago by Prince Jerome Napoleon. The house is on the Cours la Reine, and Miss Burdlett proposes to transform it into tea and refreshment rooms for weary sightseers. Meals will be served in the atrium, where musicians will play, just as when "Plon Plon" gave Italian fetes there. The waitresses will wear Pompeiian costumes, and, aside from the refreshment feature, the place will be well worth seeing simply as a curiosity. Miss Burdlett expects to make enough money during the exposition to pay for the house.

Cooking School.

A new method of preserving food has been devised by a German, Herr F. W. Graeff. It is effected by exhausting the air from the receptacle containing the food, then impregnating it with an inert gas—such as hydrogen, nitrogen or carbonic acid—at any desired pressure, and finally sealing up hermetically. Liquids may be treated as well as solids, but they need restoring to their original condition by heating or boiling before consumption.

Custard Eggs—Put six eggs in boiling water, remove from fire and let them stand, closely covered, for five minutes. Allow one cup of boiling water for each egg.

Cheese Fondu—Melt one-half cup rich cheese (crumbled) and one-half tablespoon butter in one cup hot milk. Add a well-beaten egg, one saltspoon salt, one-half saltspoon cayenne and one cup soft breadcrumbs. Bake in buttered scallop shells until brown.

Wheat Crisps—Mix one cup cream (sweet or sour), one-fourth cup sugar, one saltspoon salt and one cup whole-wheat flour. Knead in flour till stiff, roll out very thin and cut out. Bake on ungreased tins in hot oven.

Macaroon Souffle—Scald one dozen macaroons in a cup of milk. Pour gradually upon the beaten yolks of three eggs and cook over hot water, stirring constantly till slightly thickened. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs and bake in buttered mold set in hot water for twenty minutes. Turn from mold and serve with whipped cream.

Mock Oyster Bisque—One cup codfish soaked in cold water and picked into bits. Boil it twenty minutes, putting it to cook with one pint cold water and one pint strained tomato. Add one saltspoon soda, one pint of milk, one tablespoon of butter melted and mixed with one tablespoon of cornstarch, one saltspoon of white pepper. Boil up once and serve. (Mrs. Lincoln.)

Italian Chicken—Boil a chicken till tender in lightly salted water. While it is cooking dip out a pint of the broth and put with it one small onion sliced and a tablespoon of butter, half a teaspoon of salt and a quarter of a pound of macaroni broken into inch pieces. Cook till water has nearly boiled away, then add one cup of milk and cook slowly till the macaroni has absorbed the milk. Sprinkle grated cheese over it. Boil the chicken liquor till reduced to one pint, remove the fat and thicken slightly. Pour macaroni over the chicken and the sauce over the whole. (Mrs. Lincoln.)

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Before I commenced to take your medicine I was in a terrible state, wishing myself dead a good many times. Every part of my body seemed to pain in some way. At time of menstruation my suffering was something terrible. I thought there was no cure for me, but after taking several bottles of Lydia E. Female Troubles Overcome

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I had female trouble, painful menses, and kidney complaint, also stomach trouble. About a year ago I happened to pick up a paper that contained an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and when I read how it had helped others, I thought it might help me, and decided to give it a trial. I did so, and as a result am now feeling perfectly well. I wish to thank you for the benefit your medicine has been to me."—MRS. CLARA STIEDEN, Diller, Neb.

No More Pain

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Your Vegetable Compound has been of much benefit to me. When my menses first appeared they were very irregular. They occurred too often and did not leave for a week or more. I always suffered at these times with terrible pains in my back and abdomen. Would be in bed for several days and would not be exactly rational at times. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and menses became regular and pains left me entirely."—MRS. E. F. CUSTER, Brule, Wis.

Decoration Day Observance.

The G. A. R. and the W. R. C. held a joint meeting at their hall on Thursday evening last, and resolved to observe Memorial Day as it is expected to be observed by the veterans of the G. A. R. and their sister organization, the W. R. C. At this meeting they unanimously made choice of the Rev. S. J. S. Moore as the general superintendent and manager of the exercises of the day and put upon him the responsibility of arranging for the services and making the necessary preparations for remembering the last resting places of those who either lost their lives or risked their lives in the service of their country.

The Grand Army of the Republic appointed as a committee to assist in carrying on the work, Comrades D. W. Brown, Joseph L. Stewart and John C. Mathews. The Womens Relief Corps was represented by Mrs. D. W. Brown, Mrs. John Bourdon and Mrs. J. L. Stewart. These two committees met in joint session at the home of Rev. Moore on last Monday evening to devise ways and means to carry out the work before them.

The general outline of their plans is as follows, (the full program and line of march will be published next week.) viz:

The children of all the schools are to take part in the Decoration day work. They will meet at the schoolhouse in time to form and march, under the leadership of their teachers, and the supervision of Superintendent McNally, and to the music of the band, to what is known as the old pavillion grove, corner of Main st and Bottineau ave, and be in their places at the speakers' stand by one o'clock sharp. Here the audience will be addressed by the Mayor of the city, the Rev. Fr. Fayolle, the Rev. Fr. Ansgar and others. These exercises will be interspersed by some selections from the Grand Children of the Grand Army, music and flag salute by school children, and such other exercises as shall be published next week in the full programme.

At two o'clock the G. A. R., W. R. C., school children, and all the lodges of the city, who shall have sent representatives, shall be present in a body and march to the two city cemeteries, where the soldiers' graves will be decorated, Lincoln's Address and the G. A. R. Ritual read, and the Three Volleys fired over the graves of the departed comrads.

On leaving the cemetery they will break ranks, and a G. A. R. committee will be driven to St. Joseph's cemetery, where the same exercises will be conducted.

It is the earnest desire of the committees that everyone from the country and city shall witness as much of these exercises as possible. It is also to be hoped that this beautiful and solemn custom will lead the people who have friends laid in these different cemeteries to go either on that forenoon or the day before and clean up and decorate their graves.

Death led women in the Sunny South to forget the feuds of the past and decorate the graves of both the "Blue and the Gray;" so let us in this bright northwest remember those who sleep; but shall not waken till the Trump shall call them hence.

COM.

Contributions of flowers are requested, and these should be left at the High School before 10 a. m. May 30.

Looks Like Business.

For some time there have been persistent rumors of a Great Northern extension from this city to Dugdale and from Thief River Falls to the Lake of the Woods or Roseau country. What foundation there has been to these rumors we do not know, but they originated with men close to the authorities of the road whose influence has often been proven and whose predictions or assertions have heretofore proven very reliable. The latest in connection with this matter are the improvements contemplated for the road between this point and Thief River Falls. The work has already commenced and embodies the taking up of the light steel rails and the substitution therefor of heavy steel rails such as are used on the main lines, where traffic is frequent and heavy; orders have been given to the section foreman here to make various improvements in the yard and the depot is to be remodeled, enlarged and improved. All these facts help to confirm the belief that a move toward the extension, and the building of the connecting link between this point and Dugdale is about to begin. The belief is all the more positive on account of the feasibility of the move and the evident profit it would bring the Great Northern people. It means much for Red Lake Falls, and a confirmation is eagerly awaited. Agent Thomas refuses to say much on the subject, but says even if anything were to be done, it would be gone at very quietly, and with as little publicity as possible.

Big Bee Business.

Oliver Caron on Monday bought the apiary of J. T. Beaudry, of Crookston, which consists of sixty hives, 40 swarms and an extractor. Mr. Beaudry will go to Seattle to reside. This acquisition to his apiary will give Mr. Caron the biggest bee business in the state, north of St. Paul, which he has built up from a humble beginning but a few years ago. He will have one hundred working swarms this summer, and as each swarm makes annually one hundred pounds more than they consume, he will net about five tons of honey this season. Heretofore he has had no trouble in disposing of his honey to a Grand Forks wholesale house for 12½c per pound, and the same firm will buy practically his entire output this season. He expects to have 200 swarms by fall, and having facilities for wintering but half that number will have 100 swarms for sale. Mr. Caron's success has encouraged many others in this vicinity to launch into the business in a limited way, and many of our farmers are now using their own honey.

Last year the Caron apiary was moved from Louisville township to this city. A thriving business is done in selling hives and other bee supplies, a carload having been disposed of last season. A five-acre tract of land in Hodgson's addition was selected as the site, and this is to be made one of the beauty spots of the city. The place has been cleared of underbrush, and is now being broken, and shade trees set out. Mr. Caron has built up an industry that was considered impracticable here on account of the rigorous climate. He will soon be the largest shipper of honey in the state, and Red Lake Falls will add the bee industry to her list of cardinal advantages.

Annual Tournament.

Arrangements for the annual tournament of the Northern Minnesota Fire Association are now all under way, and at a meeting of representatives from the towns whose fire departments will be in attendance held at Crookston a few days ago, final plans for the event were made. Among the towns represented were: Red Lake Falls, Crookston, Bemidji, Fosston, Fertile. M. W. Jensen, of McIntosh, was also present, but objection was made to his sitting to represent the department in that village, upon the ground that it should stand suspended until money due the association should be paid by McIntosh.

The same rules, with one or two slight exceptions, that governed the tournament held at East Grand Forks will govern the Fosston meeting. The banner to be competed for will be presented by Fosston. It will be remembered that Fosston already has one victory to its credit out of the two in three necessary to give it perpetual possession of the banner.

C. A. Hitchcock, of Crookston, was delegated a committee of one to go to East Grand Forks and secure payment of a sum of money due the association from the treasurer. The program of events will be submitted by the Fosston department, as is the law governing the program, and it promises to be the equal of its predecessors.

Everything points to a successful gathering. The Red Lake Falls department will participate.

To Dam the River.

The Red Lake Falls Lumber Co. on Monday commenced the construction of a 7 foot brush dam over the Red Lake river at Cook's Rapids. This has been made necessary by the low stage of water and the difficulty of driving logs over the rapids. The dam will be built on section 32 in River Falls. It will be made of brush and stone and plank covered. With the aid of this dam the Red Lake Falls company will find itself independent and able to control the stage of water, and to drive logs over the rapids without difficulty.

THE POLITICAL OUTLOOK.

The indications are that the coming presidential campaign will be conducted on much different plans than that of four years ago. The fiery zeal of the 16-to-1 advocates will give place to less emotional, but more effective wire pulling, and the democrats will enter the field against the republicans, a united party. That the free silver issue will be relegated to a minor position is more and more apparent, and this is of course a wise move on the part of the leaders of democracy. Inasmuch as the money question is settled for a period of at least six years to come, even though the democrats elect a majority of the house and the executive, the folly of throwing this disturbing element into the campaign is at once made apparent. The Chicago platform, modified, will be reaffirmed, and the gold democrats will thereupon rejoin the party. The populists, of course are right in line. The democrats have adopted the populists' creed and the populists in turn will adopt the democratic name, and this party as a party is completely merged into the democratic fold. The Irish vote will be with the democrats this year as it never was before. On the other hand the republicans have the prosperity issue to fall back upon, and this alone is a formidable weapon in their hands, which will be used. This with the superb organization and the money power behind the republicans, will make them well nigh impregnable. The Social Democratic party will cast an immense vote this year, drawn largely from the republican labor vote.

That the campaign fight is to be a battle to the death goes without saying.

FREE HOMES.

The free homes bill was passed by the house Thursday afternoon, May 3, without division.

The free homestead bill which bears Congressman Eddy's name, was called up by him, and although there were some efforts made to postpone consideration, Mr. Eddy was successful in getting the bill up, and on his motion it was considered in committee of the whole, with Congressman Tawney presiding.

Eddy controlled one-half of the time, and Maddox, of Georgia, the time in opposition. Mr. Eddy made only a brief presentation of the provisions of the bill, and he offered at the outset an amendment which provides that under no circumstances shall the agricultural colleges receive any less support from the sale of public lands than they now do by virtue of the free homes bill. There was no such opposition as there was two years ago, when the bill was before the house.

During the debate Judge Morris and Congressmen Burke and Gamble, of South Dakota made brief speeches. The bill, which is well understood in Minnesota, provides that on all ceded Indian reservation lands settlers now located or those who hereafter make entry shall not be required to pay either the minimum price of $1.25 per acre or the maximum price of $4.

The bill was passed by the senate at the last session, but did not come up for consideration by the house in time for action, and this time, the house acting first, assures the enactment of the bill into law, as the senate will pass it with practically no opposition. It is good news to the reservation settlers.

Base all your actions on a principle of right: preserve your integrity of character, without stopping to count the cost.

The government seems to have abandoned experiments in wireless telegraphy. A few months ago, when the idea was new, several of the departments actively competed for the honor of developing a practical system of communicating without the use of connecting wires. The signal corps of the army, the weather bureau of the agricultural department, the navy and other bureaus in which scientists are employed launched experiments, but the enthusiasm has apparently died out. Representative Cannon, chairman of the appropriations committee, who is in closer touch with administration officials than any other member of the house, and to whom they all go with their recommendations for appropriations, said Monday that the lighthouse board of the treasury department was the only branch of the government to ask an allowance for wireless telegraphy experiments, and the amount was so trivial that it would not permit a searching inquiry. The allowance, if made at all, will be carried in the sundry civil bill, which has not been reported, but from the expression of the committee in framing the measure it is believed that the recommendation will not be accepted and that no appropriation will be made at this session, especially for the purpose of continuing the experiments.

Referring to the candidacy of H. W. Lee, of Thief River Falls, for county attorney, the Cass Lake Times gives that gentleman a great send off. The editor says he has his sympathy and contempt for entering the arena of politics. Mr. Lee is a political orphan, we should judge, and has expressed his willingness to accept a nomination from any party. There seems to be considerable demand in the populist ranks for Chas. E. Boughton, and in the event of Boughton's nomination by the populists Lee would probably either run on the Republican ticket, or independently.

Congressman Eddy has carried Otter Tail county and his nomination is practically assured. The passage by the house of the free homes bill has strengthened him.

We are getting some fine lists of farms both improved and unimproved and we are glad of it as it is necessary for us to get these lands listed and located, to be ready for our customers that will come in the spring.

If you want to be in the swim and on the ground floor, it would be well for you to list with us as soon as you can.

If you want to buy a farm, remember "We are the people."

The base ball game Saturday afternoon last between the Red Lake Falls Flip Wings and the Crookston Juvenile Team, resulted in a decided victory for our home team, the score standing 12 to 28 in favor of the Flip Wings, after nine innings. The local team is now aching for other victims.

We have to thank Mrs. Jerome Longtie for a bunch of radishes raised by her from 18-day radish seed. On April 6th she sowed the seed and on April 24th the radishes were large enough to use. We think, however, that Mrs. Longtin's skill as a gardener was the most important factor in the success of the experiment.

The electric lights were not turned on until late Tuesday, owing to a break in the machinery which had to be repaired at Crookston, as we do not have a proper machine shop here. Messrs. McDaniel and Steinert got up bright and early Tuesday and took the sick piece to Crookston, returning in time to have the lights turned on again in the evening, although a trifle late. They made good time.

J. P. Steele, the popular N. P. station agent, started yesterday on his trip to Ashebora, N. C., which he has had in contemplation for some time. He will be gone until about the first of June, during which time he expects to get acquainted with Joe Steele Jr., whom he has not yet had the pleasure of meeting. This will make the third creamery for Red Lake county.

A big gopher hunt was held on the farm of Thomas Edison, five miles west of Larimore Saturday. Forty hunters from that town and Grand Forks participated. The crowd was divided into parties and the contest was to see who could exterminate the largest number. It is said that gopher stealing by the opposing parties was indulged in making it hard to tell which side was victorious. A total of 1,500 gophers was killed by the hunters. Mr. Edison furnished refreshments and cigars and the place was rid of the pests.

Last Sunday a building and improvement committee was elected for St. Mary's church, the committeemen named being W. A. Schreiter, T. R. Dargen and P. A. Kanfar. There is some agitation for the removal of St. Mary's church to a more central location, and others of the congregation favor building a new brick edifice. It will be the duty of this committee to look into the matter in the interests of the congregation. It is likely that nothing further than the purchase of a site will be done at this time, and the committee is now getting options on desirable locations.

One of the heaviest payments has been made by Wylie Tindolf, of Chicago, who is paying up the taxes on property in Knox addition to Thief River Falls.

The Frank E. Long Theatre Company on Sunday evening finished a six-nights' engagement at the opera house. The company is a good one and rendered a fine program each night, but generally played to poor houses, because there were too many counter attractions last week. They were capable of good work and displayed considerable merit when good houses brought out their energies. As a good, clean troupe, they deserve commendation, and will receive a warm welcome back by the theatre-going people of the city.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition; My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and side, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters,' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they saved my life and robbed the grave of another victim." Only 50c., guaranteed at W. A. Schreiter's drug store.

BARKER AND DONNELLY.

Wharton Barker, who was nominated hy the Mid-Road Populists last Thursday for president, is a man of considerable wealth and was formerly a hanker. Mr. Barker was horn at Philadelphia on May 1, 1846. He is the grandson of Jacob Barker, who was a relative of Benjamin Franklin. Mr. Barker was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1866. Since 1880 he has been a trustee of that institution. In 1869 he entered the hanking firm of Barker Bros. & Co., of Philadelphia, and gained a wide reputation. In 1878 he was decorated by Alexander II of Russia with the Order of St. Stanislaus. The banking firm was carried down by the Baring Bros., of London, failure. Since 1890 Mr. Barker hes devoted most of his energies to building up his People's party weekly paper, the American. Mr. Barker's residence is at Wyncote, twelve miles from Phiiadelphia.

Ignatius Donnelly, "the Sage of Nininger," who was nominated for vice president on the ticket withMr. Barker, is so well known in Minnesota, as well as throughout the whole country, that any sketch of his life would he superfluous. As a politician his reputation throughout the United States is extended; as a scholar and writer his fame extends throughout the civilized world. He has heen most erratic politically, and the prohibition party is ahout the only one of which he has not at some time heen a memher.

Although both candidates are men of much ahility, the Barker-Donnelly ticket will poll comparatively few votes in November—certainly not enough to affect the result, as between the Republican and Democratic candidates.

THE POPULIST NOMINATIONS.

The national Populist convention adjourned sine die at 1 o'clock last Thursday morning after nominating W. J. Bryan for president and C. A. Towne for vice president.

The nomination of Mr. Bryan was a foregone conclusion, hut that of Mr. Towne had not been expected up the day before its occurrence. According to the judgment of democrats generally, and to that of Mr. Towne himself, it would have been wiser to leave the nomination of a vice president in the hands of a conference committee to meet with similar committees from the Democrats and Silver Repuhlicans at Kansas City, for the purpose of jointly considering this nomination.

As it is, there may be two vice presidential candidates, as there were in 1896, when Watson represented the Populists and Sewell the Democrats. This of course has a weakening tendency, and is a condition not to he desired hy the fusion forces. Mr. Towne has generously offered to withdraw, if such a move will he deemed necessary for harmony.

The presence of Towne's name on the Democratic ticket would signify that party's recommitment to the Free Silver idea, even if not a word was said about it in the platform. But for the Free Silver issue, Towne would still be a Republican, and Grover Cleveland one of the recognized leaders of the Democracy.

AAKER'S CANDIDACY.

The Gazette is in receipt of a circular letter from the Clay County People's Party Committee, in the interests of Prof H. H. Aaker, who is aspiring to the Populist congressional nomination in this district. It is a very interesting epistle, and tells how easy it will he for the Populists to win, with Aaker as the candidate. The reasons as formulated may he hriefly stated:

He was elected mayor of Moorhead.

He is a teacher at Concordia College, Moorhead, and nearly 1500 persons have been students there during the past nine years.

He is a prominent memher of the Lutheran church.

He is a Norwegian.

The foreign (!) population in the 7th congressional district is, English, 1,103; Swedes, 23,631; Norwegians, 37,869; Irish, 3,043; Scots, 693; Germans, 10,093; Canadians, 8,359; Danes, 1,818.

He is the nominee of the Prohibition party.

Eddy received 20,400 votes. Ringdal lost by 3,685 votes. The Prohibition party has 2,000 votes.

This Clay county committee ought to open a Sundayschool class and keep out of politics.

An exchange gives the following good advice to girls: Don't hang around the depot unless you are going away or meeting friends; don't go to church and take a hack seat with your escort, and whisper and giggle during the service. Don't he loud, boisterous or slangy. Stand on your dignity; don't form acquaintances quickly. Don't carry your heart on your sleeve; and don't throw yourself into the arms of every good looking drummer or well dressed stranger who comes to town. Be womanly, be modest, be thoughtful and serious at times; don't unsex yourself and thus lose woman's sweet charm. Don't regard your long legged hrother as a nuisance; don't turn up your nose at your old father and use poor grammar, and ahove all, don't play "A Hot Time" on the piano when your good old mother is having a hot time on the wash tub. It is too suggestive.

Hon. P. M. Ringdal was tendered the distinction of the temporary chairmanship of the Populist national convention. It is needless to say he filled the position creditahly.

We understand the Repuhlican county convention will be held some time in June. The date of the Populist convention has not heen fixed. It may not he held until August.

Among the candidates for register of deeds on the Populist ticket are Samuel Giheau, the present incumbent, and Edonor Perusse. W. A. Case and Nels Holherg, on the Repuclican ticket.

Congressman Eddy was nominated to succeed himself, at the Republican congressional convention at Moorhead Tuesday. Whether or not he succees in succeeding himself remains to he seen.

The hoard of commissioners of Polk county last Thursday let the contract for the construction of a court house, for $47,700. Besides this the plumhing will cost $975 and the heating plant $2,611.

The drainage convention held at Grand Forks Thursday was attended hy 1,500 delegates from all parts of the valley from White Rock, South Dakota on the south to Winnipeg on north and for 20 miles on each side of the Red River. It was decided to hold the next meeting in Crookston some time in December.

DECORATION DAY EXERCISES.

After more careful consideration, and at the request of many of the citizens, the committee of arrangements have thought it best to have the exercises at 10 a. m., instead of in the afternoon as mentioned in our last week's issue. This will make it easier for all concerned, and if we should have a hot day it will be better for the people. The program as far as arranged will not differ materially from that which has been published except in the time of meeting.

The school children will leave the High School building in time to meet the G. A. R. and W. R. C. at the court house at 9:30 and march to the Pavilion grove in time for the exercises to commence at 10 o'clock. Everything will move with military exactness. There will be no long winded speeches. The singing and flag salute will all add to the enjoyableness of the occasion. We know the mayor's welcome will be good, and the G. A. R. reply will be the same. Then the good Fathers will be expected to enthuse us with true patriotism. After this the old soldiers will take the flowers which have been brought by the children and friends and lay them on the graves of those who fell under the same flag which the children are being taught to salute.

The full program and line of march will be published in next week's GAZETTE.

COM.

A COMMUNICATION.

RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA.
May 15, 1900.

Mr. H. M. Kaus,
Red Lake Falls,

Dear Sir:—

After having made a careful inspection of your brick building on your request respecting its safety, or rather durability, I take the pleasure to report the building being perfectly safe in every respect, not only for the purpose of holding its own in place for times to come, but also for using the north wall as a party wall; that means that joists for an adjoining building could be laid in it, and the same being sufficiently strong to carry the weight of another two story building as well as the additional weight, if even the adjoining building should be used for public purposes.

Of course I find by inspecting that the building originally has settled, but the cause of this is that at the time when the ground was soaking full of water the stone foundation walls had not been fully dried out yet, to which conclusion I came by boring holes into the joints of the wall and testing or rather examining the mortar. That the smoke stack on its lower part broke away can be explained at the additional weight of the same resting on the same ground without having an extra widening of its foundation.

As I find also and further, the foundation walls are built out of stones with well dressed beds and well bound together.

Any further settling of either of the walls will be impossible as you have drained the whole ground sufficiently so that water cannot effect any part any more, as I also found by digging down and examining.

As a conclusion I shall say, that after plumbing down on several places from the top of the roof I find that the building in its total height of about 30 feet leans north from 1½ inches on the one end to about 3½ inches on the Northwest corner; but also I must admit that after inspection I came to the conclusion that on that place where the building leans most the mechanics must have been out of the plumb line when building the same, as there is no sign of any more settling on that point than any other.

To fully satisfy you that the building has not settled enough to do any harm I shall illustrate that to explain the real leaning over of about 2 inches in the total height including the basement of about 40 feet means the building on its worst place has settled only about one inch.

Very Respectfully Yours,
E. STRASSBURGER,
Architect.

Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters,' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. VIC'S LETTER.

To The Gazette:

It is with pleasure that I drop you a few lines to let you know where we are on this Easter Sunday—at Bayambang, a little flag station along the Monta & Dangpon Railroad. This little berg, although small, has been the scene of much trouble. It is now the headquarters of Gen. Bell and the garrison consists of the 17th Infantry and two troops of the 4th Cavalry, L and K troops. E troop of the 4th was here until a few days ago when we relieved them, and it is expected that they will shortly go home, to be in the home squadron of the 4th Cav. They have seen a good deal of fighting in this vicinity. We just returned from a "hike" or trip in search of Gen. Incapolo. We left here on the 5th day of April, marched all day to Camiline and all night to Polas, and the next morning to finish the march we sneaked through the brush along the river to come in close to the mountain upon which Incopolo was supposed to be strongly entrenched with 800 insurgents. We then laid down to rest while the officers planned the attack. The enemy was on a hill well connected with the mountains, at an elevation of some 1500 ft. The hill being precipitous, we could not charge, but had to fight it out. Col. Smith, of the 17th U. S. Infantry, was in command, Lieut. Col. Horr, second in command of five companies of the 17th Infantry and L troop of the 4th Cav. After one hour's fighting I was sent after the pack train for ammunition, later being detailed to assist the packers which was not the lightest work I have met. The troops reached the top of the hill with one American officer, Lieut. Morrow, of the 17th wounded. He expired shortly after. In the trenches were found five dead insurgents, who had paid dearly for sticking their heads above the parapets. Their guns had been carried away by their side file, who had fled. Our troops continued in the pursuit of the escaping enemy, until a river cut us off the main mountain and we had some hard climbing down and up hill. The troops went on but the pack train could not, so we had to stop at a point where we could get water for the stock. During our stop there I asked permission for a friend and myself to cross the canon. There we found a small bamboo hut, with blood all around, as if some of the wounded had laid there. My orders were to burn the shack or any other thing found that I could not bring in. On my way back I came on to a hospital, man of the insurgents with eight women and one child. I let my partner bring them in, although we both wanted to have the honor. I started on, when I sighted another insurgent with a gun on his shoulder. Drawing my pistol and levelling it at him, I ordered him (in broken Spanish) to lay down his gun on pain of death. Just then came another one with a gun, and another carrying a white flag. As I halted them, the man bearing the white flag said in fair English: "I am Col. Monte Negro. I put myself into your hands. All I ask is that you do not take my life." I was then within 500 yards of the outpost and there were but two of us Americans while there were four insurgents and eight women. I took the Remington rifles which the Col. told me the natives were carrying for protection against the other insurgents, who might not be willing to let them surrender, taking the breech blocks out. I then gave the guns back and ordered the natives forward to the American camp, one of us leading, the other in the rear. Before reaching camp I found two more rifles and piles of ammunition stored in underbrush; also a lot of insurgent soldier clothing, a suit of which I saved to bring home with me. I carried the two last Remington rifles with me but upon my arrival in this town had to turn them in as captured stuff undoubtedly getting no more credit for the whole thing than the finding of the guns, as the Col. surrendered to Lieut. Bradford, of the 17th, when we came into camp. This morning Col Monte Negro was armed with a pistol and dressed in an American soldier's uniform and sent back to try to induce the remainder of his band to surrender. In my judgment he will soon be in arms against the U. S.

The Island of Luzon is now divided into two military departments and these again are subdivided into four divisions. We belong to the Second division, First department, Eighth army corps, or the Corps of the Philippines.

Well readers, I think this is all for this time. Hoping to hear from you soon, I remain as ever,

Selects vs. Indians.

One of the best games of ball ever played in this county was that at Thief River Falls Sunday afternoon between the Thief River Falls Indians and the Red Lake Falls Selects. A large crowd drove up from this city to witness the game and to do a little rooting, some fifty rigs going up. The game was called at 2:45 and the Indians went to field. The first inning showed that it was to be a good game, the Selects not succeeding in getting in a score although Murphy did reach third base after sliding about 20 feet. But the Indians got in one score by Dave Benzie through a nice hit by Crow. In the second inning the Selects made one score by Smith the Indians getting a goose egg. It was in this inning the Wolff showed his fine ability as a pitcher, fanning out three men in succession when there was a man on third who could get no further. The third inning was a shut out for both sides. Lambert succeeded in getting his second base while none of the Indians saw first base safely. The fourth inning was another goose egg for the Indians, the Selects getting in one score by the good base running of Smith. The fifth inning was a little more one sided owing to the fact that it was during this inning Murphy got two of his fingers split, but seeing how badly he was needed and knowing they would surely lose the game without him the brave fellow stuck to his position behind the bat with true Irish grit until the game was over although he suffered great pain. [illegible] The Selects during this inning did not see first base safely. The sixth inning began to arouse the spectators and a lot of rooting was done. Both sides not receiving a score. The seventh inning was more one sided owing considerably to the continuous rooting of the Red Lake Falls spectators. The Selects secured runs by Miller, Murphy and Pouliot, and the Indians were whitewashed. In the eighth inning the Selects were shut out and the Indians received one score by A. Benzie. This made the score four to five in favor of the Selects. The ninth inning was the most exciting. The Selects got in one run by Miller and the Indians got in two by Benzie and Fuller, making the score 6 to 6 and the game was called off on a draw.

This was the first game of the season and is counted a very good one considering the lack of practice of the two teams.

Red Lake Falls is fortunate in its pitcher, Wolff, and our people may feel their bets safe while he stays with the team.

The Selects' battery is the best that ever played in this county, as they showed themselves Sunday, fanning out 18 men. The game was very fairly umpired by Wm. Warner who showed himself quite competent. The boys all say they had very fine treatment at the hands of the Thief River Falls team with the exception of one member.

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Indians	1	0	0	0	2	0	0	1	2	—6

Selects: Earned runs 3; 2 base hits, 1; bases on hit by pitched balls, 1; struck out, 12.

Indians: Passed balls, 1; bases on balls, 1; bases on hit by pitched balls, 1; struck out, 18; double plays, 1.

We then laid down to rest while the officers planned the attack. The enemy was on a hill well connected with the mountains, at an elevation of some 1500 ft. The hill being precipitous, we could not charge, but had to fight it out. Col. Smith, of the 17th U. S. Infantry, was in command; Lieut. Col. Horr, second in command of five companies of the 17th Infantry and L troop of the 4th Cav. After one hour's fighting I was sent after the pack train for ammunition, later being detailed to assist the packers, which was not the lightest work I have met. The troops reached the top of the hill with one American officer, Lieut. Morrow, of tha 17th, wounded. He expired shortly after. In the trenches were found five dead insurgents, who had paid dearly for sticking their heads above the rock parapets. Their guns had been carried away by their side file, who had fled. Our troops continued in hot pursuit of the escaping enemy, until a river cut us off the main mountain and we had some hard climbing down and up hill. The troops went on but the pack train could not, so we had to stop at a point where we could get water for the stock. During our stop there I asked permission for a friend and myself to cross the canon. There we found a small bamboo hut, with blood all around, as if some of the wounded had lain there. My orders were to burn this shack or any other thing found that I could not bring in. On my way back I came on to a hospital man of the insurgents with eight women and one child. I let my partner bring them in, although we both wanted to have the honor. I started on, when I sighted another insurgent with a gun on his shoulder. Drawing my pistol and levelling it at him, I ordered him (in broken Spanish) to lay down his gun on pain of death. Just then came another one with a gun, and another carrying a white flag. As I halted them, the man bearing the white flag said in fair English: "I am Col. Monte Negro. I put myself into your hands. All I ask is that you do not take my life." I was then within 500 yards of the outpost and there were but two of us Americans while there were four insurgents and eight women. I took the Remington rifles which the Col. told me tha natives were carrying for protection against the other insurgents, who might not be willing to let them surrender, taking the breech blocks out. I then gave the guns back, and ordered the natives forward to the American camp, one of us leading, the other in the rear. Before reaching camp I found two more rifles and piles of ammunition stored in underbrush; also a lot of insurgent soldier clothing, a suit of which I saved to bring home with me. I carried the two last Remington rifles with me but upon my arrival in this town had to turn them in as captured stuff undoubtedly getting no more credit for the whole thing than the finding of the guns, as the Col. surrendered to Lieut. Bradford, of the 17th, when we came into camp. This morning Col Monte Negro was armed with a pistol and dressed in an American soldier's uniform and sent back to try to induce the remainder of his band to surrender. In my judgment he will soon be in arms against the U. S.

Selects vs. Indians.

One of the best games of ball ever played in this county was that at Thief River Falls Sunday afternoon between the Thief River Falls Indians and the Red Lake Falls Selects. A large crowd drove up from this city to witness the game and to do a little rooting, some fifty rigs going up. The game was called at 2:45 and the Indians went to field. The first inning showed that it was to be a good game, the Selects not succeeding in getting in a score although Murphy did reach third base after sliding about 20 feet. But the Indians got in one score by Dave Benzie through a nice hit by Crow. In the second inning the Selects made one score by Smith the Indians getting a goose egg. It was in this inning the Wolff showed his fine ability as a pitcher, fanning out three men in succession when there was a man on third who could get no further. The third inning was a shut out for both sides. Lambert succeeded in getting his second base while none of the Indians saw first base safely. The fourth inning was another goose egg for the Indians, tha Selects getting in one score by the good base running of Smith. The fifth inning was a little mora one sided owing to the fact that it was during this inning Murphy got two of his fingers split, but seeing how badly he was needed and knowing they would surely lose the game without him the brave fellow stuck to his position behind the bat with true Irish grit until the game was over although he suffered great pain. The Indians run in two scores by Browning and Jack Paranteau. The Selects during this inning did not see first base safely. The sixth inning began to arouse the spectators and a lot of rooting was done. Both sides not receiving a score. The seventh inning was more one sided owing considerably to the continuous rooting of the Red Lake Falls spectators. The Selects secured runs by Miller, Murphy and Poullot, and the Indians were whitewashed. In the eighth inning the Selects were shut out and the Indians received one score by A. Benzie. This made the score four to five in favor of the Selects. The ninth inning was the most exciting. The Selects got in one run by Miller and the Indians got in two by Benzie and Fuller, making the score 6 to 6 and the game was called off on a draw.

This was the first game of the season and is counted a very good one considering the lack of practice of the two teams.

Red Lake Falls is fortunate in its pitcher, Wolff, and our people may feel their bets safe while he stays with the team.

The Selects' battery is the best that ever played in this county, as they showed themselves Sunday, fanning out 18 men. The game was very fairly umpired by Wm. Warner who showed himself quite competent. The boys all say they had very fine treatment at the hands of the Thief River Falls team with the exception of one member.

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Indians	1	0	0	0	2	0	0	1	2	—6

Selects: Earned runs 3; 2 base hits, 1; bases on hit by pitched balls, 1; struck out, 12.

Indians: Passed balls, 1; bases on balls, 1; bases on hit by pitched balls, 1; struck out, 18; double plays, 1.

Fortunately the California man who has asked the Chicago police to find Attorney Will U. Bight did not do so.

You can always tell the floorwalker in a dry goods store from the proprietor by the good clothes the floorwalker wears.

The chamber of commerce of Pittsburg, Pa., has passed a resolution petitioning the secretary of the navy to give the name "Pittsburg" to one of the new armored cruisers to be constructed for the United States navy. The reasons given for granting the honor are that Pittsburg is the heart of the greatest iron and steel producing interests in the world; has a population of 1,608,964 within a radius of sixty miles, according to the census of 1890, and has a total ascertained tonnage by water and rail of nearly 59,000,000 tons—larger than any other city in the world.

Inventors in German factories have a hard time to profit by their brain work, according to a report to the state department by Consul General Guenther at Frankfort. He cites the case of a foreman who invented a substance used in finishing velvet. Because he imparted his invention to persons outside of the firm for which he worked the foreman was tried and convicted of revealing a trade secret, although this secret was his own. The German court took the ground that it was a duty of the foreman to make experiments; that his inventions belonged to his employers and that he had no right to expose them.

Most common is the remark: "What interesting people one meets in traveling!" One may perhaps be pardoned for differing from this belief. The interesting people one meets in traveling are extremely likely to keep to themselves. They do not wear their hearts upon their sleeves. Therefore, if they are interesting, that trait is kept for their friends. On the other hand, the fools, bores and boors obtrude themselves upon you. The only way to escape being bored to death is to avoid their acquaintance. Then if you yourself are interesting—and of course you are—the fact remains concealed, says a writer in the Argonaut.

Some troublesome questions are doubtless destined to find a solution through the courts. In a case which has just been brought to trial in Indiana, an association of master plumbers in Indianapolis, in order to secure a monopoly of business, drew the leading dealers into an agreement not to sell plumbers' supplies to any except the members of their own "combine." An outside plumber brought suit against a dealer who had refused to sell him goods needed in his business. The judge decided that such discrimination in trade is against public policy, and that the complainant was entitled to damages for the inconvenience and loss he had suffered.

The Deering Harvester Company of Chicago has applied to the division of forestry for a working plan for its 54,000 acre-tract of hardwood timber in southeastern Missouri. This marks what is probably the first attempt of an American manufacturing establishment to employ modern forest methods in raising hardwood timber for its own use. The timber owned by the company consists chiefly of oak, ash and hickory, woods especially adapted to the manufacture of agricultural implements. The owners intend to remove all the less valuable species, such as cottonwood, gum, honey locust and cypress, so as to give the others all possible advantage for growth. A plan will be made by which the merchantable timber may be removed without injury to the producing power of the forest. The division will send experts to the tract to make the observations necessary for such a plan.

There was no political purpose or importance in the visit of Queen Victoria to Ireland. It was undertaken by the aged sovereign simply to show the Irish people how fully she appreciates the loyalty and gallantry of her Irish soldiers; but like many another kindly deed, it may have more extended results. Mr. Gladstone enacted a series of reform measures based upon justice, but England and Ireland remained estranged. The Unionist government armed the Irish people with complete control over local administrations, yet the breach between the two peoples was not healed. The queen's gentle policy of gratitude and womanly sympathy may fail, as Mr. Gladstone's measures and Lord Salisbury's concessions failed; but her method appealed to the head, and her motive is so sincere that it can hardly be misunderstood. She may succeed where statesmen were defeated.

The Chinese consul-general in New York is helping our government in its efforts to take the census by issuing a long proclamation in Chinese, officially signed and sealed, calling upon his fellow-countrymen to give all possible aid to the census-takers who go among them. Lithographic copies of the proclamation have been made and will be distributed through the Chinese quarters of American cities at the proper time. An accurate census of the Chinese is particularly desirable just now to show how completely our exclusion laws exclude.

WILD WITH DELIGHT

ENGLAND'S JOY OVER THE RELIEF OF MAFEKING.

Singing, Cheering Crowds Parade the Streets All Night—Nothing That Has Gone Before Has Quite Equaled the Almost Furious Demonstrations of Last Night—Government Has No Confirmation of the Report From Pretoria, but No One Questions the News—Successes Elsewhere.

London, May 20.—London's millions spent half the night in the street, and even at 4 o'clock this morning there were numbers of men parading, singing and cheering and crowds in front of the Mansion house, Marlborough house, the clubs on Pall Mall and the war office and in Parliament square were waving flags and joining in the national anthem.

This sustained bellowing and whooping of thousands amazes the Englishman who ceases to be an actor and becomes merely an observer. Sober, phlegmatic London is beside itself with emotion. Gusts of patriotism have set the town quivering twice or thrice before during the war, but nothing has quite equalled last night's hundred square miles of almost furious demonstrations. It was a curious thing for the onlooker to see solemn, gray haired men throwing hats into the air and cheering when a wreath crowned banner with a portrait of Col. Baden-Powell on it was borne along Picadilly. Smart women in broughams waved union jacks out of the windows. Conventional house parties stopped everything else to Join in Singing

"God Save the Queen" and "Soldiers of the Queen." Everything was abandoned except the astonishing chorus of human voices. It was all brought about by a twenty-word telegram from Pretoria that Mafeking had been relieved. Although the government has not a word, and although nothing confirmatory has been received from any African source except Pretoria, nobody apparently questions the news received. Mr. Arthur J. Balfour, government leader in the house of commons, speaking in the government bench late last evening said:

"The only news I have is through the courtesy of the press. We have no information at the war office. Nor would we have as soon as it would arrive through other channels. Therefore, the fact that we have not received it neither confirms nor disproves the accuracy of the telegram. I will say, however, that we have good reason to believe it is probably true."

Col. Baden-Powell's brother in London has received a telegram from a Dutch friend in Pretoria saying that Mafeking Has Been Relieved.

The performers in the London music halls and theaters had little opportunity for stage business or for the lines of their pieces. The audience which crowded the Alhambra, the Opera, Covent Garden or the theaters had no desire to attend to stage performances. The first sight of a biograph scene in the Transvaal or the first glance of a military or naval uniform on the stage was sufficient to create an uproar. A leading actor in one of the Strand theaters said: "I did not attempt to read my lines last night. It was of no use. The public had no interest in me beyond the fact that I wore a military uniform.

The prince of Wales, the duke and duchess of York and the Portuguese minister, Senor Pinto do Soveral, occupied a box at Covent Garden, where "Lohengrin" was being presented, and when the relief of Mafeking was announced they joined heartily in the applause. There was a lack of pyrotechnic glare, but every cabby and every bus man in London

Had a Union Jack

fluttering from his whip and the Stars and Stripes were by no means lacking. Patrons of four-wheelers were not content to ride inside the vehicles, and tops were covered with flag-waving, cheering, sprawling enthusiasts. Ten thousand people stood in front of Mrs. Baden-Powell's house in St. George's Place, cheering and singing, and a score of cabs brought congratulations. In unrestrained jubilations the provinces were not behind the metropolis. Although London had the start by a few minutes, the great industrial and surrounding towns burst into patriotic demonstrations. Bells clanged in their steeples, village bands turned out and people gathered in the streets to sing fervidly "God Save the Queen." From all parts of the empire come the same news. Bombay, Hongkong and the Australian cities are rejoicing. Continental cities, as the press abundantly testifies, received the news sadly. Mr. Joseph Chamberlain called at the war office after midnight and received

A Tremendous Ovation.

The relief of Mafeking has had the effect of suspending interest in the operations elsewhere in the seat of war. Nevertheless it is favorable. Lord Methuen entered Hopstad Thursday. He was then seventy miles from Kroonstad and fifty from Bothaville. Gen. Buller entered Newcastle Thursday evening. Lord Roberts is not idle. While waiting for stores at Kroonstad he is using his mounted men to search a wide tract of country. Col. Broadwood occupied Lindley on Thursday, and the same day Gen. Hutton captured one of the Bothas thirty miles from Kroonstad. Gen. Rundle on Thursday encamped at Clocolan. British successes are thus reported from every point where news came yesterday. A Lourenzo Marques dispatch yesterday says:

"New peace proposals will probably be put forward by the Boer government. The recent reverses are causing despondency. There was a prolonged meeting of the Transvaal executive council at Pretoria Thursday and the

was again considered. It is added that the government does not intend to destroy the mines."

According to other advices from the same point President Kruger and other high officials intend leaving almost immediately for Lydenburg. The British prisoners will be conveyed there and the foreign consuls are leaving for Lydenburg. At Kroonstad it is said President Kruger will surrender when Lord Roberts crosses the Transvaal border. Lord Roberts is accumulating immense quantities of supplies and the preparations for another march are well forward. The next stop will be Johannesburg. The next fight is expected at the Valsch river. There are 12,000 Boers at Roal Sprult. Reconnoitering parties are encountered every day by the British scouts. The Boers have dynamited Laing's Nek tunnel and the railway is completely wrecked. The work of repairs will occupy many weeks. The Boers now hold the best positions for defending the pass.

M'COY WINS EASILY.

Disposes of Dan Creedon in Six Rounds.

New York, May 20.—Charles "Kid" McCoy easily defeated Australian Dan Creedon at the Broadway Athletic club last night before one of the largest crowds that has ever assembled in the club. Thirty-four seconds of the sixth round was all the time needed to turn the trick, and McCoy could have brought the fight to a speedier conclusion had he been so disposed. Creedon made a very poor showing. At no time did he land a blow that hurt McCoy. The opening bout between Tommy Feltz of Brooklyn and Harry Bresnick of New York, scheduled as a twelve-round fight at 105 pounds, was a short affair, ending in the second round in favor of Feltz. The referee declared Bresnick outclassed.

CHOLERA SPREADING.

Thousands Are Dying of This Disease in India.

London, May 20.—A special dispatch from Hyderabad, noting the rapid spread of cholera, says: "In one division no fewer than forty-five famine camps have been attacked by the pestilence. The most virulent type is at Guierat, where many thousands have perished. In the Godhra camp alone there have been thousands of victims. An appalling loss of life seems inevitable."

FLAMES FED ON LIQUOR.

Vogel's Brewery and Auxiliary Plants at Iowa City Burned.

Iowa City, Iowa, May 20.—Fire destroyed R. Vogel's brewery, wholesale and retail liquor house and cigar factory. The cause of the fire is unknown and very mysterious. A large stock of liquors on hand, the complete brewing plant and a large two-story brick building were entirely destroyed. The loss is $20,000, fully covered by insurance.

RAILROAD IN FROZEN NORTH.

Eleven Hundred Men Are Working on the White Pass Road.

Seattle, Wash., May 20. — Klondike advices are that the ice is broken in the Yukon, and May 8 navigation was clear. Eleven hundred men are working on the extension of the White Pass railway, which will be completed from Skagway to White Horse, 111 miles, by June 5. The monthly pay roll is $100,000.

Mysterious Tragedy.

Memphis, Tenn., May 20. — At an early hour this morning the dead bodies of Henry Reichman of Memphis, and Mrs. Lily Badakin, wife of a newspaper man of Forest City, Ark., were found in the woman's apartments on Jefferson avenue. Reichman had been shot three times, while the woman's body received one bullet. The affair is shrouded in mystery. No weapon was found about the premises and it is believed to be a case of murder.

Terrific Storm in Texas.

Austin, Tex., May 20. — Last night for three hours this section of the state was visited by a terrific electric storm, doing great damage to the railway and other property. All trains entering the city had to tie up here owing to the fact that tracks to the north were either under water or in bad shape, with several washouts between here and Taylor. Trackmen have gone to investigate the extent of the damage, which is reported to be heavy.

Killed Her Husband.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 20.—A dispatch from Clinton announces that Mrs. John Fenton yesterday stabbed her husband to death. The couple had been quarreling and the woman put an end to the argument by drawing a knife and plunging it into her husband's body. The woman had just been released from jail in Rockville for threatening to kill a preacher. All the parties are colored.

Charged with Perjury.

San Francisco, May 20. — Warrants were issued last night for the arrest of Mrs. Craven, Justice of the Peace Simpkin and Adolph Sylva. The first two were indicted by the grand jury for perjury and the latter with subornation of perjury in connection with the Fair-Craven case. Their bail has been fixed at $10,000 each. Argument in the case was concluded yesterday.

Runaway Boy.

Storm Lake, Iowa, May 20. — Roy Metcalf, aged fifteen, started out to see the world after expressing two suits of clothes and two pair of shoes to Freeport, Ill. He was intercepted by telegram at Fort Dodge, and stayed with the conductor of the train all night, escaping from his care while waiting for the west-bound train the next morning, and is still at large.

For Contempt of Court.

Little Rock, Ark., May 20.—In the United States district court here yesterday Judge A. Williams imposed a jail sentence of six months upon Guy Miller and Alden Hayes for contempt of court in boarding a street car and interfering with the non-union motormen who are employed by the court's receiver, now operating the street car system.

Grand Vizier Dead.

Tangier, Morocco, May 20. — The grand vizier, Ahmed Ben Mussa, died Sunday, May 13. A convulsion in internal affairs is threatened, but it is believed that Germany, Italy and Great Britain have agreed to maintain the status quo, so it is hoped the threatened anarchy will be averted.

DELEGATES NAMED

REPUBLICANS MEET IN STATE CONVENTION.

Senators Davis and Nelson and Thomas Lowry and Samuel Lord Are Named as Delegates to the Philadelphia Convention—Electors Are Also Selected—The Platform Indorses the National Administration and Touches on Trusts, Finances and Expansion—Washburn for Vice President.

Minneapolis, May 18. — The Republican state convention to name four delegates at large to the national convention at Philadelphia and to nominate electors was called to order at noon yesterday in the Exposition building by Chairman J. H. Steele, of the state committee.

Gideon S. Ives of St. Peter was made chairman, and secretaries selected as follows: John F. Selb, St. Paul; Simon Michelet, Minneapolis, and D. W. Meeker, Moorhead. The usual committees were named and the report of the credentials committee accepted without opposition. There were no contests.

Delegates at Large—C. K. Davis, Ramsey; Knute Nelson, Douglas; Thomas Lowry, Hennepin; Samuel Lord, Dodge. Alternates, Kenneth Clark, J. Frank Wheaton, B. L. Tallman, W. W. Fivright.

Electors at Large—W. E. Lee, C. J. Gavelle. District Electors — First, Edwin Dunn; Second, J. C. Donnavan; Third, O. K. Nasses; Fourth, Carl Wirth; Fifth, John F. Dodge; Sixth, G. A. Whitney; Seventh, W. H. Stone.

The feature of the convention was a resolution offered by R. C. Dunn, state auditor, urging upon the delegates, though not in the form of instructions, the claims of W. D. Washburn as a vice presidential candidate. To this there was no opposition, but it was adopted by a vote of two to one.

The committee on resolutions was made up as follows: W. H. Grimshaw, A. R. McGill, W. B. Douglas, H. J. Henneman, Alex Fiddes, J. L. Gibbs, J. J. Davis.

The Platform.

We, the Republicans of the State of Minnesota in convention assembled, affirm and renew our allegiance in the Republican party and its principles.

We indorse the administration of President William McKinley and the Republican party, and congratulate the country on the revival of industrial and commercial prosperity brought about as a direct result of the application of Republican principles and policies of government during the present administration.

We declare that all classes of our people have enjoyed under the present administration a higher state of prosperity and happiness than ever before in our national history, and we congratulate the Republican party on the prompt and complete fulfillment of its pledges made to the people in 1896.

The Republican party is proud of the fact that it has written the gold standard into the law of the land and that its sound financial policy has contributed largely to the greatest prosperity the American people have ever known, and has raised the credit of the American government to the highest point ever attained by any nation. The Republican party stands for money laws that benefit all the people alike, the borrower as well as the lender, laws that tend to reduce and equalise interest rates in all parts of the country for the benefit of our producers—the farmer, the laborer, the manufacturer and the merchant. To this end we favor a flexible currency that will respond to the needs of commerce and industry.

The Republican party recognizes that legitimate business, fairly capitalised and honestly managed, has built up our industries at home, given the largest employment to labor and highest wages and enabled us successfully to compete with foreign countries in the markets of the world. But the Republican party now, as always, is unalterably opposed to all trusts and combinations having for their purpose the stifling of competition and arbitrarily controlling productions or fixing prices.

Among other remedies we favor legislation providing for the utmost publicity as to the internal affairs of this class of corporations, and we favor an amendment to the Constitution of the United States granting full power to congress to protect the people against the evils threatened.

We hereby declare our implicit confidence in President William McKinley and the Republican party to meet and solve the questions now before the country growing out of our war with Spain, to the entire satisfaction of the American people, and with justice and humanity to the people of the islands that came under our control because of that war.

We declare that never before in the history of our nation has the flag of our country and the rights which it guarantees to our citizens been respected and recognized throughout the world as under the present administration.

We declare for liberal legislation for the national defense, for the building of our navy, for the enlargement of our foreign markets, for the employment of the American workmen in our mines, forests, farms, mills, factories and shipyards.

We hereby express our appreciation of the distinguished services to the nation and state by both our United States senators, Cushman K. Davis and Knute Nelson, and we are proud of the fact that they have reflected credit on the state and the Republican party, and we heartily recommend the re-election of Hon. Knute Nelson to succeed himself as United States senator, and pledge him our loyal support.

We hereby declare we are in favor of the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people of each state, and call upon our representatives in both houses of congress to support the proposition.

We declare that we hold in the highest esteem the ability and services of all our congressmen who have so ably represented our state in the fifty-sixth congress, and recommend the reelection of the full delegation, and to that end pledge them our loyal and hearty support.

TIN CUP'S SLAYER.

Jury Says It Was Van Moore, Who Has Fled to Pine Ridge.

Pierre, S. D., May 18.—The coroner's jury on the case of Tin Cup, the Indian woman who was killed at her home on Bad river Monday evening, returned a verdict that she came to her death at the hands of Van Moore. The remains were a mass of bruises and cuts, she having been beaten and kicked to death. Moore is supposed to be headed for Pine Ridge reservation, where she belongs, and he evidently fears to go home, but will attempt to hide among the Pine Ridge Indians.

Narrow Escape From Death.

Lead, S. D., May 18.—Miners in the Homestake mine were terribly jarred and bruised by the sudden stopping of a cage which was going from the top to the 800-foot level. At the 600-foot level the stage struck the steel chair or cage support for that level and instantly stopped. Several men had arms broken and dislocated and internal injuries were received. It is considered a remarkable escape from death for all of them.

MAGINNIS IS NAMED.

GOV. SMITH REVOKES THE APPOINTMENT OF SENATOR CLARK.

The Governor Gives as the Reason for His Action That the Appointment of Mr. Clark Was Tainted With Collusion and Fraud—Senator Frye, Senator Chandler and Mr. Clark Notified of the Governor's Action—The Governor Also Sends a Protest to Senator Chandler Detailing His Reasons.

Butte, Mont., May 20.—Gov. Smith yesterday sent dispatches from here to Senator W. A. Clark, Senator Chandler, chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, and Senator Frye, president of the senate, saying he had disregarded and revoked the action of Lieut. Gov. Spriggs in naming Mr. Clark to succeed to the vacancy caused by his own resignation, and saying he had named Martin Maginnis of Helena to fill the vacancy. The governor gives as his reasons his opinion that the appointment of Mr. Clark by the lieutenant governor was tainted by collusion and fraud. The dispatches are practically the same, that to Mr. Clark reading: "I have this day disregarded and revoked your appointment as United States senator made by Gov. Spriggs on the 15th inst., as being tained with collusion and fraud, and have this day appointed Hon. Martin Maginnis United States senator to fill the vacancy caused by your resignation." Those to Frye and Chandler are of the same tenor, notifying them of his action. The governor also sent to Chandler, detailing his reasons. He has also issued an open letter to the people of the state denying that he had any knowledge of the contemplated step when he left Montana for California. He said he went to California at the request of Thomas Hinds to look into the title of some mining property in which Miles Finlen was and thought by going he might earn a fee that would be applied on the indebtedness. "I shall prove by my conduct in the future," he concludes, "that I was not guilty of any wrong doing or any idea of wrong."

Miles Finlen is one of the Democrats in the legislature who voted against Clark. Martin Maginnis was delegate in congress for the territory when Montana became a state.

STUDENTS SUSPENDED.

Wisconsin University Disciplines Pupils for Hazing.

Madison, Wis., May 20.—Three freshmen and four sophomores have been suspended until the first of November for participating in a hazing scrap two weeks ago, in which the freshmen soused two sophomores in Lake Mendota and broke some windows and furniture. Fifteen students have been on trial several days. The sentences of suspension were suspended four days to await the action of the classes, and yesterday afternoon the freshmen and sophomores held a mass meeting and voted to discontinue and discourage hazing and cane rushing, and it is expected the sentences will be rescinded.

WANTED IN CHICAGO.

Extradition Papers Asked for a South Dakota Physician.

Lee was just leaving for his home at Vermillion and was accompanied to that place by the detective, and a hearing will be given Hartzman before any action is taken. A former effort to secure such papers on a charge of adultery failed, and a charge of bigamy is not made. Hartzman is expected to make a hard fight before he will go back to Chicago.

WALTERS PLEADS GUILTY.

Former Deputy Postmaster Goes Up for Eighteen Months.

Fargo, N. D., May 20.—In the United States court yesterday afternoon Former Deputy Postmaster Walters of New Salem, Morton county, pleaded guilty to the embezzlement of the postal funds, and was sentenced to eighteen months at hard labor and to pay a fine of $2,100, the amount he embezzled. He was captured in Chicago a week after the crime. The Indian horse thieves at Standing Rock were arraigned. Three pleaded guilty and the other three maintained their innocence.

Curiosity Saves Life.

A package marked quinine was sent to a woman, but, being curious, she took it to a druggist, who said it was arsenic. A like inquiry into some of the medicines offered will certainly detect the false from the true. How Much You Eat

Is not the question, but, how much you digest, because food does good only when it is digested and assimilated, taken up by the blood and made into muscle, nerve, bone and tissue. Hood's Sarsaparilla restores to the stomach its powers of digestion. Then appetite is natural and healthy. Then dyspepsia is gone, and strength, elasticity and endurance return.

Stomach Trouble—"My mother had a very bad stomach trouble. She weighed only 111 pounds. After taking four bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla she weighed 136 pounds. She took it again after the grip and one bottle got her up." Miss Orta McCoy, 528 Lafayette Ave., Lebanon, Ind.

Heard in a Balloon.

J. M. Bacon, the Englishman who, with his daughter, made a lofty balloon ascent to observe the meteor shower last November, tells some interesting things about the sounds that reached their ears. At a height of 5,000 feet the ringing of horses' feet on a hard road could be heard. At 4,000 feet the splashing sound made by ducks in a pond was audible. The barking of dogs and the crowing of cocks could be heard at 7,000 or 8,000 feet. These sounds penetrated through a white floor of cloud which hid the earth from sight. In the perfect silence of the air around the balloon they were startled by what seemed stealthy footsteps close at hand. Investigation showed that the sound was caused by the stretching of the ropes and the yielding of the silk as the balloon continued to expand.—Youth's Companion.

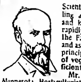
THE FARMER'S GARDEN.



Scientists make the startling assertion that lung and kidney ailments are rapidly increasing among the Farmers of America, and assign as one of the principle reasons the lack of vegetable food in sufficient variety.

Mr. A. K. BUSH, Dover, Minnesota, Horticulturist, with the Minnesota Farmer's Institute, also a successful gardener and farmer, has prepared an illustrated plan of the Farmer's Garden he is advocating. It is the most practical thing of the kind ever brought to our attention and does away very largely with hand labor. Mr. Bush's plan provides for a Fruit and Vegetable Garden that may be easily cared for with the aid of a horse and an ordinary farm cultivator. It is illustrated by a diagram and instructions are given as to culture, rotation, etc. Every farmer, in fact, every one who has or wants a garden, should have this folder, entitled The Farmer's Garden. It is published by Northrup-King & Co., the seedsmen of Minneapolis, Minnesota, and is sent FREE to those who write them asking for it, and who will mention the fact that they saw the offer in this paper.

BLASTS FROM RAM'S HORN.

Calm seas make careless sailors.

Man soon wearies of the worship of humanity.

Where the heart sinks the hand cannot succeed.

Failure is often but man's name for God's successes.

Religion makes the church and not the church religion.

When your foes laugh with you your friends will weep.

Death is an incident and not an interruption of life's progress.

The twentieth century will offer no greater wonder than that of the nineteenth—the saving power of the gospel.

The devil will not care who does the preaching so long as his plans are adopted for raising the money to run the church.

"WONDERLAND 1900."

Chas. S. Fee and his associates have become somewhat noted in connection with this annual publication, each issue being distinctly different from its predecessors in cover design, illustrations and text. When it is remembered that, in the nature of the case, certain subjects, as for example Yellowstone Park, must be touched upon in each "Wonderland," it will at once be seen what a task confronts them in providing fresh reading matter and illustrations annually. That they can do it without practically, repeating themselves, is a more cogent statement than any we can formulate, as to the variety found, in every way, in the vast region traversed by the N. P. line.

The present publication is much larger than usual and represents more extended travel, investigation, hard work and expense than any previous number. We think it will prove unusually valuable to libraries, schools and reading rooms, while for the household library table it will certainly not fall behind any other edition of "Wonderland."

As usual the book will be sent to any address upon receipt of six cents in stamps by Chas. S. Fee, Gen. Pass. & Tkt. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

CHAPTER XX—(Continued.)

"Your daughter! Is this lady your daughter?" asked the doctor, in surprise. "Who is she, then? Who are you?"

"One nameless, homeless, friendless," was the despairing reply—"one whose life wrong has blighted and treachery darkened, until it has but one hope, one light, one blessing left. Oh, my darling, my darling, the one treasure left me in this cruel world—save her for me, doctor! Oh, save her, or I will roam this darkened earth a madman, indeed! Save her! You have said there was hope."

"Hope? Yes," answered the doctor, whose heart was stirred with strange sympathy for this wild, erring being, "there is hope; but it lies not in the skill of man. I can do nothing here but watch and wait. The hour of midnight, sir, will decide your daughter's fate. Then the life-tide will ebb or flow."

CHAPTER XXI.

Watching the Tide.

Dr. Bond had watched by many sick beds and thought that he had witnessed human suffering in all its phases; but the vigil of that night was such as he had never kept before.

The dark stone cavern, with its silver lamp; the awful stillness, broken by no sound from the upper earth, the golden-haired girl, so white, and frail, and fair, so out of keeping with all her rude surroundings; and the two companions of the watch—all seemed to unite in forming a scene more like a picture from some German master than the sober reality of common life.

The wretched father sat at the bedside, with stern, set features and folded arms, watching every faint breath that came from Sybil's pallid lips. The doctor kept his post opposite, while Rizpah glided, like a shadow, noiselessly and swiftly through the room, anticipating every want.

Even the old doctor's herb tea was not forgotten by this strange creature. She had concocted it after a recipe of her own, that the old gentleman was forced to acknowledge had merits far exceeding any of the draughts in his pharmacopoeia, for its effects were magical. It seemed to diffuse new life and vigor through his stiff and feeble limbs, and made him forget the unusual toil and weariness of the day.

A thousand vague conjectures flitted through the doctor's mind as he gazed at the fair, lovely face of the so-called Sybil Wraye, and from it to the dark, stormy countenance of the man who watched beside her. Who were they? Whence were they? these two mysterious beings who seemed separated by some strange fatality from their kind. What was this shadow that rested so darkly upon this young girl's opening life? What was the wrong that had blighted this man's noble nature? What was the link between them and the haughty Clives? What hate had armed this passionate man against Herbert, whose frank, open, honorable character the doctor knew so well?

It was impossible to tell, and the doctor could only look around him in wonder at the strange fatality that had led him again to this fair girl's pillow—the girl whose features were stamped with the likeness of the only woman he had ever loved.

The hours wore on, their passage only marked by the ticking of the doctor's watch, that sounded ominously distinct in the silence of the subterranean chamber.

Rizpah was without, in the shadowy forest, watching the stars; the doctor was alone with Sybil and her father. She lay still, white and silent as a marble statue. There was no movement of limb or feature to show that life still lingered—only the faint breathing that scarcely stirred the lace upon her breast. The doctor looked at his watch; the hour of midnight was at hand. He bent closer to the couch. He dared not, by word or look, break the spell by which the passionate man beside him controlled his strong heart; he dared not tell Sybil's father that the crisis had come. There was surely a quiver in the sunny eyelid; a longer, more fluttering breath; a gasp, a struggle! Great heavens! the dark-browed watcher started up with a moan of anguish, that changed into a low cry of delight, as Sybil opened her eyes and faintly whispered:

"Father!"

"My child, my darling, my own Sybil!"

The doctor turned away from the bedside, with eyes dim with unusual moisture. The rapture of that moment was too deep, too sacred, for even his friendly eye. The crisis was passed safely; the life-tide freely flowed.

"Where am I?" asked Sybil, after a moment's pause. "Have I been dreaming, father, of— of sickness—of pain? There, there is blood upon me—blood! Whose blood, father—whose?"

The doctor interposed. There was an excited quiver in her voice, that made him fear an imprudent revelation.

"You were hurt, my dear, while you were out riding this morning," he said, gently; "that is all. You have been unconscious for some time, but are better now; only I insist upon your keeping quiet—perfectly quiet."

"What does it mean?" she said, clasping her father's hand—"oh, papa, what does it mean? Why is he here—here? Alas, alas, I have betrayed you—betrayed you, after all!"

"Not so, my dear," answered the doctor, in a tone that was intended to reassure both father and daughter. "Do not fear me. I am here as a physician, and a physician is bound to hold inviolate the confidence reposed in him by his patients under any and all circumstances. You have nothing to fear from me."

"You are very good," said Sybil, with that grateful glance in her soft eyes that went straight through the crusts of five-and-forty years to the old man's deepest heart. "Ah, papa, yes, we can trust him. He means us no harm."

"No harm can touch me while you are safe, my treasure—my darling—my own loved child!" was the deep-toned murmur that reached the doctor's ears. "Only live, my darling! Live for your wretched father's sake—live to bless his blighted life with your love—and—he—he—aye, darling, this night has taught him a fearful lesson—he will strive to live only for your love—your happiness. We will go away, far from this cursed spot. We will go away to another land, and live only for each other!"

"Only for each other!" she echoed, clasping his hand to her breast, with a wan smile. "Take me away—far, far away—papa, where we can live only for each other!"

"My darling—my own!" whispered her father, forgetful of all things save his rapture and his remorse. "Oh, forgive me, Sybil! Alas, my madness had well-nigh blighted my one sweet flower forever! My reckless hand had well-nigh crushed what I would gladly have died to save! Sybil, Sybil, say you forgive me!"

Very clear and solemn came the answer, how full of meaning the doctor only vaguely guessed:

"I forgive you, my dear papa. All that—that has hurt me so much, I forgive you."

Alas, alas! gravely and sadly indeed, might Sybil speak that pardon. Deeper and deadlier than eye could see was the wound in that gentle breast.

The snowy flesh might heal, the rude scar close, and all seem well again; but within—deep within—the woman's heart would bleed forever and forever, from a wound that only One could pity, One touch could heal.

The gray twilight was slowly flushing into dawn when the doctor left the Witche's Cave. Sybil was sleeping sweetly now, and during her slumber her father had opened his softened heart to the friend who had come to him as a friend in the hour of his greatest need.

Dr. Bond knew all now, and that knowledge had only given him feelings of warm, almost tender, sympathy for the reckless, wayward man, whom Fate and Providence had thrown so strangely in his way.

He had attempted at first, by friendly argument, to combat opinions and prejudices that he knew were unreasonable; but he found this impetuous being had been too long the sport of his own fierce passions to lend an ear to reason or judgment now.

"I'll have to go away—as far away as possible—was Basil Clive's answer to every argument. "I could not trust myself here. The fiend of hate and revenge and hate is too strong within me. The place is hers, sir—hers by birth, hers by justice, hers by law, if we could only get the proof—the proof that I firmly believe Robert Clive holds in his robber grasp. Clive Towers belongs of right to my child!"

The doctor listened gravely. At sixty we do not readily open our hearts either to faith or hope.

Sybil—his Sybil—the mother of this man who stood beside him? Sybil Lee the wife of Basil Clive? The deserted, neglected—nay, disowned wife? How his blood boiled at the thought of her children wandering nameless and friendless; hiding like criminals in their father's land; burying themselves in the caverns of the earth, maddened by wrongs and desperate from injustice!

In the secret depths of his heart the doctor felt that the claim of Basil Clive might be just. He had never liked the master of Clive Towers; there had always been an inexplicable barrier between them, which it seemed as if neither cared to cross. For years and years Robert Clive had faced the world, cased in the impenetrable armor of universal distrust.

If this story be true—as it must be true, for the fierce, passionate words of Basil Clive left no room for doubt—if this story were indeed true, and Sybil's child the rightful owner of Clive Towers, should not he, the friend and lover of old, uphold that child's claim, in spite of all the world?

Aye, he would, he must! But meanwhile, there was no proof—no proof. Robert Clive, proud, strong and haughty, stood in a position that none could assail—his uncle's rightful and acknowledged heir. They could only watch and wait.

It would be wiser and better far that this hot-headed, impetuous Basil were leagues away.

"I think you are right," answered the doctor, as he grasped the hand of Sybil's son, and looked into his dark, flashing eyes with paternal kindness, sighed to think how different both lives might have been if this rash, misguided being had been his child. It is better that you should go away with Sybil as soon as she is able to be moved, which will not be under a fortnight. It will be better for her, better for you, better for everyone. Meanwhile remember that you leave a friend behind you who—who for many reasons has your interests truly at heart—a friend who, like the warder of some stormy coast, is watching for the turn of the tide. And if you need means—that little girl has stolen her way into a heart that I thought sealed forever—if, for her sake you would accept—"

"No, no!" answered Basil, quickly—no help. Thank you very much, sir—very much! I have money in plenty, to go or stay where I will. I only ask you to keep my secret, to let me get her away from this cursed spot in peace!"

"But they—they family at the Towers—will be anxious about your daughter," said the doctor, perplexed at the difficulties of his position. "Would it not be well to let them know she is safe?"

"Let them know nothing of her!" was the stern, determined reply. "Let them believe her dead, as henceforth she will be dead to them forever! Aye, forever!" he continued, his dark face growing darker with passionate resolve. "Five-and-twenty years ago I swore a fearful oath, on my father's corpse—swore it in the hearing of the traitor who then and there refused me the justice that was my father's dying legacy to me and mine! I swore undying enmity to Robert Clive and all his race! I swore that while a drop of my blood flowed in living veins, that blood would boil with fiery hate to him and his! I swore never to relent, never to condone, never to forgive! And yesterday—yesterday"—the man's voice grew husky—"was it a wonder that I turned madman at the sight? I saw his son looking with a lover's eyes into my daughter's face; whispering to her with lover's accents; pleading with her—with my child, my Sybil, my one treasure—pleading for the sweet young heart that is mine—mine alone! Was it not enough to rob me of my father's name, my father's lands, my father's inheritance, that now the cursed Clives should grasp at my only treasure, my one ewe lamb—my child?"

"But she—she is mine still—mine still!" continued the passionate being, fiercely. "Aye, and I will keep her mine until the man comes to her whom I can freely, willingly give her. I will forswear justice, vengeance—all things—to keep my daughter mine! Aye, sir! though every drop of blood in these veins would be poured out gladly for my Sybil's sake, I would rather see her lying at my feet, white and still, and lifeless, as I saw her to-day—I would rather know that my own rash hand had struck her death-blow, than see her happy, blest and honored, as the wife of Herbert Clive. My hate is too deep, too lasting, for aught but death to quench!"

"I come, I come! Remember!" Basil Clive wrung the doctor's hand in his powerful grasp. "Silence, silence; it is all I ask. I have trusted you. Do not betray us. Let us shake off the dust of this accursed spot, and turn our backs upon it forever, forever! Let us be dead—dead and forgotten—in the land that we cannot call our own. Good-by! Remember—silence!"

Seeds of Discord.

Three days had elapsed since Sybil's loss, and still the well-nigh hopeless search went on.

Only for her remains, or for some trace of her burial place—for it was the general conclusion now that the shot had proved fatal, and the affrighted murderer had concealed the body and fled ere the pursuit had well begun.

The intricate mazes of Clive Forest, the hundreds of by-paths leading to the river, made immediate escape both practicable and easy; and young Mr. Clive's horror at the awful deed had for the first few moments so paralyzed his powers that he could only with difficulty recall the exact circumstances under which the murder had occurred.

He had heard the shot; he had been blinded by the flash; then had seen Sybil lying bleeding from a breast wound beneath her horse's feet; had lifted her to a neighboring bank, and, finding her severely, if not fatally, injured, had rushed to give the alarm, and seek for the help which he thought so near. When he returned to the spot on which he had left her she was gone.

It was all he knew—all the information the most curious cross-questioner could elicit; and, though all sorts of wild rumors were current in the neighborhood, none could be traced to any reliable source.

Dr. Bond had been in bed for the last three days with a severe attack of rheumatism, brought on, as he informed inquirers, by his "infernal folly in spending ten hours in Clive Forest on a wild goose chase."

He was so irritable and testy on the subject that his visitors found it wisest to avoid as much as possible any allusion to it; for Sybil had been a favorite patient of the old doctor's, and it was one of his peculiarities to speak of nothing that reached his heart.

Mr. Clive was concerned in his stately way—exceedingly concerned. The young lady was in his house, under his protection, and that was sufficient cause in itself for his indignation and anxiety, laying aside any warmer interest he might have in his daughter's friend.

So Mr. Clive had astute detectives sent from the city, and the mysterious affair was discussed with all due solemnity in his library.

The doors were closed, the curtains drawn, and Herbert, over whose pale, haggard face a score of years seemed to have passed, was called upon again to go through the whole account, whose repetition made his heart-strings bleed and quiver.

The flash, the shot, the fall, and the inexplicable disappearance of the wounded girl, all were retold, briefly and clearly, while Mr. Quirk nodded, smiled and interposed various questions and suggestions, and his confrere, Mr. Quinn, sat silently by the table stroking his wiry beard.

Mr. Quirk talked a great deal, going round and round his subject by all manner of impossible suppositions and conjectures—striking it suddenly by a well-aimed question, rebounding in a different direction, and making brilliant sallies on another point.

Mr. Quirk was, in fact, such a charming conversationalist that people were very apt to lose sight of his partner entirely and forget the quiet Mr. Quinn, whose keen gray eyes and keener ears were following every turn of the head and change of the voice and movement of the body, gleaning up swiftly and silently the grains that his brilliant companion scattered and passed by.

So it was quite a matter of surprise to Mr. Clive when the gentleman by the table suddenly lifted his eyes from an apparently abstracted study of the tiled hearth and asked "if the young lady's family had taken any steps in the matter."

It was a rather embarrassing thing to acknowledge that they had not; that, in fact, nothing was known of Miss Wraye's family; that the honored guest of the haughty Clives was, socially speaking, a nonentity.

It was still more embarrassing when—Mr. Quinn directly pressing the matter—it became necessary to state how and under what circumstances the acquaintance with Miss Wraye had been formed—how inauspicious had been Madam Fleury's account of her pupil's position in school and society.

Herbert would have died rather than have revealed her warning to him. Those interviews, when sudden gusts of feeling seemed to sweep away for a moment the veil concealing her troubled heart, he held too sacred to even speak of now.

He could only chafe with mingled indignation and impatience as he saw the astute detective's inquiries were all tending to one point; as he felt that every word he said only went to prove that Sybil herself knew and feared the impending danger; that this cruel tragedy was but the culmination of some dark, secret history veiled in Sybil's past.

Herbert's face flushed angrily, and he listened, with set teeth and clenched hands; he could say nothing—nothing that would not tend to throw upon his darling's memory a shadow of deeper mystery than that which rested on it now.

Sybil an adventuress? Aye, that was what they were sayin as they rose to go; and his father was listening, with the stern, hard look on his face that made him so like old Basil Clive.

"I have heard of so many cases of a like nature," said Mr. Quinn, his keen, gray eyes resting on Herbert's face—"clever girls, who, to secure a brilliant alliance, contrive to establish themselves on the most friendly footing in the best of families—worming themselves into their confidence by every art and fascination."

"You are mistaken, sir!" Herbert burst forth, unable any longer to restrain his indignation—"utterly mistaken. Whatever Miss Wraye's family or position may have been, she was a lady in every sense of the word—nay, what is better than a lady, a true, pure, noble woman! And to assure you that no ignoble motive influenced her visit to Clive Towers, I can bring my sister to prove that she came only in compliance with her eager, earnest and repeated entreaties—that she came to us as an honored guest. And I, at least, shall consider it my place to repel any insinuation against her character or position as an insult to one whom, as a guest in my father's house, I feel bound to defend!"

"Humph!" muttered Quinn, drily. "I thought as much. I have to congratulate you, Mr. Clive," he added, in an undertone, to the elder gentleman. "If I mistake not, the young lady had well-nigh gained her end. Your guest would soon have had a daughter's place."

"Never!" exclaimed Robert Clive, his brow darkening ominously. "We will let the matter drop here, gentlemen; it has gone far enough. All further inquiries as to Miss Wraye's fate can be made by her family or friends, if she has any. It is an affair that reflects no credit on any one concerned in it, and one in which I much prefer that the members of my family should cease to take any active interest."

"Let me understand you, sir," said Herbert, turning from the window as the two legal gentlemen drove away, and showing his father a face white and rigid—aye, and stern as his own. "Do you mean that you intend to take no further steps in this matter—to leave this poor, friendless girl unavenged in her bloody grave—to be deaf to the cry of outraged justice?"

"I have submitted the case to the proper authorities," answered his father, briefly. "It is their place to attend to it; neither yours nor mine."

"Neither yours nor mine!" echoed the son, indignantly. "For God's sake, sir, what change has come over you? Only this morning you acknowledged that you felt, in a measure, responsible for this young girl's fate—that, as our guest, she was under our protection."

"This morning I was blind," was the curt reply; "now my eyes have been opened. This morning I believed my son knew better what was due to himself and due to me than to degrade himself by an attachment that I could never recognize—"

"Stop, sir!" interrupted Herbert, impetuously. "Not even from you will I hear a word against her sweet memory—a memory that I will hold sacred as long as life shall last—a memory that I place beside that of my sainted mother, and feel I place it worthily there."

"Be silent, sir!" thundered Robert Clive. "Let me never hear your mother's name breathed in such association. Your mother! Boy, you know not what she was, or your lips would never dare to shape her name with that of a friendless, homeless outcast—a girl who, for aught we know, may have sprung from the very dregs of society—a girl who—"

"Be careful what you say, sir!" interrupted Herbert, white with passion. "There are insults which even a son cannot forgive. The lady of whom you speak was as dear, as precious, as honored in my heart, as my mother is in yours."

"Was she your wife, sir?" asked Robert Clive, hoarsely. "I am prepared to learn even that, now. Was this nameless girl your wife?"

"Would to God that she had been!" said the young man, in an agitated voice. "Then there would have been one, at least, left, with the right to defend her memory by word and deed. No, sir; she was not my wife, though I would gladly and proudly have claimed her before God and man. She herself refused me, over and over again—aye, sir, strange as it may seem to you, this nameless girl rejected even the honorable suit of a Clive!"

"It is well for you that she did so—very well," was the father's stern rejoinder, though the cloud upon his brow brightened perceptibly. "A disgraceful alliance is the one offense that my indulgence could never overlook. It is my wish that we let this subject drop here—drop forever. It is one that is exceedingly disagreeable to me—one that I never wish broached again between us—since it has made the first breach between father and son."

CARTER MEDICINE CO. WINS.

Obtains Injunction in Case Involving Simulation of Labels.

Brent Cood, president of the Carter Medicine Company, yesterday received a telegram from his lawyers in Chicago, Messrs. Lowdon, Estabrook & Davis, informing him that a final injunction, with costs, had been granted against the Chicago Label and Box Company. This company makes a specialty of manufacturing labels, boxes, etc., for druggists. The Carter Company has been following them through the courts for two years on the complaint that the label company was making simulations of the labels of Carter's Little Liver Pills. They have now obtained a final injunction with costs, and the costs are very large, as the case has been submitted to a Master in Chancery for a final accounting.

The Carter Medicine Company has been the first and only one to prosecute printers or engravers who have prepared such labels and wrappers. It marks a new departure in infringement cases, and their victory is one of great importance to the whole "proprietary trade," and also of interest to retail druggists.—New York Press, May 2, 1900.

Effects of a Late Supper.

At Stroud, in Gloucesshire, a certain well known townsman had one night been out to a rather prolonged supper with some of his friends, and on his way home had the misfortune to fall into a pond which he had to pass, and which at that time of the year contained more mud than water.

Several people who saw him fall in rushed to his rescue, and a rope was procured and thrown to him; but he refused the aid offered and commenced swimming to the shore in the most scientific manner, shouting to those on the bank, "Never mind me; never mind me—I can swim. Save the women anr children!"—The Weekly Telegraph.

  On thy cold gray stones, O sea!
And I would that my tongue could utter

Oh well for the fisherman's boy
Oh well for the sailor lad

  To their haven under the hill;

But the tender grace of a day that is dead
  Will never come back to me.

—Alfred Tennyson.

An Artistic Milliner.

"Hyacinths were never in great favor," said the French milliner, who has a wee shop but a big clientele, according to the New York Commercial Advertiser. "The pink and white ones are charming for black hats or for entire flower bonnets, but the blue and purplish blue are the most popular. Why is it? Hyacinth blues are pretty, but no shade is more trying. Women who should wear shades of green and red and rose-heliotrope come in here and order cold-gray straw hats trimmed with blue hyacinths. They order them but they do not get them from me. That is why my place is still in the side street, while Mme. Flamboyant, who began when I did, is on the avenue. Mme. Flamboyant went in debt at first, to be sure, but she is famous now. I make money, oh, yes, but I am proud of all of my customers; everyone wears becoming hats, not merely fashionable ones." She straightened out the shining petals of a satin chou and gave a deft touch to the cluster of clover and sweet peas on the crumpled brim. "A young lady came in one day last week and wanted a 'coral bonnet.' 'Madame,' I said, 'I cannot make it for you. You have enough color already. You have coral-colored hair and rose-colored cheeks. No, madame, I will not make you a 'coral bonnet.' Did she grow angry? Well, perhaps she did. It did not distress me, I assure you. I waited upon some one else—a charming lady, who knows that I have taste and a conscience. When I returned to the other she apologized and implored me to make her a hat of another color. 'No, madame,' I said, 'I do not wish to make you a hat. It would not be artistic, and I do not wish to put my name inside of inartistic hats.' 'But you can design it yourself,' she said. 'Ah, that is better. I will undertake the commission with pleasure,' I said. This is it," and the milliner held up a poem in green leaves, violets and chiffon. "The pale chiffon will frame her rose-colored face," she said, critically, "taking away from its color becoming. The green leaves will match her eyes, which would be beautiful if they were a shade darker. They will look so when she wears this hat. In the back, where her hair will show, you see the chiffon and violets are of a deeper tone. It will make her hair look Titian. She thinks it is Titian now, but it is not. It is more the tone of fresh, new carrots. But this will deepen it. It is a charming hat in itself, but it will make a handsome woman of this lady, who is—what shall I say?—of—of a somewhat rustic style of beauty.

"As for those hyacinths," with a wave of the hand toward a mass of them resting in a bed of greenery, "they are for clear complexions and fair skins, whether blonde or brunette. Hyacinth blue is cold and cruel. It has no sympathy, no warmth. It is unresponsive and unfeeling. The very dark and the very fair have sufficient decision of type to wear it, but when one is between the two and has not a fine complexion, one had better adopt some other tone."

White Organdy, Oriental Lace.

Actresses' Faces.

It is a mistaken idea that actresses are as a general rule handsomer on the stage than off, writes Franklin Fylee in the Ladies' Home Journal. The reverse is as likely to be true. Nevertheless, all theatrical faces have to be painted. It may be assumed safely that none of the complexion is genuine. An exceptionally clear and pink skin may require no falsity. A dark one may chance to suit the character to be assumed.

But these exceptions to the rule are rare. The glare of artificial light would make most faces ghastly white or unpleasantly sallow if bright hues were not laid on. The art of coloring a pretty visage just enough, and not overdoing it, is one which all actresses should learn. Many do not, and so we see beauty disfigured instead of enhanced. Others are very expert. There are two distinct processes. One makes use of colored powders applied dry. The other mixes the same powders with grease, making a substance called grease paint.

Tip on Summer Decorations.

There are no more dainty patterns in wall papers this season. Severity and strict soberness are the watchwords of the wall furnishings of dwelling rooms, and the white and gold era fades away in abundant shadows. According to the dealers in wall papers, old fashions are to be revived. The colonial primness is in favor, and when a modern house is dressed up in the primary colors as to wall papers it has a dignity that reminds one of the squares coats and knee breeches of a past generation. One of the patterns used in the new home of Mrs. Andrew Carnegie is made up of verticle stripes in various colors. They are red and green, yellow, blue and violet hues that make a striking combination. Other patterns are of flowers of the old-fashioned kind—hollyhocks, morning glories, honeysuckle, dahlias, etc.

Gray Organdy, Yellow Lace.

How to Grow Stout.

Columns of conflicting advice have been written from time to time for the benefit of women who wish to get thin, and as it is not enough for the woman who desires to put on a little extra flesh to draw her conclusions from the reverse side of the fleshy woman's instructions, she is coming in for a goodly share of counsel, too, which is all excellent in a way, but the regime of exercise and diet which is advised for perfect development from the standard of too much or too little flesh is usually an absorbing process which leaves very little time for other things, and the average woman soon wearies of it if she has the courage to attempt it at all. The simple recipe, "Eat vegetables and plenty of butter, drink milk and sweet cider; take cod liver oil, go to bed early, sleep some during each day and laugh as much as possible," will often help the thin woman immensely. Cream may be substituted for the cod liver oil if preferred.

Recipe for Supper Cake.—Dry three pounds of flour, rub it into three ounces of butter and two ounces of lard. Add a little salt, powdered ginger and cinnamon. Set three-quarters of an ounce of yeast in a basin with a teaspoonful of brown sugar, and work with a spoon until it becomes liquid. Slightly warm half a pint of new milk and add to the yeast. Beat two eggs to a good froth. Make a hole in the center of the flour, pour in the yeast, and let it work for ten minutes. Then work in all the flour till it leaves the hands clean, wetting it with the beaten eggs and tepid water. Set the dough to rise for two hours. Then place it in a warmed basin, work into it half a pound of cleaned currants and five ounces of moist sugar. Knead up till well mixed, place in a tin and bake for nearly two hours. If preferred the dough can be divided into four flat cakes and baked on a tin.

Playing With the Boys.

A small school boy who had been sent home by his teacher because his sisters had the measles was noticed by that teacher at the next recess playing with the other children on the school ground. "Johnny, didn't I tell you not to come to school while your sisters had the measles?" "Yes; but I am not going to school, I only came to play with the boys before it begins."—Commercial Tribune.

LANGUID

How are the children this spring? Complaining a good deal of headache, can't study as well as usual, easily fall asleep, and are tired all the time? And how is it with yourself? Is your strength slipping away? Do you tremble easily, are your nerves all unstrung, do you feel dull and sleepy, and have you lost all ambition?

That's Spring Poisoning

Nearly every one needs a good spring medicine; a medicine that will remove impurities from the system, strengthen the digestion, and bring back the old force and vigor to the nerves. A perfect Sarsaparilla is just such a medicine; a Sarsaparilla that contains the choicest and most valuable ingredients; a Sarsaparilla accurately and carefully made, and one that experience has shown is perfect in every way.

That's AYER'S

"The only Sarsaparilla made under the personal supervision of three graduates: a graduate in pharmacy, a graduate in chemistry, and a graduate in medicine."

"I am perfectly confident that Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Pills have saved my life by taking them every fall and spring. I have kept them in the house for the past twenty years."—Eva N. Hart, Buffalo, N. Y., March 29, 1900.

WINTER BILE

Causes bilious head-ache, back-ache and all kinds of body aches. Spring is here and you want to get this bile poison out of your system, easily, naturally and gently. CASCARETS are just what you want; they never grip or gripe, but will work gently while you sleep. Some people think the more violent the griping the better the cure. Be careful—take care of your bowels—salts and pill poisons leave them weak, and even less able to keep up regular movements than before. The only safe, gentle inside Spring cleaner for the bowels are sweet, fragrant CASCARETS. They don't force out the foecal matter with violence, but act as a tonic on the whole 30 feet of bowel wall, strengthen the muscles and restore healthy, natural action—buy them and try them. You will find in an entirely natural way your bowels will be promptly and permanently put in good order for the Spring and Summer work.

To Celebrate.

Red Lake Falls will celebrate the Fourth of July this year, as it has never before been celebrated. This was decided at an enthusiastic meeting at the court house Tuesday night. The chairman, L. Jensen, was instructed to appoint an arrangment committee of seven, who in turn are to appoint sub committees. The matter of celebrating Independence day is thus fairly launched, and Red Lake Falls is in line for a gala Fourth.

The following committeee on arrangements has been appointed:

Math Skala, Sindal Brown, J. B. Armstrong, V. L. Knight, E. D. Bray, Theo. LaBissoniere, and Joe Sally.

Ed. L. Healy Land Company.

Ed. L. Healy has dissolved partnership with John Grove, and what has been the John Grove Land and Loan Company is now the Ed. L. Healy Land Company. Associated with Mr. Healy is Joe C. Brown, formerly of Marshall, and who has been engaged with Mr. Healy as immigrant agent since the opening of the office here. Their announcement appears in another column. Our readers are referred to it.

Decoration Day Exercises.

The program as published for the observance of Memorial Day was carried out yesterday as nearly as could be. The G. A. R., the W. R. C, the schoolchildren, the committees and the speakers all contributed to the excellence of the observance, and the attendance of citizens was very large and representative. The most touching part of the ceremonies, the decoration of the graves of veterans, closed the exercises. That the patriotic spirit is deep-rooted among our people, and that the significance of Memorial Day is thoroughly appreciated, has been amply attested by the spirit displayed on this occasion.

The New Dam.

The Red Lake Falls Lumber Company's new dam across the Red Lake river in River Falls township is nearing completion. Only the work of planking, and the completion of the north wing remains to be done, and this is well under way. A few days more will see the last spike driven. The dam is thirty feet wide at the base, eight feet at the top; 138 feet long, and the dam is 11 feet from top to bed. In its construction have been used two tons of drift bolts, 175 cords of rock, 42 thousand feet of logs, and 15 thousand feet of lumber. There are two 16-foot sluice ways, and the water can be held or loosed at will, so that logs can be floated down from St. Hilaire on the back water, then flooded down to this place. Five million feet of logs between this point and St. Hilaire will now be available at once, and the mill will start on a steady run Monday.

Krueger-Langlois.

Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, at the residence of Rev. E. Fayolle occurred the marriage of Mr. August Krueger and Miss Blanche Langlois, both of this city, the ceremony being performed in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Krueger.

After the ceromony the happy couple repaired to the Grand View hotel, the home of the groom's parents, where they received the felicitations of their immediate relatives. The party then sat down to a carefully prepared and elaborate wedding supper.

The Gazette knows of no more worthy or popular young man than the groom. He is one of Red Lake Falls' boys, having grown up here. He has for some time been foreman in L. A. Kaufer's harness establishment. The bride has made her home in the past with Rev. E. Fayolle and more recently with J. M. Bray. She is a charming young woman who has made for herself a wide circle of friends.

POOR OUTLOOK.

The People of Cass Lake are Suffering from Too-Much-Inflated Boom.

Cass Lake's boom seems to have gone glimmering for the present. The bottom has rather dropped out of things owing to various causes. The failure of the government to take action regarding the opening of the reservation, and its vacillating course in townsite matters is partially to blame, and this has been added to by the scrap between the townsite boomers, says the Crookston Times.

Meantime the officials, it is claimed, have been unwise in the management of affairs, and it is rumored that several of them have drawn indictments at the hands of the grand jury for their course in handling the public moneys, for padding their bills, and doing other things that are not strictly in accordance with the oaths taken by them.

There is little to induce trade at this point except the railroad and sawmill business, as the fact is that the place is entirely surrounded by reservation lands, and there is no farming community tributary to it.

Cass Lake has 20 saloons, and it is said that $3 per day are the average receipts of each with one or two exceptions.

The village has hopes that the summer tourists may enlived the conditions, but there are other lakes out east where good fishing and pretty lakes abound, and these will get their share of the business in this line. The people are inclined to fan the flame of neighborhood differences and quarrels, and as a result they are indulging among themselves in a lively scrap upon every subject that comes up for consideration, in a manner that quite outdoes the history that was being made by Thief River Falls in this line a few years ago.

The outlook for prosperity at Cass Lake is pretty poor during the next year or two, and many of the business men who have located there have ceased to regard their immediate future as altogether rose colored.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich. tells how such a slave was made free. He says; "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by W. A. Schreiter, Druggist.

Prevented A Tragedy.

Timely information given Mrs. George Long, of New Straitsville, Ohio, prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. A frightful cough had long kept her awake every night. She had tried many remedies and doctors but steadily grew worse until urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle wholly cured her, and she writes this marvelous medicine also Mr. Long of a severe attack of Pneumonia. Such cures are positive proof of the matchless merit of this grand remedy for curing all throat, chest, and lung troubles. Only 50c and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed. Trial bottles free at W. A. Schreiter's Drug Store.

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER
—BY—
FRED. A. KAUFER.

Subscription, $1.00 per Year

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE COUNTY.

All matter for publication in The Gazette must be handed in on or before Tuesday night.

THE BLACK SHEEP IN A WHITE FLOCK.

The Boston Globe says that the postoffice steal at Havana, while scandalous in itself, should serve to draw public attention to the fact that nowhere under the Stars and Stripes is strict honesty more prevalent than in the postal service of the United States. Within a week a paragraph has gone the rounds of the newspaper press describing how ten $1000 bills were committed to the mails by a business man in the ordinary course of business. They reached their destination in safety. Every time you enclose quarters or dollars in a letter you put your trust in the clerk and the carrier. Seldom, comparatively, is such confidence betrayed. Honesty in the department must be the result of good character rather than of fear of detection. A few score inspectors, watch as sharply and as diligently as they may, cannot cover completely 70,000 post offices and hundreds of thousands of miles of post routes. The safety of the mails in this country is simply marvelous. Some seventeen million pieces of registered mail matter, estimated value 500 million dollars, are handled annually, and the net loss is not above 1-100 of 1 per cent. When John Wannamaker was postmaster general he estimated that there were carried in the mails nearly two billion letters per annum, and that the value of the ordinary letter mail of the United States for one year was nearly five hundred million dollars. Yet, Mr. Wannamaker added, "the total supposed losses of ordinary mail throughout the United States amounted in twelve months past to fifty thousand pieces. Of these, 40 per cent were packages, the remaining 60 per cent. being letters. This is a showing that justifies great confidence in the postal system of the United States."

AMERICAN FLOUR IN EUROPE.

It is predicted in London that unless conditions change American flour will soon compel the closing of the mills of England. In France American flour is able to pay high tariff duties and profitably compete with French-milled flour. It is claimed that American millers can grind the wheat into flour cheaper than British or French millers. A comparison of the ordinary flour mills of European countries with those of the United States carries out this assertion. Long ago in this country the old-fashioned grist mill gave place to the merchant mill and the roller process took place of the grinding process. Water power and steam engines of the most efficient and economical character are being used as motive power. In fact, in America the milling industry has been reduced to the most economical methods.

Judging from the London statement, there is a feeling in England that the ability of American millers to compete with those of England is in some degree due to the favoring discriminations of railroads. It is not clearly stated that these discriminations are conceded by the English railroad companies, but this statement is continually made. While it is possible that American millers may be benefited by favors from British rail-ways, the fact that American flour is invading and usruping the markets of France shows that the introduction of our flour into England is not alone due to English railroad discriminations in favor of the Ameriican products.

A Farmers' Organization.

To the Public and Farmers in Purticular:

Dear Sir: You having the interest and wellfare of your state at heart I take the liberty to offer to you a few suggestions, which; if properly enforced, would, without a doubt, result in a boom and good times, to all the population of the western wheat producing states, which would prove to be of more importance to the people in general than 16 to 1 silver. There is a good deal of talk in the Eastern or New England States of good times in general. Why is this thus? What is the reason? Well, this ought not to be a secret, as we all know, the Eastern and New England states, depend mostly on manufacturing and mining. All industries have organized for their protection. This is an age of organization. They commenced about ten years ago, first the sugar and coffee trust, and the beef trust, then iron manufacturers, iron rolling mills, lumber trust, elevator trust, flour mill trust, then it extended to all mechanical branches, rail road officials and railroad laboring men, in fact everybody is organized except the farmer. Everything the farmer buys has advanced in price from 50 to 75 per cent, but wheat, his product, is below the average price. Wheat ought not to be sold for less than 75c per bushel, the actual cost of producing it. The farmer may easily get 75c, just as easy as now 50c per bushel. Every one dictates the price of his goods or products. The farmer may to a certain extent dictate the price of his wheat. He can dictate that the minimum price of his wheat shall not be less than 75c per bushel. This would mean money in everybody's pocket, in the wheat producing states, and would create the best times this country ever saw. I can demonstrate satisfactorily that this game of the age can be played by the farmers as easily as falling off a log. Just think of, there are so many farmers working hard right along, without making any headways, simply because they have to sell their wheat for less than it costs to produce it. If farmers could count on 75c to be the minimum price for wheat, they would be all right. We in this country, paying the highest price for farm labor, we cannot afford to feed the world at large, with cheap breadstuffs, we may easier accomplish a higher market for wheat in Europe than to change the value of silver to 16-1.

This may not seem feasible to some people, but I am willing to demonstrate satisfactorily to any one that it is not only feasible, but easy to accomplish. It is just as easy to organize all the farmers of the wheat producing states as it is to take the coming census. This census has to be taken all over the United States within a month.

This farmer's organization ought to be accomplished as soon as possible, so that it be in operation for next crop. Wouldn't it be a good idea for the farmers and everybody else to agitate this matter of making the minimum price of wheat 75c per bushel and bring it to a successful issue? It is of a great deal more importance than what party shall elect their next president.

I fully realize the enormous amount of work there is, in order to make the organization effective. Minnesota and the two Dakotas would have to be organized at the same time. I have laid my plans of organization before a great many farmers and they all acquiesce in it, that it would be a grand thing for the country and for the farmers in particular, and they have urged me to start this great farmer organization (object, raising the price of wheat.)

Farmers and in fact everybody is well pleased when the farmers obtain a fair price for their wheat, it will put a good deal of money in circulation and it will make good times to everybody, it means to the farmers prosperity.

I shall call a public meeting for farmers in particular, at an early day and lay my plans before them and if properly encouraged I would bring myself to commence this farmer organization at once, and bring it to a successful issue. As there is no time to be lost if we want to make this organization operative for next crop, it can be done, and it means hundreds of thousands of dollars more or less in the pockets of the farmers.

Yours respectfully,
P. E. Pirath,
Red Lake Falls, Minn.

DROWNED.

A DEPLORABLE ACCIDENT AT ST. HILAIRE.

Peter Mousseau was drowned in the Red Lake River at St. Hilaire this morning. He was sorting logs for the Red Lake Falls Lumber Co., and fell in. After deligent search his body was found, clutching firmly to a pile, at the bottom of the river. But for his thoughtlessness in holding himself under water he might have been rescued.

This news reaches us just as we go to press, thus precluding a detailed account of the unfortunate affair.

Started on the Season's Run.

The saw mill started up Monday, for the season's run with four million feet of logs on hand. The company has performed a feat deserving of commendation in getting their logs down, under the unfavorable conditions that have prevailed this spring, the stage of water in the river being lower than ever before known. And yet our mill starts upon the same day as the Thief River Falls plant, located miles nearer the source of supply. Hereafter, our mill will be independent of low water as the dam between this point and St. Hilaire will do away with all difficulties in that part of the river, and driving from Thief River down to St. Hilaire is always easy. The mill is running very smoothly, having been put in tiptop shape by Supt. H. V. Smith.

Engineer, Sam Allard.
Oilsman W. F. Smith.
Sawyers—circular, John Utley; band, Fred Wilkins.
Filers—circular D. B. Tousley; band, Jas. La Moure.
~~Setters, Frank Lemay, Joe Hayten:~~
Edger, Eli Belair.
Yardmaster, Andrew Krough.
Lath mill, M. Nolan.
Millwright, B. Sivigny.
Blacksmith, Theo. Lapoint.

The planing mill is not running now, having worked up the old stock and being now in waiting for the new supply. The company has five million feet of logs in the lake, which can be brought down before the present supply is exhausted. The mill starting at this, the dullest time of the year will help out our workmen perceptibly, for the busy haying and harvest season will follow to give them continued employment.

◆

Married.

On Tuesday, at high noon, Mr. James Edward Ford and Miss Anna Berenice Pouliot were united in marriage, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. Pouliot, the Rev. E. Fayolle officiating. Miss Katherine Ford, a sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and Mr. Joseph Pouliot, a brother of the bride, was groomsman. After the ceremony, the party, which consisted of the immediate relatives of the principals sat down to a wedding dinner. The bride and groom then, in company with Mr. Joseph Pouliot, Misses Ford and Toupin, drove to Crookston, where the happy couple took the train for St. Paul and other Eastern points, on a ten days' wedding tour.

Both parties are prominent here, Miss Pouliot has been a resident of the city since infancy. Mr. Ford is the deputy county auditor, and is well known throughout the county.

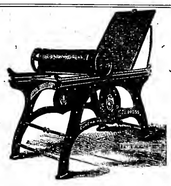
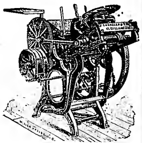
THE GAZETTE.

THE GAZETTE has reached a notch in its career of progress that has long been the ambition of its publisher,—printed on a new Reliance Babcock cylinder press, with a 2½ horse-power gasoline engine as the motive power, located in its own permanent home, and supplied with all the modern equipments for executing first class job work.

Eight years ago last week The Gazette was issued for the first time by the present publisher. The equipment was of the simplest and most inexpensive kind. We print a cut of the press then used—the Eureka Hand Cylinder. With this outfit the paper was published for something over four years, when we purchased the Red Lake County Journal published by M. P. Satterlee. The presses thus procured were a great improvement on the old outfit, and we deemed it, as it was, a stride ahead. The half medium Chandler & Price Old Style Gordon did excellent service as a newspaper press, giving a perfect print, but the process soon became too slow for our increasing circulation, as but one page of the paper at a time could be printed on this press, and the foot power was a laborious and slow process. We managed to peg along for over three years with this outfit, when we found the paper had again outgrown its clothes, and we resolved upon putting in a plant that would at once place us on an equal mechanical footing with the foremost country papers of the state. The result is highly satisfactory to us, and we feel that our steady advance in the past is a safe guarantee of what we can promise our patrons and the city for the future.



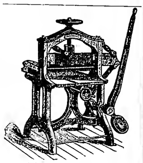
Our First Press.



Chandler & Price Jobber.

The building now occupied by The Gazette, and which was modeled and built by us expressly for this purpose, is as near perfection in the way of a country printing office as it is possible to get. Divided in two departments, the editorial and the mechanical, the composing room facing east, with a large glass front the full width of the building, while the editorial department, which will be divided into a private office and reception room, facing Main st. The building is 22x50. The front is of finest plate glass, and the building is surmounted by a tasty cupalo with flag staff.

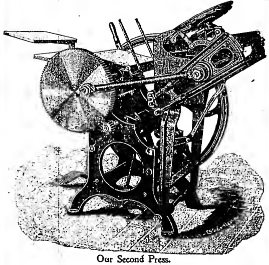
Now as to the mechanical equipment. The new machinery just put in place represents the ideal equipment for a country office, and together with what we had before, places us on equal footing with the leading offices of the state. The new press will print four pages of a six column paper at a time, at the rate of from 1500 to 1800 per hour.



Advance Paper Cutter.

So practical and simple is it, that any intelligent boy could soon learn to operate it. Perhaps the best feature, however, is its adaptability for job and book as well as newspaper work, for on it, by a little manipulation of the impression, can be printed jobs ranging in size and coarseness from the big Fourth of July poster to the dainty visiting card. In a few weeks we will discard the patent insides and print The Gazette all at home. The six column size will be retained, as this is our ideal for a country newspaper. When the pressure on our space makes it necessary to have more room we can add other pages.

The new Racine gasoline engine is a very important item on our macinery list, and furnishes power for both the news and job presses. It has both electric and tube ignitors and can be started at full speed in about half a minute, by turning three screws, and can be stopped as easily and quickly. For a printing office it has no equal, unless it be the electric motor. After the engine is started, it needs no engineer nor any regulation, and practically runs itself for an hour at a stretch.



Our Second Press.

Our job press is the popular Chandler & Price Gordon, which is conceded to be one of the very best presses on the market today. The same may be said as to the Advance paper cutter with which our office is supplied. In fact we may truthfully say, without boasting, that The Gazette plant, including the magnificent building, is one of the best planned, most complete and finest in the state, and that nowhere out of the larger cities will its equal be found. But it is none too good for Red Lake Falls, and is in fact merely on a par with the many other uptodate institutions here, which are the pride of our citizens and the wonder of strangers.

Our list of bonafide subscribers has increased to 950, and this gives The Gazette a good circulation which is mostly in Red Lake county.

The Gazette will now start out for another mile post in its career. Red Lake Falls and Red Lake county will be our watchword—the best little city and the best county in Northern Minnesota, and inhabited by a good and thrifty class of people, who are bound to make this part of the footstool the envy of the commonwealth.

Nearly Lost a Foot.

While out brushing Saturday afternoon Willie McNeathney, aged nine years, cut the toes and fore part of one of his feet nearly off, the axe cutting through the bone, and leaving merely the skin below. The little fellow was brought to the city and Dr. Watson dressed the wound. It is now thought that the foot will be saved, although there seemed to be but slight hope for this at first.

Local Telephone Exchange.

W. A. Schreiter has secured a franchise granting him the privilege of operating a local telephone exchange, and the first reading was passed before the city council last Thursday night. The need of such a system in this city, so scattered, has long been felt, and Mr. Schreiter's enterprise in pushing the matter to a conclusion will no doubt be appreciated to the extent of a liberal patronage on the part of the business institutions of the city.

Leased the Gooding Mill.

W. T. Spillane and Leo Steinert have leased the Gooding mill and after thoroughly overhauling it and putting in a No. 1 feed mill will be ready to grin feed the fore part of August and manufacture flour the beginning of the new crop. F. A. Gooding, who recently left for North Carolina, was in the city last week and closed the deal before his departure. Both Messrs. Spillane and Steinert are especially fitted to make a success of the undertaking, Mr. Spillane having for years been a wheat buyer here, and Mr. Steinert's experience as a miller dating back over 20 years.

A Farmer's Big Loss.

Charlie Richard, who lives on a farm a few miles southwest of town, has had a serious misfortune, in the loss of six head of stock, which strayed from his farm nearly two months ago. We trust that if any of our readers can give him information leading to their recovery they will do so. Following is a description of the lost stock:

One moolie cow, 3 years old, red: 1 two year old heifer, red, straight horns: one two year old spotted heifer, red and white: one heifer, two years old, mixed red and white; one one two year old heifer, nearly white, with red neck: one two year old heifer, red, white spot on forehead. All of these animals have a mark, a cut in the under part of the ear.

Disposition of a Child.

The question of a guardianship for little Ada Weitner, of Thief River Falls, is again up. Ada is a bright little three year old girl, whose mother is dead, and whose father has deserted, leaving her in the custody of the Bowen family. Citizens of Thief River Falls have petitioned Judge of Probate Knight to have her grandfather, Louis McMahon, appointed guardian, and to have the custody of the child.

Judge Knight has established a reputation for painstaking care in the discharge of the duties of his office, which often involve matters of the most delicate nature. In this case, he made a personal investigation, and is thus in position to bring his observations into play in arriving at a decision, for justice and equity are to be considered, in connection with the law. It was a fortunate day for the widows and orphans and others having business before the probate court, when Judge Knight was elected to this important position. He makes one of the ablest, most honest and fearless probate judges in the state.

County Commissioners' Meeting.

A special meeting of the board of County Commissioners was held on Monday and Tuesday, the principal matter for consideration being the Thief River Falls ditch, which was laid out through Norden and North, emptying into the Red Lake river at Thief River Falls. A strong delegation of farmers owning lands along the ditch and John Meier, chairman of the town board of North, were present to protest against the acceptance of the viewers' report, on the grounds that the cost of the ditch would be greater than the benefits to be derived. The claim was also made and substantiated that the services on the part of promotors of the ditch were defective and not legal. The commissioners decided to abandon the ditch.

The school petition of L. E. Erickson and others and Theo Lafaive and R. Robillatd and others were granted.

The application of J. J. Soll for liquor license at Wylie was laid on the table.

Emil Zeh was awarded contract for painting Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire bridges at $50 each, and Frank Freund for the Clearwater bridge at Red Lake Falls, at $50.

Bridge appropriations were made as follows, conditioned upon each township contributing a like amount: Louisville, Sanders, Lambert, River Falls, $100: Black River, $50.

School petition of Wm. Albrecht, was granted.

Board adjourned until the regular meeting, July 9th.

Stays Where it Belongs.

The county commissioners of Norman county held an interesting meeting at Ada Monday. The subject of moving the county seat from Ada to Twin Valley was brought up. The people of Twin Valley presented a petition to the board, having seventy more names than was necessary to require the board to submit the matter to a vote. Everything suddenly assumed another aspect, however, when the Ada people presented a list of 100 withdrawals to the petition. Nothing was left for the board to do but to drop the matter.

We have on hand a carload of vitrified Sewer pipe suitable for culverts and drainage. Township boards should carefully consider whether it is not cheaper to use this material for making their culverts. It is not effected by frost and with proper care will last forever.

Geo. Peck, who owns the lots on the corner of Main and First streets, was in the city Saturday, and is thinking seriously of putting up a brick block 50x100 feet, for use of Anderson Bros., the furniture men. Mr. Anderson says his present quarters is too limited, and business is growing so that he needs room to expend. His brother, who is a member of the firm, will arrive shortly from Henning, when their plans, which are at present in a an embryonic state, will be perfected.

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER

PHIL. A. KAUFER.

HILL'S LATEST.

Of James J. Hill's latest big undertaking the Northwestern Lumberman says:

"President Hill, of the Great Northern railway, has announced that as soon as his large vessels are completed on the Pacific, he will make a through rate of not more than $5 per ton from Buffalo to points in China and Japan. He will have his own vessels on the lakes, his own railroad and his own vessels on the Pacific. Only two transfers will be necessary, one at Duluth and the other at Puget Sound, and he will get all the revenue himself. The present rate on flour is about $18 per ton from points between New York and Minneapolis to Orient. As the rate from the Pacific coast to China is only $6 per ton the mills of the middle section of the country have not been able to compete, but if this new rate, which Mr. Hill says he will reduce to $7 if necessary, is made, the mills of this part of the country can go after the trade of the east with some hope of getting their full share."

Commenting on which the St. Cloud Journal Press says:

If the surplus wheat west of the Mississippi can find a market in Asia instead of Europe, it means an advance in price of at least 10 cents a bushel and perhaps more. All the surplus wheat west of the Rocky mountains is now sent to Liverpool in sailing vessels and is then sold at auction to the English brokers, who get it practically at their own price which of course holds down the price of all the wheat in this country. If this Westren wheat is kept away from England, it will create a shortage and higher prices

A person is known by the company he keeps, and frequently, as the humorist puts it, by the company he keeps out of. Be careful in choosing your associates. Never make friends—acquaintances would be a better word—with those whose language, habits or general bearing you would be ashamed to see in your own home. If you do you are sure to be the sufferer. The person of low taste and conduct is much less likely to be benefited by others' superior ways than is one degraded to his level. Such, unfortunately is the law of nature. Let a drop of milk fall into a pail of water. It is lost in a moment. But let fall a drop of black ink in the same water and its presence will soon be noticeable. A rotten apple will taint a whole barrel of sound fruit, but who would think of putting a good apple with decayed fruit for the purpose of making them sound again? This does not mean that virtue has no leavening influence, but simply that it is easier to go down hill than up. So do not keep questionable company. If you cannot find the right kind of associates, the kind that will make you nobler and better, be sufficient unto yourself. Live with your books and worthies of all time who are so willing to give you through their pages a friendship greater and benigner than that of kings.

The Populist congressional convention for the 7th district will be held at Fergus Falls on Saturday, June 23. A rate of one third fare for the round trip has been made by both the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads. The contest for the nomination has narrowed down to two—Holston, of Crookston, and Aaker, of Moorhead. Aaker has been nominated by the Prohibitionists and has accepted the nomination. This will work to Holston's advantage. He claims seventy votes to start with, and it requires eighty-five to nominate.

One is Quick to Suspect Where he has Suffered Harm Before.

Perhaps there are some business men in the town who have tried advertising and found the results unsatisfactory.

A convincing story should be told. A plant will not grow unless it is tended. An impression cannot be made upon the purchasing public except by careful, persistent work.

Many merchants err grievously in believing that time spent upon their ads is time wasted. No time is more profitable.

We believe the advertising columns of The Gazette can be used profitably by any one who seeks to reach the buyers of this community.

RED LAKE FALLS, MINN.

It is highly important that Red Lake Falls make a good showing of population as a result of the census being taken, and therefore it behooves every citizen to assist the enumerator in every possible way. If we can show a population of 2000 to 2500, we will have done well. In 1895 the figures were 1002, and few cities in Minnesota will be able to point to a like increase—a doubling of the population in five years' time. On the other hand, if we fall below the 2000 mark we will lose much prestige. Our classification will not have changed, but will remain among the list of cities having under 2000 population. The importance of making a good showing can readily be appreciated when it is remembered that not until 1905 will another census be taken.

M. K. Wall was down from Thief River Falls yesterday.

T. Mousseau, father of the unfortunate youth who was drowned at St. Hilaire last Thursday, was in the city Monday, enroute home from Red Lake. Mr. Mousseau did not arrive in time for his son's funeral.

The tug boat Martin Lally has succeeded in placing two million feet of logs of the Red Lake Falls Lumber Company into the Red Lake river, and there will be no trouble in getting these down before the supply is exhausted here. Our saw mill is the exception this year, in that it is running when about every mill in the state is shut down, and a fancy price will no doubt be secured for the output, which is good for the Company and for Red Lake Falls.

If you were sure that you could find a medicine that would drive away the impurities in your blood, put color in your cheeks and give life and vim to you, you would be glad to pay a dollar a box for it. Kola Celery Tea is that medicine, and if it does not do as claimed you may have your money back. 25c at the druggist's.

Mrs. E. F. Marshall is in receipt of a letter from Norman Perkins, superintendent of the railway mail service, that the matter of establishing a star route between this point and Crookston has been deferred until the return of the assistant, who is now in Montana. The gentleman will, upon his return to this state, make this place a personal visit, when the awfulness of the situation will no doubt move him to act favorably upon our petition.

To-day we have received a very choice assortment of these well known imported gloves. The new shades are very handsome in Tans, Modes, Grays and Reds. Every pair warranted. Bangs & Co.

If so, something was the trouble. Contracting for space in a newspaper is not enough.

When secured the space must be used to advantage.

A convincing story should be told. A plant will not grow unless it is tended. An impression cannot be made upon the purchasing public except by careful, persistent work.

Many merchants err grievously in believing that time spent upon their ads is time wasted. No time is more profitable.

We believe the advertising columns of The Gazette can be vsed profitably by any one who seeks to reach the buyers of this community.

* * *

It is highly important that Red Lake Falls make a good showing of population as a result of the census being taken, and therefore it behooves every citizen to assist the enumerator in every possible way. If we can show a population of 2000 to 2500, we will have done well. In 1895 the figures were 1002, and few cities in Minnesota will be able to point to a like increase—a doubling of the population in five years' time. On the other hand, if we fall below the 2000 mark we will lose much prestige. Our classification will not have changed, but will remain among the list of cities having under 2000 population. The importance of making a good showing can readily be appreciated when it is remembered that not until 1905 will another census be taken.

Nearly Lost a Foot.

While out brushing Saturday afternoon Willie McNeithney, aged nine years, cut the toes and fore part of one of his feet nearly off, the axe cutting through the bone, and leaving merely the skin below. The little fellow was brought to the city and Dr. Watson dressed the wound. It is now thought that the foot will be saved, although there seemed to be but slight hope for this at first.

Local Telephone Exchange.

W. A. Schreiter has secured a franchise granting him the privilege of operating a local telephone exchange, and the first reading was passed before the city council last Thursday night. The need of such a system in this city, so scattered, has long been felt, and Mr. Schreiter's enterprise in pushing the matter to a conclusion will no doubt be appreciated to the extent of a liberal patronage on the part of the business institutions of the city.

Leased the Gooding Mill.

W. T. Spillane and Leo Steinert have leased the Gooding mill and after thoroughly overhauling it and putting in a No. 1 feed mill will be ready to grin feed the fore part of August and manufacture flour the beginning of the new crop. F. A. Gooding, who recently left for North Carolina, was in the city last week and closed the deal before his departure. Both Messrs. Spillane and Steinert are especially fitted to make a success of the undertaking, Mr. Spillane having for years been a wheat buyer here, and Mr. Steinert's experience as a miller dating back over 20 years.

A Farmer's Big Loss.

Charlie Richard, who lives on a farm a few miles southwest of town, has had a serious misfortune, in the loss of six head of stock, which strayed from his farm nearly two months ago. We trust that if any of our readers can give him information leading to their recovery they will do so. Following is a description of the lost stock:

One moolie cow, 3 years old, red: 1 two year old heifer, red, straight horns: one two year old spotted heifer, red and white: one heifer, two years old, mixed red and white: one one two year old heifer, nearly white, with red-neck: one two year old heifer, red, white spot on forehead. All of these animals have a mark, a cut in the under part of the ear.

Disposition of a Child.

The question of a guardianship for little Ada Weitner, of Thief River Falls, is again up. Ada is a bright little three year old girl, whose mother is dead, and whose father has deserted, leaving her in the custody of the Bowen family. Citizens of Thief River Falls have petitioned Judge of Probate Knight to have her grandfather, Louis McMahon, appointed guardian, and to have the custody of the child.

Judge Knight has established a reputation for painstaking care in the discharge of the duties of his office, which often involve matters of the most delicate nature. In this case, he made a personal investigation, and is thus in position to bring his observations into play in arriving at a decision, for justice and equity are to be considered, in connection with the law. It was a fortunate day for the widows and orphans and others having business before the probate court, when Judge Knight was elected to this important position. He makes one of the ablest, most honest and fearless probate judges in the state.

County Commissioners' Meeting.

A special meeting of the board of County Commissioners was held on Monday and Tuesday, the principal matter for consideration being the Thief River Falls ditch, which was laid out through Norden and North, emptying into the Red Lake river at Thief River Falls. A strong delegation of farmers owning lands along the ditch and John Meier chairman of the town board of North, were present to protest against the acceptance of the viewers' report, on the grounds that the cost of the ditch would be greater than the benefits to be derived. The claim was also made and substantiated that the services on the part of promotors of the ditch were defective and not legal. The commissioners decided to abandon the ditch.

The school petition of L. E. Erickson and others and Theo Lafalve and R. Robillatd and others were granted.

The application of J. J. Soll for liquor license at Wylie was laid on the table.

Emil Zeh was awarded contract for painting Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire bridges at $50 each, and Frank Freund for the Clearwater bridge at Red Lake Falls, at $60.

Bridge appropriations were made as follows, conditioned upon each township contributing a like amount: Louisville, Sanders, Lambert, River Falls, $100; Black River, $50.

School petition of Wm. Albrecht, was granted.

Board adjourned until the regular meeting, July 9th.

Stays Where It Belongs.

The county commissioners of Norman county held an interesting meeting at Ada Monday. The subject of moving the county seat from Ada to Twin Valley was brought up. The people of Twin Valley presented a petition to the board, having seventy more names than was necessary to require the board to submit the matter to a vote. Everything suddenly assumed another aspect, however, when the Ada people presented a list of 100 withdrawals to the petition. Nothing was left for the board to do but to drop the matter.

CAUGHT WITH HER PARAMOUR

MRS. CYRILLE LE COE, WHO DESERTED HER FAMILY, IS FOUND.

LIVING IN DULUTH AS THE WIFE OF ARCHIE LACOURSIERE.

Radiant as a rose in June, she went fluffling down the glistening towpath that leads to police court, wearing a swagger gown, and hat that would have been a dream of ecstatic loveliness, if it hadn't closely resembled a case of convalescent hysterics. She was in the custody of an officer, and close in her wake came another officer with an excited and trembling Frenchman.

Her noticeable bouyancy of spirits and beaming happiness was in glittering contrast with her deeply surcharged exression of bitterness and gloom. Neither of them looked like disturbers, but the police say that both are entitled to honorary membership in the Order for the Promotion of Riots.

The specific charge against them was that they foolishly imagined that they were each other's affinity. They were born the whole wide world apart but thought considerable each of the other's being. They came to Duluth, escaping wreck, defying death, to read life's meaning in each other's eyes, contrary to the statues of the state of Minnesota. They were not even entitled to a ceremony with orange blossoms and the muffled chimes of weding bells, for according to the police. Mrs. Vetline Coe left her happy home, a husband and five children at Red Lake Falls, Minn., when she eloped and came to Duluth with Archie Lacoursiere.

It was only another case of being happy till she met him. With her husband and family she lived at Red Lake Falls for some years, till Archie Lequisire took up a farm near by. Then Mrs. Coe cordially detested her husband for many weary weeks. When they sat at the same table icicles formed on the chandelier and the soup froze in their plates. One night Mrs. Coe and Lacoursiere mysteriosly disappeared. That was last September and they have been living at 278 Third avenue East ever since. It was only last week that a woman living in the flat above the eloping couple being angry with Mrs. Coe and knowing something of the family skeleton, wrote the anxious husband at Red Lake Falls. He struck town on Monday evening and went whirling madly up to the address given. Instead of going to the door of his wife's worst enemy, he rapped loudly at the Lacoursiere flat, met the glittering gaze of a dark eyed lady and balking violently he backed away from the house. The elopers got out and away while Mr. Coe was hunting up the police station, and since Monday night detectives have watched the house, but they did not return till this morning. They were hastily packing up their household effects when two officers dropped in on them.

The charge against them is of such a serious nature that they were not entitled to enter a plea in police court and their examination was set for Monday morning in each case with the bail fixed.

Stag Party.

A very enjoyable Stag party was held Monday night at the Bicycle parlors. The principle amusement consisted in eating a quart of ice cream apiece.

Bismark's Iron Nerve

Was the result of his splendid health. Indomitable will and tremendous energy are not found where Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Bowels are out of order. If you want these qualities and the success they bring, use Dr. King's New Life Pills. They develop every power of brain and body. Only 25 cents at W. A. Schreiter's drug store.

Democratic County Convention.

That the Democrats of Red Lake county are awake was evident last Thursday, when delegates to the number of thirty met in convention for the purpose of nominating delegates to the state and congressional conventions.

W. T. Spillane was elected chairman and M. K. Wall secretary.

W. T. Spillane, Dan Linnehan, Theo LaBissouiere, J. W. Peterson, P. G. Paradis, James Meehan, N. W. Tarrant, C. C. Jackson, M. K. Wall, M. Skala, Fred Borchers, J. W. McGinty, Wm. P. O'Brien, and H. W. Lee.

S. T. Johnson, of Thief River Falls, who wants to be register of deeds, brought up the matter of fusion with the Populists, and a discussion followed, which brought out the impression that fusion could not be effected, the Democrats wanting the nomination for representative for James Meehan: of attorney, for H. W. Lee, of Thief River Falls; of sheriff, for T. R. Dargan, and of Supt. of School, for Jas. Taylor, of this city. Chairman Spillane was instructed to appoint a ways and means committee to consider these matters, but it was understood that any overtures as to fusion must come from the Populists.

It is evident that W. T. Spillane, of this city, is the recognized leader of Red Lake county Democracy, and he was given power to appoint the congressional delegates and also to select a county central committee, with himself the chairman, and one member from each voting precinct.

Hen Party.

Miss Henrietta Zaiser entertained her young lady friends exclusively Monday night, at what she termed a "Hen Party." Progressive cinch was the amusement, and the score cards were bits of bristol artistically cut and painted in the form of a hen. The head prize was a doily, won by Miss Alice Newton: the booby prize, an egg, was carried off by Miss Ellen Brady. Vocal and instrumental music, dancing and cake walking, were also enjoyed. Delicious refreshments, sherbet, lemonade and cake, were served, with ice cream in reserve. The young ladies preferring the sherbet, the ice cream was not noticed by Mis. Zaiser, who had the courses in charge. After the party had broken up and the guests dispersed, the cream was noticed to have been mysteriously spirited away. It is thought that the cream must have been taken early in the evening, and it is strangely fortunate that all of the guests preferred sherbet, and declined cream. The party was such a success that the young ladies will probably organize a hen club, and one of the features will be sherbet, and no cream.

Those present were Misses Lillie and Alice Buse, Margaret and Ellen Brady, Florence and Alice Newton, Gertrude Hennemuth, Bessie Hunt, Mamie Kaufer, Mayme McNerthney and Jane Martin.

The Drainage Convention.

The Drainage convention at Crookston Tuesday was largely attended. Delegates from 11 counties were present and resolutions recommending the construction of reservoirs at Red Lake and Lake Traverse at the expense of the government, and the opening to settlement of all that part of the diminished Red Lake Indian reservation in the counties of Marshall and Red Lake, and the Minnesota delegation in congress was urged to use their united effors to secure these ends. Also that all state legislators from these counties be, and are hereby respectfully requested to make an effort to obtain from the state and from the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroad companies further appropriatinns and donations for the construction of drainage ditches and the shortening and improvement of natural water courses in said counties.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich. tells how such a slave was made free. He says; "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by W. A. Schreiter, Druggist.

CREAMERY STARTS NEXT MONDAY.

THE FIRST CREAMERY ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED IN THE COUNTY.

After persistent effort, and many discouragements, the creamery is an accomplished fact, and the first butter will be made next Monday.

The farmers and patrons interested met at the city hall Thursday afternoon to perfect the organization. The complete list of officers is as follows:

Vice President, Paul Rieck.
Secretary, Wilfrid Lemieux.
Treasurer, Theo. Majeres.
Directors—J. B. Demarais, Wm. Schaper, Dolphis Patnaude.

The membership is thirty one. Every encouragement has been given by our business men. The money has been secured from Dr. Pinault through Cashier Garceau, of the First State Bank, at 8½ per cent., although he had the privilege of charging ten per cent., and the farmers are duly appreciative of these favors.

A Pleasant Event.

Miss Mamie Kaufer was At Home to her friends Thursday night, when she entertained at progressive cinch. Dainty refreshments, vocal and instrumental music were also on the program, and a delightful time is reported. Prizes were awarded as follows: Lady's head prize, Miss Agnes Garceau, fancy plate and mug; booby, Miss Bessie Hunt, cream pitcher; gent's head prize, Joe Sally, cuff and collar case; booby, J. J. Padden, baby rattle.

Red Lake Falls is proud of her school as we ought to be. Under the present management, no school in the northwest has a brighter future. It is characteristic of Minnesota towns and villages to have fine public school buildinga. The first thing thought of in all these places is a school. As the towns grow, the schools keep pace with them. It is a common thing to see graded schools in towns of 1,500 to 4,000 inhabitants that compare favorably with the so-balled seminaries of the Fast. Money is expended freely in the employment of competent teachers, and the schools themselves are supplied with every known facility in health and in educational lines. Money is never expended grudgingly on Minnesota schools whether they be in town or country; and this is one thing that makes it so pleasant a state to live in.

RedLakeFalls should have a starch factory. Now that the creamery has been organized, it would be well for our enterprising farmers to look into this matter. Wisconsin is doing wonders in the manufacture of starch. Two Waupaca factories grind 200,000 bushels of potatoes a year while a factory at Stevens Point will use 105,000 bushels in the spring run. These factories make starch exclusively from potatoes, paying sixteen cents per bushel for culls and up to the highest market price warranted in the manufacture of starch. Recently a carload of starch flour sold for three and three quarters cents per pound. At a large meeting of the representative farmers of Burnett County held in Grantsburg recently, it was decided to build a farmers'co-operate potato starch factory in that village, to be known as the Farmers' Starch Factory of Burnett County. A committee on incorporation was appointed and as soon as a sufficient amount or stock is disposed of, the building will be erected. They expect to grind this season's crop. The capital stock is $15,000.

Official Weather Crop Bulletin.

In the Red River Valley as far south as Clay and Becker counties there was no rain during the week; elsewhere there were scattered showers on different days, differing greatly in amount except in southeastern counties, though in this latter district there were good rains on the 9th. The heaviest rains seem to have extended from about Mc Leod county southwestward to Nobles, Rock and Pipestone counties. These local rains have given relief at last temporarily to many sections, especially south of Minnesota river, but notwithstanding this, the drought has had a very serious effect, on all small grains, grass for hay, pastures and early flax. Except in the northern counties, spring wheat, oats and barley are beginning to head but it is said that the heads are very short. Owing to the failure of the stooling process the stand is thin, and the straw is so short that there must be great loss in gathering the ripened crop. Some correspondents think that abundant rains will greatly benefit all small grains, but it is hardly probable that there can be any benefit to those plants that have begun to shoot, further than the better filling of the heads. The late sown grains are very poor. It is believed that a good flax crop can yet be raised if good rains come soon. Pastures and grass fields are dry and short. Some clover is being cut in the southeastern counties where the conditions have not been so bad. Early corn and potatoes look well where they have had good care. Abundant rains coming soon will help corn, pastures, potatoes forage, crops and gardens.

Berhaos there are some business men in the town who have tried advertising and found the results unsatisfactory.

If so, something was the trouble. Contracting for space in a newspaper is not enough.

When secured the space must be used to advantage.

A convincing story should be told. A plant will not grow unless it is tended. An impression cannot be made upon the purchasing public except by careful, persistent work.

Many merchants err grievously in believing that time spent upon their ads is time wasted. No time is more profitable.

We believe the advertising columns of The Gazette can be vsed profitably by any one who seeks to reach the buyers of this community.

Board reconvened.

All members present.

Hearing was then had on school petition of L O Erickson and others.

Motion made by Hansen, seconded by Johnson, that the same be granted, and on motion carried unanimously, the following order was made:

Order Altering Boundaries of School Districts.

County of Red Lake

The petition of L. C. Erickson and others, who constitute a majority of the freeholders who are legal voters residing in district No. 10 in said county, asking that the boundaries of such districts be altered, having been presented to the board of county commissioners of said Red Lake county, and the county superintendent of schools having indorsed thereon his written approval thereof, and the county commissioners having appointed a time and place for a hearing upon said petition, and due notice thereof having been given as by law required, and it appearing that no other school district will be affected thereby.

"That the schoolhouse in Dist. No. 81 is 3½ miles from my place, and the school house in Dist. No. 27 is only 1½ miles from my place, said distance of 3½ miles to the school house in district No. 81 is too far to send children to school."

Was presented to the board of county commissioners of this county, at a session of said board held on the 30th day of April, A. D. 1900, for the action of said board thereon; and whereas, it was thereupon ordered by said board, that a hearing should be had on said petition at a session of said board, commencing on the 11th day of June, A. A Maiden's Reverie.

"Revenge is sweet" so is ice cream. That is the opinion of the poor young men who were so sad at being overlooked on the occasion of a recent Hen—no, we mean Chicken party. Goaded beyond endurance at such an oversight on the part of the maidens fair, they, the young men, decided to lie in ambush. It it not known whether that was all the lieing done or not—and to take what revenge or anything else that lay around loose. A favorable opportunity presented itself when the young maids were in the parlor making the welkin ring with strains of "Without You Love, Oh Let me Die," and "Where are the Wandering Boys To-night." With stealthy footsteps those same wandering boys wandered away with the freezer of ice cream and now the young maidens are wondering if select Hen parties are a success or not.

Signed, SHERBET.

TRY FODDER CORN.

OFFICIAL RECOMMENDATIONS TO FARMERS ANENT THE DROUTH.

STILL TIME TO RAISE A FODDER CROP, BUT NOT A DAY TO BE LOST.

The drouth has cut the hay crop in two. The grain yields will be seriously reduced. Farmers must look to stock for their year's profits. The greatest crop for profit is fodder corn. It may be planted as late as July 1. By putting in a crop of fodder corn profits on live stock can be saved. Plow and drill crib corn on fields containing unpromising grain. Every acre of fodder corn planted before July 1 will winter five head of stock. Fodder corn is better feed than timothy hay. Common dent corn is our best variety for fodder corn. Plant thickly in drills and cultivate.

Severe drouth early in the season brings to the farmers of Minnesota a new problem in field and farm management. The hay crop will be so short that livestock must be sacrificed if something cannot yet be done to produce cheap rough feed. Common corn planted thickly for fodder is the best of all substitutes for hay. It is our best hay crop. Numerous experiments show that thickly grown fodder corn is a better feed than timothy hay. It can be planted early in July and cut for fodder in September, producing a good yield. This plan has been extensively tried by dairymen and others and all agree that it is a success. The State Experiment station uses it extensively for dairy and other cattle and for sheep and horses. Ten to 20 tons of green corn, or four to seven tons of cured fodder corn can be secured from an acre.

HOW TO PLANT CORN.

A field should at once be made ready by plowing under wheat, oats, barley or other crop which the drouth has cut short. Harrow the soil and plant a bushel per acre if all the seed or two bushels if only 50 per cent. germinate after test. Use the common grain drill, allowing two tubes to be open for every row, with three feet between for cultivator. Plant so as to have a stalk every three inches apart in each drill in the double row, and thus secure a heavy yield of fine stalks and blades. A one horse corn drill, or a furrow into which the corn is strewn thickly by hand, are other good methods of planting fodder corn. A potato planter on which a man rides and lets the corn run from his hand, will put the seed deep in the moist furrow, where it will germinate. The corn should be drilled at this season of the year two, three, or even four inches deep in dry soils.

MANAGEMENT OF THE CROP.

Harrow across the rows till the corn is six inches high, then cultivate till three feet high. When the lower leaves begin to turn brown, or when the frost threatens, harvest the crop. The corn binder is by far the best machine. The common binder will do well in short corn. Where necessary the hand knife can be used. Stand the bundles up in medium sized or small shocks and tie at the top with binding twine. In two weeks small shocks may be collected into large shocks, as far across as the stalks are long, that the blades may be protected and remain green and palatable. These shocks may be left in the field till wanted for feeding; or the fodder may be drawn to the barn yard and placed in narrow stacks or in large shocks; or if very dry it may be mowed away in hay bays.

This fodder may be used, cut or uncut, as hay; or the green, uncured fodder corn may be stored in a silo and used to better advantage, as its succulency will make possible the profitable use of larger quantities of wheat and oats straw, which will probably be abundant even this year.

Write for Press Bulletin No. 10, on Fodder Corn, from which this summarized statement is made, addressing Director Wm. M. Liggett, Experiment Station, St. Anthony Park, Minn.

Gentry's Show.

Gentry Bros.' Trained Animal Show exhibited at Red Lake Falls both morning and evening, yesterday, and drew large audiences at each performance, this show being next to a circus in point of attractiveness to the general public. Gentry Bros. own four of these aggregations which show in different parts of the country simultaneously, and which are as near alike as it is possible to get them. For instance, each of the shows has two small elephants, named Pinto and Alice; the same number of dogs, ponies and elephants, the names all corresponding. The exhibition is well worthy of patronage—a marvel, in fact, and the trained animals possess almost human intelligence, seemingly understanding everything the trainer says to them, and he is talking incessantly.

The Crop Outlook.

Editor of The Gazette:

I have been making a trip through the county and find the crop prospects not so bad as represented last week. Wherever the soil is of a heavy loam nature with a clay subsoil the prospects are fair for a fifty or sixty per cent. crop. Only on very sandy fields are the crops beyond redemption. The several showers of last week that passed over various parts of the county had a very refreshing effect, and if we could have a prolonged, general rain within the next few days the farmers would do as well as usual, the crop shortage being more than compensated for in the advance of price.

The tap roots of wheat have gone down after the moisture until they are frequently found to be seven and eight inches long. The stand is poor as the wheat has not stooled as much as usual and the straw will be short. This in connection with the inevitable shortage in the grass crop, will make fodder scarce and will have a bad effect on the live stock interests of the country. But things are much brighter than has been represented.

D. F. Stacy.

And a Rooster Appeared.

Misses Kate and Janette Martin entertained at progressive cinch Friday night, at the home of their sister, Mrs. Theo. LaBissoniere, the feature of the party being that only young ladies were present. About 10:30, just as the fair maidens, radiant in their summer costumes, and as beautiful as a collection of butterflies, had gotten settled down to solid enjoyment of the game, content in the knowledge that the ice cream was safe, (extra precautions having been taken to insure this desirable state of affairs) they were thrown into a state of consternation, as a big rooster was landed into the parlor in some mysterious manner, doubtless by the young men who felt aggrieved at the skill displayed by the hostess in concealing the ice cream. The rooster wore an elegantly-fitting pair of pantaloons, and was otherwise decorated with long, flowing ribbons, in fact was clad in correct party clothes. Mr. Rooster evidently felt right at home at the Hen Party, strutting about the rooms in a very unconcerned and dignified manner, so that the young ladies were convulsed with merriment, and proceeded to clip his plumage for souvenirs of the occasion.

The head prize, a tea set, was won by Miss Lorena Schreiter; the booby prize, a mug and egg, by Miss Kate Martin.

Those present were Misses Mamie Kanfer, May, Lillie and Alice Buse, Mayme McNerthney, Henrietta Zaiser, Bessie Hunt, Lorena Schreiter, Florence Newton and Maggie Brady. We understand this is the last Hen Party of the season.

INDIANS 22, SELECTS 6

THE BALL GAME SUNDAY WAS A BAD DEFEAT FOR OUR NINE.

WERE NEVER IN IT AT ANY STAGE OF A VERY DRY GAME.

Lost the Game.

Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls played the second game of the season on the grounds in this city Sunday, and the result was the worst drubbing ever sustained by our Selects, who have won a reputation to be proud of. The whole trouble was that our boys were tired out from the celebration the day before, most of them having attended the St. John's Day celebration at Terrebonne and danced until morning. This was not calculated to give the proper vim for the game following, and a score of 6 to 22 in favor of the Indians is the result. The attendance was not as large as usual, as there was no excursion, all those here from the outside having driven down. The new grand-stand was liberally patronized, and filled a long felt want. The game can be enjoyed when spectators have comfortable seats and do not need to devote most of their time to dodging fouls. This little reverse will not discourage our team, because it is well understood that they have the timber necessary to do up the best of 'em, all things being equal, and it is not every day that they are called upon to go against a St. John's Day celebration at Terrebonne. The score is as follows:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9

Earned runs, Indians 8, Selects 2; Bases on balls, off Browning 2, off Woolf 2; Hit by pitched balls, by Woolf 1; Struck out, by Browning 5, by Woolf 8; left on bases, Indians 5, Selects 3; double plays, Smith to Drinkwine; time 2 hrs. 15 min. Umpire, Campbell.

The Selects looked swell in their new blue uniforms.

Clearwater Drive.

The comparatively high water in the Clearwater river the past few days has been a source of wonderment, for previous to last Thursday there was scarcely enough water left to permit of a bath. The gates were opened at the big dam at the headwaters the Monday previous, and the drives started down. It is claimed that the dams there can supply sufficient water to make possible the driving, but we doubt it. Several dams have been constructed by Lammers Bros. at a cost of nearly fifty thousand dollars and a force of 250 men is to be put on the drive. The Red Lake Falls Lumber Company is interested in Clearwater pine to the extent of several million feet.

St. John's Day.

The Feast of St. John the Baptist, which falls on the 24th of June, is dear to the heart of the French Canadian, and for the past twenty three years it has been customary to celebrate the day with great eclat at some point in the Colony, extending over a radius of many miles, to the east, west and south of Red Lake Falls. In former years the day as observed here took upon itself the appearance of a veritable Fourth of July celebration. This year the Woodmen of Terrebonne inaugurated great preparations for the event and took occasion to dedicate their newly-completed hall, which is a credit to them and stands as a monument to their enterprise. Although it was one of the most scorching hot days of the season, an immense crowd congregated, and the good people of Terrebonne as usual did not do things by halves, but furnished all amusement for every moment of the day. The dinner and supper prepared by the ladies was especially fine. In the afternoon speeches were made by O. Tessier, of Minneapolis, Chas. E. Boughton and Van R. Brown, of this city. The affair netted the Woodmen sufficient to help materially in clearing their hall, while everybody in attendance was more than pleased, voting the Terrebonne people once more as among the best on earth and alright in every respect.

DALY NOMINATED.

The Populist congressional convention for this, the Seventh district, was held at Fergus Falls Saturday last, and resulted in the nomination of Senator M. J. Daly, of Fergus Falls, on the fifth ballot.

This nomination, while given to a man who did not desire it, and after a public statement to that effect, published some time ago, and reiterated personally to the delegates at this convention, is a surprise to no one at all conversant with the conditions. The candidates desiring the nomination were A. R. Holston, of Crookston, Mayor Aaker, of Moorhead, and T. C. Hodgson, of Grant county. Mayor Aaker is already the Prohibitionist congressional nominee, and has accepted that nomination. This, in the minds of practical politicians, put him out of the race. A. R. Holston, on the other hand, did not have the home backing desirable to make a winning candidate, at least this is the theory on which the convention acted, and Daly was taken up as a man who could unite all the forces, as the fight had narrowed down to Holston and Aaker, and the nomination of either would have left a bitterness that is not apparent with Daly the choice. Holston was further handicapped from the fact that he is a Crookston man, and twice before has a Crookston Populist congressional nominee gone down to defeat. Daly will no doubt be endorsed by the Democrats, and it will be the fusion forces against the Republicans, same as before. Daly is a strong candidate, and congressman Eddy has met his match, and a foeman worthy of his steel.

It seems that Aaker persists in remaining in the field, and will make the race on the prohibition ticket. Haldor E. Boen, the referendum nominee of the Mid-Road Populists also persits in running. An effort will be made to have these two candidates withdraw.

The convention that nominated Daly was a very interesting one. Mr. Strandbery, of Kandiyohi, nominated T. C. Hodgson of Grant county. County Attorney Nye, of Clay county, nominated Mayor Aaker. Legessman of Crookston nominated County Attorney A. R. Holston of Polk county. Harry Ives nominated Senator Daly. Mr. Daly arose and stated that he was not and would not become a candiate for congress He preferred to remain in the state senate and serve out his term. C. F. Hanson said that Mr. Daly was the only man in the district who would stand any show of defeating congressman Eddy and that he should be nominated regardless of his wishes. The first ballot resulted in 48 votes for Holston, 44 for Hodgson, 41 for Aaker and 22 for Daly. On the second ballot Daly's strength increased to 31 and Holston reduced to 42. On the third there was practially no change. On the fourth Daly received 61, Aaker 51, and Holston 39 and Hanson 4. On the fith Daly received 95, Aaker 45, and Holston 15. The defeated candidates then made Mr. Daly's nomination unanimous. The platform adopted indorses the Sioux Falls platform and populism generally, lauds Bryan, denounces imperialism and declares that all peoples that are not fit to become citizens of the United States should be given selfgovernment; declares for bimetalism without making any reference to ratio, denounces trusts and favors an income and inheritance tax.

The following kind words from the Crookston Times will be appreciated by all of Mr. Fortier's many friends:

Commissioner Remi Fortier has decided to stand for renomination as member of the county board, and his record of past public service is such that every voter in his district is warranted in supporting him in the convention and at the polls. He has been attentive at all times to the interests of his constituents both in the city and country, and all his official acts have been shaped with a desire to serve all honorably and with eminent fairness. To Mr. Fortier in great measure is due the fact that the county's finances are in such satisfactory condition, and his experience in the management of the affairs of the board is too valuable to be dispensed with at this time.

Happily Married.

On Tuesday morning at ten o'clock occurred the marriage of Mr. Joseph Ganthier to Miss Ragina Sauve, of Terrebonne, in St. Anthony's church of that place, the Rev. Fr. Roy officiating. At 12 o'clock the wedding party, to the number of 124, sat down to an elegant repast, prepared by the bride's mother. Mr. Gauthier, the groom, is one of the solid young farmers of Terrebonne, while the bride is the eldest daughter of Xavier Sauve, one of the best and most popular farmers of Terrebonne. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Crompe, and Mr. and Mrs. J. M Bray, of this city. The young people received many beautiful and costly presents. The Gazette joins with their many friends in extending congratulations.

Says the Fargo Forum: A Red Lake Falls man proposes the formation of a farmer's trust—the object being to raise the price of wheat to seventy-five cents per bushel and making that the minimum. It is evident that when P. E. Pirath, of this city, conceived the idea of forming the farmers' organization to control the price of wheat, he started on the road to fame. All that was thereafter necessary for him to do was to publish his ideas in the Gazette, and this he wisely did. Our exchanges from Coast to Coast, and from Manitoba to the Gulf, have commented upon it, and the concensus of opinion seems to be that harder things than this have been accomplished. It is evident that the country awaits with bated breath the next move on the chess board.

Crookston Tribune: A. R. Fuller says that it is nearly time for the fish to arrive from the state fish hatchery at St. Paul, which will be put in Maple Lake to stock that beautiful body of water, around which a very popular summer resort is sprung up, and which is growing in attractiveness each year. Mr. Fuller has received word that no pike can be had this year with which to stock the lake, but that bass and croppies will be sent about the first of July. The lake already abounds in pickerel and perch and in a short time, if everything works according to plans, other fish will be found. Last year 3,000 bass were put in. It is the intention later in the season to put in large fish from surrounding lakes in addition to the small fish put in earlier in the season. The many people who take their summer outing at Maple Lake are much interested in the piscatorial development of that body of water.

The Red Lake Falls Fire Department, which is taking part in the tournament at Fosston, came very nearly carrying off the banner, which is won in the Association Hose Race. The race was won over the nearest competitor by two seconds, but time was lost in making the coupling. They came out second. While we would all wish the boys had won first place, still, they have done well, considering that they are the youngest department in the Association. The first prize is the Championship Banner, value, $45; and cash, $35; the second prize, won by our company, is $20.00. Bemidji gets the tournament next year.

D., 1882, by Alfred Doutre and Malvina Doutre, his wife, to Solon Marks, and duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Polk county, Minnesota, on the 25th day of August, A. D. 1882, at 1:25 o'clock p. m., in book "G" of mortgages, on pages 581, 582, and 583, which said mortgage was thereafter on the eighteenth day of May, A. D., 1900, by an instrument in writing, duly assigned by said Solon Marks, to William T. Souder, and John Trevor, both of Hennepin county, Minnesota, which said assignment was duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Red Lake county, Minnesota, on the Fourth day of June, A. D., 1900, at 2:10 o'clock p. m., in book "P" of mortgages, on page 4 8, which said mortgage conveyed and mortgaged the following described premesis in Polk county, now Red Lake county, Minnesota, to-wit:

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained, and pursuant to the statutes, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of said mortgaged premises, at public auction, at the front door of the court house in the village of Red Lake Falls, on Saturday, the 18th day of August, A. GRAND & GLORIOUS.

THE CELEBRATION OF INDEPENDENCE DAY AT RED LAKE FALLS.

THE BALL GAME WAS ONE OF THE BEST FEATURES OF THE DAY.

July 4, 1900, was a perfect day for a celebration. The crowds came early, and before the parade started the city was full of people. The parade was led by Mayor Watson, president of the day, accompanied by Hon. Marcus Johnson, followed by the G. A. R., the Band, the Local Redmen, the Fire Department, the Bicycle Club, and various business floats, marching down Main st., and over to Broadway, rounding up at the city hall, where the address was given by Angus McKinnon, of Crookston. Dinner was served by the ladies of the Presbyterian church, and largely patronized. At 2:30 the base ball game between Crookston and Red Lake Falls was called. The gathering here was something immense, probably the largest gathering that ever witnessed a game here; the game was one of the best ever played. In fact, so close and fine did the teams work, that the spectators looked on with almost breathless interest until the game was finished, showing a score of 2 to 6 in favor of Red Lake Falls' nine. Fine work was done by our boys all around, justifying the opinion expressed by the Gazette, that they can do up the best of them. A feature of the game was the splendid pitching by Smith, a home player, who showed himself equal to Wolff and our battery, Smith and Murphy, is one that other teams hereabouts will find a hard proposition to go up against.

The prizes for floats were awarded as follows: 1st prize, J. B. Armstrong; 2d prize, Fire Department; 3d prize, A. M. Anderson.

100 yard foot race—first, Coenen, $3; second, Peterson, $2; Bicycle race—first, Geo. Hennings, $2; second, Peter Miller, $1.00. Running broad jump—1st Dr. Boles, Crookston, 16 feet, 3 inches, $3; 2d, Wilfrid Lemieux, $2, averaged 15 feet, 8 inches. Standing broad jump—1st Bradish, 9 feet, 1 inch, $2; 2d Dr. Boles, $1, 8 feet, 9 inches. Hop, skip and jump—1st, 37 ft., 4 in. Bradish $2; Murphy, 2d, 34 feet, 6 inches, $1. Boys' 100 yard race—1st, Ned Taylor, 1st $1; 2d Dan Johnson, 50c. Boys over 13—1st, Jeffry Brouillette. The fire department had a hose race in the evening, and after several starts and stops the $5 prize was awarded to Hose Co. No. 1. Time 35 seconds. The coupling contest prizes were awarded to Moses Belair and Ed Bouillette, 1st prize; Albert Brunelle and Hector Bray, 2d prizes.

Two big dances were held in the evening, one in the opera house and one in the Pichette hall on Main st.

Altogether, the celebration was a grand success, and our visitors from city and country, returned to their homes well satisfied.

A poor man was walking up and down the street one day bemoaning his fate when a wicked fairy put him next to a fine job on the police force where he soon got into the habit of waiting at the back door for his regular glass every night and one day he lost his star and went from bad to worse until he became a politician, and was elected to the legislature.

Moral—If he had run across a good fairy she would have staked him to a farm along the North-Western Line in Northern Wisconsin and he might have won the state fair premium for individual agricultural habits.

THE DROUTH BROKEN.

Saturday night a copious rain fell, thoroughly saturating the earth to a depth of over a foot, and showery, cloudy weather following until Tuesday, gave the moisture chance to be absorbed by the parched earth, so that the full benefit of the rain was gotten. The drouth has been something unprecedented, extending over Minnesota and North and South Dakota, so that the wheat-producing area has been effected to such an extent as to reduce the estimates from 200,000,000 to 75,000,000 bushels. Nine months these states have been without moisture to speak of, the fall of '99 having been very dry, no snow during the winter, and no rain, with the exception of a shower now and then that scarcely laid the dust, until the first of July. That grain could have withstood this drouth at all, is an amazing thing. Some sections have suffered more than others. In the southern part of the state, matters had gotten to such a pass that pastures had entirely dried out, grass dead, and stockmen reduced to the necessity of feeding $15-a-ton hay, and expensive grain, in order to keep the stock alive. Many instances were cited where trees were felled for the stock to eat the leaves. These means answered the emergency until rains a couple of weeks ago came to the rescue. In northern Minnesota the conditions never got that bad. Although the grazing has been reduced, and stock had to be content with wiry grass, there was sufficient of this. The trees have never shown any signs of the drouth, the foliage being richly green, and the new growth heavy. Grain has suffered, to be sure, but the rains have come in time to assure at least half a crop, if conditions remain favorable. It has all demonstrated over again the wonderful virility of our soil, and its ability to stand either excessive moisture or drouth indefinitely without disastrous results. This is especially true of the country tributary to Red Lake Falls. It is a matter of no small pride to our people to know that here is the section which has resisted the drouth better than any other in the Northwest. In fact, it would scarcely have been thought possible that the grain could have been seeded on dry soil, and go through the stooling and formative process up to the first of July, and still be promising, with scarcely a drop of rain. But such has been the case, the only rain of any note previous to this last wetting having fallen the latter part of April. A year ago we had the conditions exactly the reverse to contend with, and it seems that our soil is proof against any extreme. A crop failure has never been recorded here, and this year, thanks to the wonderful recuperative qualities of our soil, this record will not be broken. Rain or shine, Red Lake county is a safe spot to build upon.

* * *

It is stated in the Interior Department at Washington that Indian agent Mercer at Leech Lake has recommended that certain timber on the Red Lake, Leech Lake and White Earth reservations to be disposed of next season. The agent speaks of millions of feet of timber on the reservations as having been burned over, and says that thousands of dollars will be saved to the Chippewa's if the timber is sold before it rots. The agent incidentally remarked that the Indians are opposed to the proposed park on the reservations and opposed to the disposal of the pine under the terms of the Nelson law.
